Vote Defeat Feared

By JIM HUME

Mayor Courtney Haddock surprised his city council this morning by expressing fears for the fate of a $5,570,000, five-year capital budget.

A few days ago Haddock agreed that the five-year master plan, trimmed by $3,018,000 from the proposal put to the people and defeated last June, should be voted on April 30.

This morning he was reported as saying he had doubts "that this is the right time to place the budget before the voters."

Ald. Peter Pollen, a member of the select committee studying budget proposals, said he was "surprised that the mayor would make that remark. That is, unless he knows something I don't know.

SHOULD STAND FIRM

"I think we have a good plan here, and I think we should stand firmly behind it."

Ald. Harold Olafson said he found it difficult to believe Haddock had actually made the statement.

"He's chairman of the committee," he said. "He's the one who was to make the presentation to city council this afternoon and recommend adoption of his proposals.

"How can he agree to a date, ask us to endorse his committee's recommendation and then, even before he actually does that, tell us he thinks the vote will be negative.

INVITING DEFEAT

"I'm just bewildered. It seems to me to be inviting defeat."

Ald. Cecil Parrott, another member of the mayor's special policy review committee, said he was "very disappointed in the mayor's statement."

He added that if property

Whooping, Yelling Indians Recapture Seattle Fort

By BOB MITCHELL
Times Staff

SEATTLE — The United States Army was caught flat-footed today as Indians, camped outside Fort Lawton, suddenly invaded the 1,100 acre military establishment for the third time in a month.

An estimated 50 to 75 Indians, about one-quarter of them Canadian, dashed through the fort gates only moments after their leader, Bernie Whitebear, shook hands cordially with the fort commander, a Captain Siegurst.

Siegurst came outside the gates to congratulate the Indian picketers on the announcement they would dismantle their camp today.

But as the teepees and tents were being taken down, Whitebear announced to television cameras and tape recorders the camp would be relocated — inside the fort.

And with whoops and yells the young Indians sprinted though the gates and into the forested, park-like fort.

"Bernie, you're playing games again," shouted a despairing military policeman as he began to mobilize his men for search and arrest of the Indians.

By 11 a.m. several demonstrators had been arrested inside the fort by military police.

Four attorneys were stationed outside the fort this morning to provide legal assistance for demonstrators arrested by military authorities, and Indians who went inside were instructed to name one of the attorneys and request legal aid.

But Indian leaders charged military police are denying that prisoners have requested legal aid.

They said this was a delaying tactic on the part of the military, and volunteers are going over the fort fences with the specific intent of getting arrested. Presumably they will be placed in the same cells with other prison-

Critically-Sick Baby Stolen In Well-Planned Hospital Raid

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A two-day-old girl reported to be in serious condition with a blood disease was forcibly taken from Kingston General Hospital today by a group of people who entered the hospital in early morning darkness.

The child had been admitted Wednesday night after being made a ward of the Children's Aid Society and was to have undergone a blood transfusion.

Dr. D. J. Delahaye said the infant "should have been treated early this morning and every hour that passes increases the risk of brain damage."

City and provincial police are searching for the infant.

Dr. Delahaye said the baby was suffering a hemolytic disease — a disease of the blood due to the difference in blood type between mother and baby.

He said the infant was taken into care by the Children's Aid Society at Smiths Falls, 55 miles northeast of here, because of the "mother's unwillingness to have the baby receive a blood transfusion."

The parents of the child apparently are members of the Jehovah's

Israeli Forces Attack Syria

Times News Services

Israel launched a major air and land attack against Syria today along the entire length of the 50-mile Golan Heights cease-fire line. The 7½-hour battle was the heaviest since the 1967 war.

Israel said its jets shot down three Syrian MiG 21s which rose to intercept the waves of Israeli planes concentrating on 15 Syrian artillery and seven anti-aircraft batteries in the Rafid area 25 miles south of Qneitr and 40 miles below Damascus. Israel said it lost one plane. It was believed to be a Phantom, the first loss of an F4.

GROUND BATTLE

Syrian communiques reported "large formations" of Syrian jets battled with Israeli planes while ground forces of the two nations pounded each other with tank and artillery fire.

Arab and Israeli troops were trading fire along the entire ceasefire line, said a Syrian military spokesman.

Syrian MiG fighters were trying to prevent Israel's aerial strafing of Syrian artillery positions, the spokesman added.

Syrian field artillery and armored units kept up a heavy barrage against Israeli positions in eight front-line areas.

Meanwhile in London, England, a highly-regarded international organization of jurists reported Wednesday it had "prima facie evidence on the serious maltreatment of Arab prisoners" in Israel.

The charge of "extremely brutal torture" was made by Amnesty International, an organization composed mainly of lawyers which enjoys a reputation for impartiality and care in its procedures and statements.

RUSSIANS SAID FLYING COMBAT JETS FOR EGYPT

By JESSE W. LEWIS JR.

BEIRUT (WP) — Soviet pilots were flying nine Egyptian air force MiG-21 fighters shot down in combat over the Suez Canal last week, according to reports here.

The Egyptian planes apparently were defending the sites of the new SA-3 air defence missiles that the Soviet Union has sent to Egypt.

The sites were under attack from Israeli Skyhawk jets.

Four of the Egyptian planes were shot down on March 25 and five on March 27, all over Egyptian territory. Most of the pilots parachuted to earth, although at least one is believed to have crashed with his plane.

★

These reports could not be verified officially.

Soviet pilots are not known to have flown Egyptian aircraft in combat before last week.

Soviet pilots have regularly flown test and training missions in Egypt. As the MiG fighters are assembled after shipment, Soviet flyers check them out before turning them over to the Egyptians.

The Soviet pilots also have carried on an active program of developing Egyptian pilots, flying with them on training exercises. But there appears to be no doubt that the pilots downed last week were on combat missions.

The pilots are part of a large Soviet military mission, currently numbering between 4,000 and 5,000 men, stationed in Egypt as instructors and advisers.

Casualties Shoot Up In S. Viet Battles

SAIGON (CP) — The offensive by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong continued at a high level today in South Vietnam, sending U.S. casualties toward a high for the year.

In one battle casualties suffered by the Americans were the heaviest in two years.

Eighteen more Americans were reported killed and 138 were wounded in more than half-a-dozen battles and 65 rocket and mortar attacks today.

Twice as many rocket and mortar attacks had been reported in the previous 24 hours, the largest number in eight months.

Battlefield communiques reported 61 Americans, 101 South Vietnamese and 552 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops killed in the last 38 hours. The American dead included a brigadier-general, the fifth U.S. general killed in the Vietnam war.

THE VICTIMS of Greater Victoria's patchwork approach to the vital function of public transit are the people who depend upon it. Seemingly interminable waits at bus stops, time-consuming transfers . . . could problems be eliminated by making transit a function of civic government rather than B.C. Hydro? (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

AT ROOT OF TRANSIT WOES

Who Should Run the Buses?

By JOHN MIKA
(Second of a Series)

Most communities have a transportation "network" of some sort.

Greater Victoria only has a disjointed "fretwork" — obvious to the newcomer but often forgotten by the long-time resident who has learned to adjust to frustrations until they seem natural and ordained.

That's only one of the by-products of an artificial patchwork of self-proud parochialism which demands expression through expensive and unco-ordinated million-dollar showpieces like Victoria's Blanshard freeway to nowhere.

Buses Afterthought

Saanich has provided the most recent example in its spanking new $1.2 million Mackenzie Avenue east-west artery, completed years ahead of the schedule suggested by the $70,000 regional transportation study report of 1965.

Typical of all local councils in this area, after the road was widened and punched through, the Saanich aldermen realized that transit buses play a part in moving people too, so they asked B.C. Hydro to put a cross-town loop into service using Mackenzie Avenue.

The importance of a cross-town bus service — strongly urged by the 1965 report as a valuable supplement to the existing radial system of routes — was underlined this year when the Silver Threads also made a strong pitch to Hydro's local transit manager H. K. Halls for a Mackenzie bus service.

Halls agrees that a cross-town route is needed but the Mackenzie route "is at least five years ahead of time from a transit point of view," he said in an interview.

Four new buses (each $35,000) would be needed and the daily operating cost of the proposed route would run to $1,600 but the best estimate of passenger load is 400 persons a day — bringing in $100 at most.

"Putting a service on Mackenzie would mean adding $200,000 to our annual operating loss and I just couldn't recommend that to my principals," Halls said.

"But there is a cross-town route that I could recommend now — it would run from Dockyard to the Mayfair Shopping Centre, along Finlayson to the new Simpsons-Sears Shopping Centre, up Shelbourne and then across to the university campus and the Gordon Head area.

Joint Effort

"That would give us at least three major traffic generators to sustain reasonable passenger revenues and all it would require is that the municipalities fill a few of the gaps in the street system."

The irony is that the 1965 transportation study recommended that those less costly gaps be filled before completion of Mackenzie. But they haven't been undertaken yet and one can't avoid the suspicion the main reason is they would require a joint effort by Victoria and Saanich.

The tragedy is that Saanich never asked Halls how transit could fit in before it decided to build its pride and joy, the $1.2 million Mackenzie Avenue matcher to the city's Blanshard extravaganza.

Mackenzie's expensive expansion is useful and traffic counts suggest it has doubled cross-town driving by some

2,500 vehicle round trips a day — giving faster routing to perhaps 3,500 individuals.

But would more people have been served by a less-expensive expansion of Tattersal (all within Saanich too and also recommended by the 1965 consultants report) or a joint effort with the city in developing the Finlayson-Shelbourne-Gordon Head route?

We'll never know now — simply because Saanich never asked transit operators when it was planning a cross-town route even though its choice (if it even considered alternatives) involved juggling the recommended priority schedule.

Saanich's resulting protests, that B.C. Hydro was unco-operative because it wouldn't run buses after Mackenzie was built, sound hollow.

The same communication and planning gaps have prevented transit service from being improved economically in other areas, Halls says. Closing Bay Street at Veteran's Hospital blocked off a potentially feasible bus route once the Eric Martin Institute and burgeoning office-store developments were in operation beyond the hospital.

Nobody consulted him when that was planned either, so its impact on the transit service never was measured to see if it would make a difference worth consideration.

People Losers

There exists a built-in planning gap on roads that cross municipal boundaries, not only in routing but in such fundamental construction decisions as to whether to build a skimpy base for asphalt that leads to another municipality or installing a stronger base needed for carrying buses over unstable ground, such as the Fairfield bogland that straddles the Oak Bay-Victoria boundary.

Municipal councils may score points against each other in parochial battles, but the people they represent end up losers through higher costs and poorer transportation service.

The blame doesn't rest on municipal engineers and administrative officals but on the prevalent system of making decisions which ignore three-quarters of the larger community outside a given municipality and even ignore the transit buses within its own boundaries.

David Campbell, the city's traffic engineer, summed up the point of view of a professional who has to agonize through this situation, when he made his special report to Mayor Haddock's new policy committee two months ago.

"So long as within our (separate divisions) we are concerned, each individually, with trying to optimize parts of the over-all transportation system, we will fail collectively," Campbell warned.

"Under a regional umbrella . . . the taxing, financing and planning of the transportation system not only has to be regional in nature but it must include all modes of transportation and be handled under one administrative structure.

What Benefits?

"Otherwise, the most efficient total transportation system is an impossibility."

This approach, naturally, would be neater but what would the benefits be?

The initial benefit would be to integrate — for the first time — the transit operations and planning with the road and traffic control system, no mean advantage when, on a per capita basis, the "average" resident of this region rides a transit bus about 70 times every year.

BCTF to Fight Staff Cutbacks

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Teachers Federation Wednesday night pledged support for militant action threatened by the West Vancouver Teachers' Association if permanent staff cutbacks result from the recent defeat there of an operating cost referendum.

The more than 1,000 delegates voted overwhelmingly on the final day of the three-day conference to back the West Vancouver teachers in their threat to walk out if permanent staff are dismissed for purely economic reasons.

The West Vancouver teachers also asked that teaching and learning conditions not be allowed to deteriorate below the present basic level in Metropolitan Vancouver.

STAND URGED

Peter Minchull of North Vancouver told delegates: "Someone, somewhere must take a stand against the government's financing formula. We think West Vancouver could provide a good example of the formula's shortcomings.

"We don't believe the ratepayers realize just what they have done."

Gary Onstad, president of the Burnaby Teachers' Association, said this should have been the major issue of the convention.

"Here we are as a body talking about going out on strike over pensions when we are prepared to accept the present finance formula."

However, Mr. Onstad said the wording of the support motion should have been changed to include probationary teachers, not only those on permanent staff. Failure to include probationary teachers was "an absolute and total sellout."

An amendment to include probationary teachers was defeated.

Standards of teacher competence and bargaining rights were also major areas of discussion.

The report of a special committee on bargaining rights recommended that teachers seek changes in the Public Schools Act to make it possible for teachers and trustees to bargain more effectively.

. . . HADDOCK QUERIES VOTE

owners were to be convinced the five-year plan was essential, it was imperative that council show a solid front.

Ald. Tom Christie said he felt it would be premature to comment on the mayor's statement or the budget prior to this afternoon's meeting.

"But I'll have something to say this afternoon, no doubt," Christie added.

While forecasting the demise of the capital budget program before it was unveiled, Haddock refused to disclose details of the program.

But the biggest saving in the more than $3 million trimmed from last year's capital budget came courtesy of the Capital Regional District Board.

In 1969 one of the items in the budget was $1,068,000 for the Clover Point trunk sewer system.

That project will now be undertaken by the district when Clover Point sewage disposal problems are finally settled.

MORE CHOPPING

A further $420,000 was trimmed from the 1969 referendum list when the committee decided to sideline, for at least the next five years plans to link Belleville Street with Vancouver Street.

City officials say striking the Belleville Street extension from the list does not mean that the city has agreed to build a loop road around St. Joseph's Hospital.

Also slashed from last year's list was a proposed fire fighting traning centre to cost an estimated $331,000 and a sports pavilion for Beacon Hill Park at an estimated $162,000.

Neither cut was expected to be challenged by council.

FIVE-YEAR DELAY

But Haddock and his special committee were expected to come under fire when they proposed that a further $523,000 be cut, thus setting back for at least five years redevelopment of the city's Garbally Road municipal structed in the horse and buggy era, have been described as totally unfit for modern use.

If the bid to get new buildings for city maintenance and work crews is successful the total budget package would be slightly over the $6 million mark, still down $2.5 million from June, 1969.

Surviving the cutting spree were funds earmarked for waterfront urban renewal last year but in the new five-year plan listed as funds for "the environmental beautification of the harbor."

Last June, slightly more than $1 million was allocated for the Rose-Blanshard and waterfront schemes.

On April 30 roughly the same amount of cash will be listed as for harbor improvement and community housing assistance grants.

ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Although the committee was successful in cutting several major items from the budget it had to concede to rising costs in the road construction field.

On the list of road priorities last year was the stage by stage development of Finlayson to North Dairy at a cost of $240,000 and North Dairy to Shakespeare for $158,000.

Mounting traffic volumes now make it imperative to push Finlayson from Blanshard to Shelbourne as quickly as possible.

Council is expected to endorse most of the recommendations but is likely to balk at Haddock's insistence that the vote be held on a multi-ballot to enable people to vote for the items they like.

It has been pointed out to the mayor that past experience indicates a long list of individual items to vote for usually creates confusion and the defeat of most items on the list.

While Haddock was openly forecasting defeat of the budget if the vote is held April 30, city staff was busy folding leaflets already back from the printers and calling for a solid "yes" vote on behalf of the mayor and council.

ers and will request legal aid of the waiting attorneys.

Whitebear, in his early 30s and a Vietnam veteran, didn't go into the fort this time. He told reporters it would take all day and perhaps several days to round up the invaders.

Demonstrators at the fort came from as far away as Texas and Oklahoma and included veterans of the recent Indian occupation of Alcatraz Island.

BABIES TOO

The Indians claim they do not recognize the white man's international boundaries, and three car-loads of young Indians, some with babies, drove to Seattle from Vancouver at midnight Wednesday when they received word of the demonstration by telephone.

Organizers said they believed telephone taps in the United States tipped off authorities to the impending action, and demonstrators from Canada were questioned closely at Blaine and Sumas border crossings.

Some were turned back, but were later permitted to cross.

They finally arrived at Fort Lawton between 5 and 7 a.m. today.

EDITOR WITH THEM

Fred Favel, editor of First Citizen, a British Columbia Indian newsmagazine with a circulation of 5,000, accompanied the Canadian contingent.

Fort Lawton, adjoining Seattle, is to be abandoned by the military some time this year.

Officially the fort is destined to be developed by the city and county of Seattle for recreation purposes.

Indians, however, claim the valuable property, which overlooks the Seattle waterfront, by aboriginal right.

They want to use it for a cultural centre, among other projects, but have indicated they are willing to discuss use of the park by ity and county.

B.C. SALES TAX 3 TIMES LUCKY!

If you buy a new piano, you pay the five per cent provincial sales tax.

Later, if you sell it to someone else, they pay the five per cent provincial sales tax too.

If they fail to keep up their payments or the deal otherwise falls through and you repossess the piano and decide to keep it for your own use after all, guess what?

You pay the five per cent provincial sales tax, again.

This was the opposition's interpretation of an amendment to the Social Services Tax Act in the legislature Wednesday night and it wasn't denied by the government.

★ ★ ★

Herb Capozzi (SC — Vancouver Centre) said he was "concerned" if that interpretation was correct because it didn't sound like such a good idea.

Garde Gardom (L — Vancouver-Point Grey) said the provision was not only a bad idea for individuals selling household effects but would be a tremendous source of confusion in business where repossessions are common.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said the tax applies only to repossessions when the goods are subsequently used personally by the person repossessing them. If they are re-sold, the new purchaser pays the tax.

All the New Democrats and Liberals voted against the amendment and all the government MLAs voted for it, but some looked puzzled.

Witnesses religious sect which forbids blood transfusions.

Dr. Delahaye said that shortly before the baby was to be treated at 1:15 a.m., the mother, with the assistance of several other persons, attempted to remove the child forcibly from the hospital.

A scuffle followed when doctors attempted to prevent removal of the baby in what Dr. Delahaye termed "a well-planned and well-organized operation involving several people and two cars."

Dr. Delahaye said that while he scuffled with two men, a woman and a man were able to get the baby out of the hospital corridor and into an elevator.

They ran from the hospital and jumped into one of the two waiting cars and fled.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Skies were sunny over most of B.C. today as the extensive ridge of high pressure offshore continues to shift eastward over the province. The next Pacific cold front in the current series will give extensive cloud and rain to northern B.C. coast this evening with mixed rain and snow reaching into the central interior on Friday. Over southern sections of the province there will ge an increase in cloudiness on Friday as the disturbance approaches.

The Weather and You

By CARL RIBLET JR.

The weather can influence the weight of everyone in your family. When it's cold outdoors, your body requires more food to maintain heat, especially more fats and carbohydrates such as potatoes and bread. In summer, people can more comfortably eat less and exercise more.

The Eskimos and Indians of the Arctic regions get a balanced diet by eating all of the parts of the animals and fish they kill. Their diet is entirely influenced by the climate. In hot climates people tend to eat less and they require more salt, water and vitamins in their daily intake of food.

The Eskimo seems to have more bounce and pep than the tropical dweller, and there is evidence that meat and eggs produced in the tropics are deficient in certain nutrients, especially vitamin B-1.

Cold hard facts about soft clean heat

Start with a basic fact. Everyone wants a warm, comfortable home. No cold spots. No uncertainty as to fuel supply. No breakdowns.

Electric Heat gives you all that. Constant, even heat throughout the entire house. Plus individual temperature control. Each room is as warm or as cool as you like it to be.

Then add the advantages of totally clean, completely silent heat. Add the space you gain because no furnace is required, no cumbersome tank. Add the time you save cleaning grimy walls, consider never having to order heating fuel again.

Beginning to make sense? Find out about Electric Heat. Call your B.C. Hydro office.

Without charge or obligation you can have a recommendation of the type and size of electric heating best suited to your home and an honest estimate of what it would cost.

The fact is, more than 24,000 B.C. homeowners now enjoy Electric Heat.

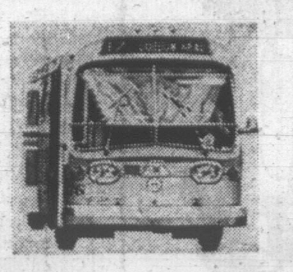
Parochialism Blocks Effective Public Transit



'Logic dictates that public transit, to be effective, must be a civic government function, correlated with all related functions of that authority.'

(No parochialism syndrome intrudes here. It's an interesting fact that though the radial transit routes all converge on the city, they serve a population which largely lives outside Victoria. Yet if existing bus operations were curtailed to the city limits the system would not lose money as it does now serving the outlying patrons.

(Obviously the suburbs need the city for jobs and services while the city needs suburbia for employees and customers and this inherent interdependence is so visible within a transit service that it cannot be balkanized the way roads are. Not even the most parochial alderman would contend his constituents should change buses at municipal boundaries on the way to work or shop as motorists now have to change road surfaces and traffic controls.

(And that may be a significant clue as to why the individual councils have so persistently dodged responsibility for providing transit service when the whole continent's experience attests it is a local government function: a successful civic transit service would have to operate as a single entity, proving the redundancy of four separate components.)

Once transit becomes a civic function, then the whole approach of operating it would change from the present B.C. Hydro effort to forget it as an inconvenient distraction to one of meeting the need for service and economy.

The cross-town bus route would have been at least a factor that was considered in the Mackenzie Avenue decision, for instance.

Parking meters also would get a second look.

Doubling the fines for overparking downtown has wrongly been described as an increase in rental of street parking space — it is in fact nothing more than raising the penalties for non-rental of prime space at cheap nickel or dime hourly rates.

Doubling or trebling the rates would not only increase revenue from motorists who create the costly demand for parking downtown, it also would reduce their numbers.

Those who quit parking in the very heart of town would park on the fringe of the core while others would take the bus, raising bus revenues, too, to help pay for service improvements.

And less curbside congestion would enable buses to move more quickly downtown, where they now have an average 10-miles-an-hour speed.

That in itself, would prove a double boon by reducing the transit system's operating costs (the world-renowned Brookings Institute has calculated that 18 per cent of total bus operating time is wasted in downtown traffic delays); and by increasing passenger business (the institute also has undertaken motivation analyses that show, even more than fares, the slower movement of buses than cars during rush hours is the main deterrent to transit patronage).

For example, the Seattle Transit System, which has a slightly speedier 12-mph downtown average, has projected a 10 per cent reduction in over-all operating costs if traffic controls were applied to enable buses to increase their average downtown speed by a single mile-per-hour. And a corresponding passenger load increase is possible.

As long as motorists are directly the concern of civic government while bus passengers are the responsibility of some other agency, the distorted view of downtown congestion will continue.

And the ratepayer will have to continue paying for the most expensive rather than most economical solutions of the downtown traffic jam.

The surburban ratepayer also pays because he shares at higher mileage costs, the miseries of traffic jams where he works, shops and seeks entertainment.

He also pays for fancy roads serving thinly populated areas built to some degree for future or prestige purposes, while doing without bus service.

Besides higher meter rates, there are a number of other solutions to congestion tried in various centres.

Tulsa, Okla., for instance, had difficulties very similiar to Victoria's until five years ago. It raised meter rates downtown, providing cheap all-day parking in a 3,000-car facility on the immediate perimeter of the downtown core and ran a FREE 5-minute-frequency loop service through the core and back. This effectively eliminated congestion and met costs.

City Hall's traffic engineer Campbell thinks the Memorial Arena parking lot could be developed into a similiar all-day parking facility but how — unless transit becomes a civic function — could the bus system be persuaded to provide a free loop service?

Three years ago, with the help of federal U.S. grants for the experiment, Peoria, Ill., undertook a demonstration project to see if a personalized bus service would attract suburbanites who drove to work downtown.

It's still running after the grants expired because it does pay its way, and here's the report on the experiment prepared for the International City Managers' Association:

"Riders are picked up within one-half block of their homes and later are picked up at work and returned to within a half-block of their homes. The buses are virtually non-stop after the riders for a particular district are picked up.

"The riders have guaranteed seats and buses have hostesses. This service, called the Premium Special, is contracted for by riders on a monthly, zoned basis. Peoria is well suited for this type of service because of the central location of its downtown business district and an unusually high concentration of large firms that employ a large percentage of the people who work in the central business district."

Analysis showed that 60 per cent of the industrial workers who used the Premium Special service and no less than 83 per cent of the office workers previously drove their own cars. Peoria has a population of about 110,000 and its general similiarity to Greater Victoria is obvious.

But, once again, this kind of venture can only be undertaken by a civic administration which regards transit buses as a tool in providing service to citizens and a rational, economical approach to the over-all transportation question—a life or death question in many cases.

The relationship between cars as a cause of congestion, and transit as one of the important remedies, which can pay its way precisely where the human traffic flow is heaviest, is inescapable — except to local politicians who prefer tackling the easier problems of pouring parochial asphalt than tussling with the tougher human problems.

But not all politicians cop out.

West Vancouver, where a model civic transit service has been meeting its citizens, needs for almost half a century, has won ratepayer approval consistently with a system planned to serve riders and reduce congestion at the same time—to the point of cutting the rush hour period in half.

And even Vancouver city council, which has roared for years for provincial handouts for freeways and bridges on behalf of motorists while ignoring transit, has changed its ways.

It's involved, with the rest of its regional district and B.C. Hydro, on a nine-month intensive transit study which is expected to map out an immensely improved and integrated transit system to be operated by the regional district, taking over from B.C. Hydro.

Meanwhile, back at the parish pumps on southern Vancouver Island, the civil leaders are still railing at B.C. Hydro demanding to know why it doesn't improve bus service by cutting fares, inaugurating mini-bus jitneys, increasing and extending routes, providing special off-peak fares, and so on.

Transit manager Hall's documentation of why these things are not the answer is not the point. The point is that B.C. Hydro really doesn't care and if the civic governments want to see service improved they will have to do it themselves on their citizens' behalf.

Halls agrees with the repeated contention that logic dictates that the transit service should be operated as a regional district functioning.

"But it can't be done piecemeal. It had to be planned and examined in conjunction with all other aspects—future land uses, traffic patterns, car ownership projections, all those things," he says.

"And you've got to decide whether the transit region should run from Oak Bay to Esquimalt or Swartz Bay to Sooke, or some other intervening boundaries—but what should be decided with a view to what this area will be like over the next 20 years.

"It's going to have to come to a regional function eventually. This area just isn't going to be able to sit on the lid much longer, the congestion is building up explosive pressure," says Halls.

"The best and most rational way of finding the answers is to hire independent outside consultants who can assess what the region needs and, because the fare box won't be able to carry all the transit operation, how much the community should pay for the service of having a transportation utility."

The last paragraph of Campbell's recommendations to city hall also urged as "most important" the convening of a review of the 1965 report to bring it up to date and plan a comprehensive approach to regional transportation.

(NEXT: Is the bogeyman of civic subsidies real enough to warrant the terror it strikes into aldermanic hearts when transit takeover is whispered?)

AT LAST the bus arrives. Would it be faster, offering more effective service, if public transit were a responsibility of civic government rather than an outside authority?

Deeper Into the Labyrinth

IF THERE WAS ANYTHING that President Nixon did not need to have added to his difficulties in Vietnam it was Laotian or Cambodian complications. Now he has both, and an already formidable problem has become virtually insoluble. The crux of the problem lies in the head-on conflicts in United States policy which it presents.

Mr. Nixon is committed to gradual removal of United States forces and the transfer of military operations to South Vietnam troops. At the same time he is on record as saying American military operations will not be extended to the countries neighboring Vietnam, in particular Laos and Cambodia. But if North Vietnam and Viet Cong invasions threaten the sovereignty of either of those countries—and they are posing that potential threat today—can the United States turn its back on Southeast Asia and leave these plums to be plucked by the Communists? It was to prevent such a development that the whole Vietnam fiasco was undertaken in the first place by Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

By most standards it would appear to be in the best interests of Hanoi to cool the Vietnam war, encourage the Americans to depart, and leave the eventual engulfment of South Vietnam to the political processes which would follow. But this course seems to be farthest from the North Vietnamese mind. No sooner is American withdrawal scheduled than the Northern forces step up their fighting in South Vietnam, launch alarming thrusts into the adjacent countries, and give every indication of pursuing an aggressive military policy without regard to its effect on the United States. It appears to be a policy born either of desperation or of supreme confidence—and the latter, under present conditions, seems the more likely answer.

There are grounds for such confidence. With Washington racked by strains from all directions—by policies which do not mesh, by increasing turbulence on the home front, by the need for decision in other parts of the world which is being hampered by the Vietnam commitment, by the obvious need to strengthen communication and co-operation with Russia in nuclear disarmament and control, by a host of positive and progressive requirements which are seriously impeded by the pursuit of a war which divides the nation—in view of all these considerations, Hanoi is in a position to cause the greatest damage with the least risk and expense to itself.

This would be a classic opportunity for firm leadership by the United Nations to resolve many of the Southeast Asian difficulties and rescue all the participants from their dangerous positions. But the United Nations is only the sum of its membership, and where the great powers are concerned—Russia in Hungary and in Czechoslovakia, the United States and Hanoi in South Vietnam—its limitations in regard to bold peace moves become sadly apparent. The state of the world today demonstrates not so much the failure of the United Nations as the need for it to function.

Firm Rulings on Broadcasters

THE CANADIAN RADIO-TELEVISION Commission's refusal to renew the licences of three radio stations in Ottawa, Toronto and Calgary beyond December 31 is an indication that Commission Chairman Pierre Juneau is standing firm on his commitment to more and better Canadian programming. In making the decision the commission said the stations had failed to comply with CRTC requirements designed to ensure good-quality broadcasting service. Failure to disclose fully the ownership of one station and certain shareholder disputes in another were also among the reasons for cancellation.

In recent months the CRTC has said that the use of microwave would not be permitted for the wholesale importation of United States programs, and it has also proposed stiff Canadian-content rules for the broadcast media. In another ruling the commission denied an application by a Nova Scotia radio station to sell its interests to a Montreal firm because, in the commission's words, it would be in the public interest for the station to be run by a firm "with more direct involvement in the social, cultural and economic life" of the region.

To many broadcasters the CRTC smacks of totalitarianism and an infringement on private enterprise. But the commission has a responsibility to encourage Canadian content in broadcast programs and to ensure that the privilege of using the public domain is recognized by broadcasters as a trust to be employed in the interest of the public. It is good to see that the Commission is facing up to its duty and implementing the regulations with firmness. As it has said on occasion: "Broadcasting in Canada can and must express the originality of Canada and Canadians." Some valuable precedents in enforcement are being set.

Europe Sets an Independent Course

TWO RECENT EUROPEAN elections are further indications of a political trend towards democratic socialism on that continent. The latest socialist victory occurred in Austria where Bruno Kriesky won a two-seat majority over the conservative People's Party. The Austrian election came hard on the heels of Willy Brandt's Social Democratic Party victory in West Germany. It is interesting to note that socialism was anathema to both Germany and Austria 30 years ago, and fear of the socialism-communism alternative was used by Adolf Hitler to achieve power in 1933.

In Europe today Britain, Finland, Sweden, Germany and now Austria have socialist-led governments of some type. But modern European socialism is far different from the fiery brand fought for in the thirties by the communists. In fact, the Austrian socialists claim the tacit communist support in the 1966 election cost them 30,000 votes. And the communist governments of Eastern Europe still look upon West European socialists as unreconstructed capitalists, which they are in many cases. Varying degrees of capitalism are integral parts of all five West European socialist economies.

It is impossible to speculate on whether the trend will become a stampede in the seventies. There are indications that Britain may reject Harold Wilson's Labor Party in the next national election but there is growing political muscle in the socialist parties of both France and Italy. In an odd reversal of North American political logic the socialist star seems to rise as the country becomes more prosperous. This certainly is true in Germany, Austria and Sweden and may prove so in Britain if the economy continues to progress.

The prospect of a left-leaning, common-market oriented Europe and a right-leaning North America is a possibility in the seventies. But no matter what the international political future may bring, Europe has thrown off the cloak of inferiority it wore after the Second World War and is demonstrating to the world a return of its independence.

Weighing the Canadian Oil Import Issue

THERE has been no letup in the controversy resulting from President Nixon's temporary limitations on oil imports from Canada and the broader moves toward a U.S.-Canadian agreement on energy resources in line with the recommendations of the majority of the president's task force on oil imports. In a letter to the president made public on Friday, 25 senators, including the leading figures of both parties, called for suspension of the quota on Canadian oil pending exploration of the possibility of a broader agreement, which would involve freer flows of oil and natural gas, as well as other energy resources, over the long term.

Traynor

The letter carries forward the attack on the quota, but adds a significant refinement in relating modification of the restriction to the broader question of an energy agreement. This is comparable with the use of the quota as a bargaining lever, since U.S.-Canadian negotiations would take place under the threat of the activation of the quota in the event of a failure to come to agreement on sharing energy resources generally. (It is not clear whether this was the intent of the authors of the letter.)

Further Light

Other developments in Congress have shed further light on the background to U.S. moves on energy resources, and on related security considerations.

Testifying before the Senate subcommittee on anti-trust and monopoly, the head of the U.S. oil import administration, J. J. Simmons, foretold an immense increase in energy demands over the next 15 years. In the period between 1970 and 1985, the U.S. would consume more oil than it had used between the discovery of oil and 1967. Consumption of natural gas would exceed by 40 trillion cubic feet the total consumed by the nation to date. There would be corresponding demands for electricity and coal to generate it.

Mr. Simmons, an associate of Interior Secretary Walter Hickel, spelled out the implications thus;

"There is a general recognition among knowledgeable people that at presently indicated rates of discovery, it is highly unlikely that our gas supply will be able to keep up with the demand over the next several years.

"But it is not only gas that is in dwindling supply: in five years out of the past nine, we have failed to replace as much oil as we withdrew from our proved reserves. We are uncomfortably close to the limits of our capacity to generate electricity.

"For the past two years we have consumed more coal than we mined . . . the point is that unless prompt action is taken we shall become an energy deficient nation."

Mr. Simmons was expressing the viewpoint of the minority of task force members who dissented from the main conclusions. This group, including Mr. Hickel, took a more cautious view toward imports of oil and other energy resources in general, and a U.S.-Canadian energy agreement in particular. Its members placed greater emphasis on stimulating domestic production of oil and gas through the maintenance of high domestic prices within the framework of the existing system of quotas restricting imports of lower-priced foreign oil.

Mr. Simmons argued that the higher prices should be accepted in the interests of security. He spelled out the minority group's view of the security of Canadian oil — a view which is more easily reconcilable with the administration's quota restrictions than is the majority statement that Canada is an eminently secure source of oil.

Reliable

Basically, there was a high degree of reliability in the movement of oil overland from the Canadian to the American Midwest. "The Canadian government and its people are stable and friendly toward the United States and oil flowing into Toledo by pipeline from Alberta is physically more secure from attack than oil from Houston shipped by tanker to Philadelphia."

But there was an element of doubt as to the maintenance of supplies to the U.S. in the event of an emergency, because Canada depended on foreign suppliers for roughly half its consumption of oil (Imports into eastern Canada were at the rate of about 680,000 barrels a day in 1969, compared with Canadian exports to the U.S. of over 800,000 barrels a day in the early months of this year.)

"As long as Canada is faced with providing for the contingent loss of nearly 700,000 barrels a day in imports, she is in no position to guarantee the continuance of exports to the United States. The security of oil imports from Canada may be considered approximately equal to the security of Canada's imports from overseas."

Lack Pipeline

In testimony elsewhere in Congress, administration officials have used similar reasoning in accounting for the decision to subject Canadian imports east of the Rockes to a quota of 395,000 barrels a day. They have been put on the spot, however, by the fact that there is not at present a pipeline by which western Canadian oil could be diverted to eastern Canada to replace foreign oil denied in an emergency. Critics of the quota argue that there is no possibility of interruption of Canadian supplies, therefore the quota cannot be justified as a hedge against this.

Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts has gone so far as to suggest that the Nixon administration may be pressuring the Canadian government to establish a pipeline linking eastern and western Canada, so that eastern Canada could reduce its dependence on foreign imports. It could be reasoned that this would remove the element of insecurity from the Canadian oil picture, thus laying the foundation for large imports into the U.S. Midwest, as part of an overall energy agreement.

The task force made such an agreement contingent on action to curb oil imports into eastern Canada, but administration officials have denied any intention of pressuring Canada in the manner suggested by Sen. Kennedy.

Letters to the Editor

Library and Pool

Two adjacent items in a recent (March 19) issue of The Times pointed up clearly the remarkable confusion which appears to exist among our local governing bodies on the matter of priorities.

One was a well-reasoned column by Arthur Mayse pointing out the value of the Young Adult section of the Greater Victoria Public Library, which it is proposed to abolish as a "money-saving measure." The other headed "Swimmers Face Hot Summer" notes that "last year Crystal lost approximately $3500 per month" and by inference that the deficit on the Olympic depths now under construction will run even higher.

It may be argued that the Library Board is not an elected body, but it is dominated by the representatives of the various councils, who hold the strings of an allegedly lean purse. The Board, having spent $15,000 on a survey by "business efficiency expert," is avowedly determined to get value for money, even at the expense of disrupting the morale of a hard-working, competent and courteous library staff, and apparently declines to heed any protests.

The City Council has squandered its nest-egg on a hole in the ground which will benefit only a small section of the community, though the annually increasing deficit on the operation must be borne by all taxpayers. The Public Library on the other hand serves all sections and all ages of the community.

The optimum solution would be for another Mr. McPherson to bequeath sufficient funds for a new library building; should such a miracle occur, it is to be hoped he would make the bequest so specific that none of our assorted governing bodies could misapply it. — N. T. Porter, 245 Linden.

Liquor and Information

The B.C. legislators, during the present 1970 session, passed a law authorizing full legal rights for 19-year-old young people. The B.C. Liquor Inquiry Commissioners also recommended reducing the legal age for drinking to 19 years, and reducing the age of majority to 19 years.

Before this law is enacted, however, the B.C. legislators have a moral responsibility. Their responsibility, surely, is to provide these young people with factual information concerning the serious problems, physiological, psychological and sociological, associated with alcohol consumption. — Janetta Rogers (Mrs. H. S.), Supt., W.C.T.U.

Looking Back

From the Times of April 2, 1910.

Thirty thousand emigrants, it is stated, will sail from Liverpool for Canada in 23 steamers during this month. Earlier, 200 British settlers, carrying in the aggregate between $500,000 and $750,000 in hard cash arrived in Montreal on the Empress of Britain. The settlers are leaving immediately for the West.

Death of A Lake

By HAROLD GREER
from Toronto

BETWEEN 1956 and 1960, 43 residents of Minamata, Japan, were killed and 68 others were hideously crippled by mercury poisoning, the result of eating fish taken from Minamata Bay, the site and sewer of the Japan Nitrogen Company. In 1966, the Swedish government banned the use of mercury fungicides after discovering high contamination levels in soil, water and fish. These facts are well-known in the scientific world and they stress the most serious questions concerning the mercury pollution of Lake St. Clair, where commercial fishing has now been banned indefinitely.

Greer

Because the Ontario Water Resources Commission knew early in 1969 that the mud bottom of Lake St. Clair was extensively polluted with lethal concentrations of mercury. Mud samples taken during a biological survey of the lake in 1968 revealed concentrations as high as hundreds of parts of mercury per million parts of mud. The World Health Organization has set the safe level for human consumption at .05 parts per million; the fish of Minamata Bay contained 27 to 100 parts per million.

The Commission also knew where the mercury was coming from: the concentrations were greatest just below the point where Dow Chemical Canada Ltd. at Sarnia, discharges effluent into the St. Clair River.

Why then did the O.W.R.C. not act immediately? Why has it taken the federal department of fisheries until now to discover that fish taken from Lake St. Clair are not safe to eat?

The answer to these questions is a frightening mixture of political complacency, bureaucratic lethargy, scientific indifference and government insularity.

'On Program'

The federal government had ample warning. Dr. Anthony Keith, director of the Canadian Wildlife Service, learned of the Swedish experience at an international conference in 1966 and knew then that Canada was importing large amounts of a mercury fungicide called Panogen from Sweden. Subsequently mercury pollution was discovered in the Saskatchewan River and the federal fisheries department began testing lakes and rivers across the country. But there is no evidence it went after the provinces to close up the known sources of mercury pollution.

The Ontario government has been even more slow-footed, considering that for the past year Fred Burr, the New Democratic Member of the Legislature for Sandwich-Riverside, has been trying to alert the government to the mercury danger.

Last June 27, Mr. Burr asked Energy and Resources Minister George Kerr if, in view of Sweden and Japan, he would not investigate the seriousness of the problem in this province. Mr. Kerr replied he was "not aware that mercury compounds pose a pollution problem in Ontario" but he would look into it. Five months later, Mr. Kerr said fish taken from suspected water were being analysed. Last November, he wrote to Mr. Burr that it would not be wise to prohibit the use of mercury by industry at the present time. All this, it may be noted, after the Ontario Water Resources Commission, which Mr. Kerr administers, had discovered the condition of the Lake St. Clair bottom.

Meanwhile, the Commission was talking to the Dow Chemical Company. Although Dow was the only conceivable source of the mercury in Lake St. Clair, the O.W.R.C. felt it had to prove it. O.W.R.C. officials were able to show there was leakage from the system by deducting Dow's consumption of mercury from its inventory and coming up with a deficit which could only be explained by leakage.

Ample Warning

Thus satisfied, O.W.R.C. put the company "on program" — a timetable for progressively reducing the amount of mercury discharged down to zero. Just when this was started is unclear; there is some uncomfortable evidence that it began as a crash program only a few weeks ago, with Dow dropping from 200 pounds of mercury pollution to 20 pounds. In any event, the company admitted when the ban on commercial fishing was announced that its effluent still contains .7 parts per million of mercury — over 10 times above the W.H.O. safe limit.

As for fish analysis, Mr. Kerr's statement that O.W.R.C. was analysing suspected fish for mercury covered a multitude of sins. The O.W.R.C. at that time did not have the means or the know-how to detect mercury in fish. It had to send its samples to the University of Southern California, which samples, when they were returned some six months later with readings as high as seven parts per million, resulted in the fisheries ban.

This situation hardly reflects to the credit of the scientific community.

Well, it may be said, we have been lucky. Nobody apparently has been poisoned by the Lake St. Clair fish. Dow Chemical says it will be down to zero pollution in a few weeks time. The O.W.R.C. now has techniques not only for measuring mercury in water but for dectecting it in fish.

The St. Clair fishermen of course, are out of work and income and no one knows if the Lake, with almost 20 years of insoluble and virtually indestructible mercury in its bed will ever be safe again. But then, you can't win 'em all.

Canada's Supreme Court Moving Into a New Era

By SIDNEY R. PECK

RETIRING Chief Justice J. R. Cartwright, who presided over landmark Drybones hearing.

What has become known as the Drybones decision, made by the Supreme Court of Canada in November, may prove to be one of the most important in the court's 95-year-old history.

That decision establishes that the Canadian Bill of Rights does away with parliamentary supremacy at the federal level. It is now open to the court to hold that an act which Parliament is clearly empowered to pass by the British North America Act (for example, a criminal law or a law in relation to Indians) is invalid if it infringes a human right or fundamental freedom guaranted by the Bill of Rights.

Because the bill speaks in general terms, it has no precise meaning until its terms are defined. And because these terms are defined by the court, the court will, in effect, supervise Parliament and so be able to play a broader role in the political life of Canada than in the past.

Mr. Peck is an associate professor at the Osgoode Hall Law School of York University in Toronto. He wrote this article for The Globe and Mail.

Until the time of the Drybones decision, the court had power under the Canadian version of parliamentary supremacy, to invalidate a federal act only if it held that in passing the act Parliament exercised legislative authority assigned by the BNA Act to the provincial legislatures.

Similarly, the court could invalidate a provincial act only if passing of the act involved the exercise of legislative authority assigned to Parliament. However, it could not invalidate an act on the basis of the act's policy content.

The Bill of Rights was passed in 1960, but until the Drybones case it was never given much weight despite a few sporadic attempts in that direction. Courts treated it only as a guide to the interpretation of statutes and not as authority for declaring federal legislation invalid.

Treated Indians Harshly

The Drybones case involved the minor charge, under the Indian Act, of being intoxicated off a reserve. Six of the nine Supreme Court justices declared the applicable section of the act inoperative because it treated Indians more harshly than other federal Northwest Territories legislation treated non-Indians and therefore offended against the principle of equality before the law expressed in the Bill of Rights.

Two considerations must be kept in mind in assessing the new power of the court. The first relates to what the court has done in the past and the second to what it will do in the future. Many students of the court agree that in the past, at least in some cases, its decision that an act was invalid, although formally based on the division of power issue, was influenced by assessment of the act's policy content.

For example, during the 1950s in the context of invalidating provincial legislation on the ground that such legislation could be passed only by Parliament, the court developed what has been called a judicial bill of rights which imposed limitations on provincial power to abridge the basic freedoms.

In the past, the court was constrained by a tradition which formally excluded the policy of legislation from the scope of its concern. The view of the Bill of Rights taken in the Drybones decision removes in large part the constraints of that tradition.

For, when the court applies the Bill of Rights as it did in the Drybone case, it must define the values protected by the bill and assess the policy content of legislation in terms of those values. In other words, it must be concerned with policy.

It is difficult to predict how the court will exercise its power to supervise Parliament. The court might define the freedoms and rights guaranteed by the bill narrowly, or it might define them broadly.

It might exercise restraint in deference to Parliament and rarely hold that an act offends against the bill, or it might use its powers actively to curb parliamentary abridgements of the basic freedoms.

Judges might differ from one another on which approach is to be followed. The majority view might favor a broad interpretation and active implementation of the bill in one period, and a narrow interpretation and judicial restraint in another.

In short, the Drybones decision is important because it declares that the Bill of Rights has transferred a new power of supervision to the Supreme Court.

The Drybones interpretation represents a move away from British constitutional principles in the direction of U.S. constitutional principles.

However, there are still important differences between the Canadian and U.S. positions. In the first place, the Canadian Bill of Rights provides that Parliament can declare that any particular piece of legislation will operate, notwithstanding provisions of the Bill of Rights.

By making such a declaration, Parliament (in effect, the government of the day) can remove any specific act from the supervision of the court. Of course, it will be politically difficult for any government to admit that an act it proposes to pass is likely to be held offensive to the Bill of Rights.

Secondly, the Canadian Bill of Rights applies only to federal laws and not to provincial laws. The U.S. Bill of Rights, too, was directed mainly at the acts of Congress rather than those of the state legislatures. However, by a process of interpretation over a long period, the U.S. Supreme Court applied to the state legislatures many of the strictures originally intended to apply only to Congress.

Thirdly, although the Supreme Court has declared that the Bill of Rights gives it the power to supervise Parliament, the court is a creature of Parliament.

Unlike the U.S. Supreme Court, which is established under the Constitution and can be altered only by constitutional amendment, the Supreme Court of Canada owes its existence to the Supreme Court Act passed by Parliament, and may be altered or even abolished by a simple act of Parliament.

Finally, because the Canadian Bill of Rights is an act of Parliament, it can be amended by a simple majority vote in Parliament.

Subject to Supervision

Accordingly, if the bill were to be interpreted by the court in a way unpalatable to the government, the government, by amending the bill, could overrule the court. Thus, if the court supervises Parliament, it is ultimately subject to supervision by Parliament.

In the United States, the position is different. The Bill of Rights is part of the Constitution and cannot be amended by an act of Congress, but only by a complicated procedure which requires the agreement of Congress and a majority of the states.

However, despite the formal finality of the U.S. Supreme Court's decisions on the Bill of Rights, Congress and the President may exercise ultimate political control under sufficiently pressing circumstances by increasing the membership of the court and appointing justices who will decide appeals in a way acceptable to government.

The characteristics of the Supreme Court of Canada flow from its image as a dispute-settling court. Thus, it is thought proper that judges be selected largely on the basis of their careers as lawyers. The court's practice in the majority of cases is to hear argument only on behalf of the parties directly involved in the dispute which gives rise to the case. Its decisions are purportedly based solely on legal material to the exclusion of social science material.

If the court now is recognized as a policy-making organ of government, at least in cases involving interpretation of the Bill of Rights, it will be necessary to review the court's institutional characteristics.

On the basis of the new role of the court, the policy preferences of prospective justices (and not their legal skill alone) should be considered in the appointment process.

It might be thought that members of Parliament should have the right to examine the qualifications of prospective judges who, when appointed, will supervise the acts of Parliament.

Recognition that the court determines policy might lead to the belief that special interest groups that will be affected by the policy to be made should be allowed to make representations to the court.

Finally, the recognition that the court is making policy makes it appear reasonable that the justices should consult all material that may guide their policy choices and not limit themselves to considering legal material.

The court's decision that it is the guardian of the Bill of Rights, which gives rise to the need to consider these changes in its institutional structure, comes at a time when changes have been suggested from another source.

Constitutional Debate

As part of the constitutional debate sparked largely by Quebec's demands for change, there have been suggestions that the judges who decide disputes between the federal and provincial governments should not be appointed by the federal government alone and that a court composed largely of English-speaking lawyers should not hear appeals from French-speaking, civil-law Quebec.

It also has been suggested that, in a federal state, the court system should be federalized (as it is in the United States) and that the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court should coincide with the legislative authority of Parliament and, accordingly, that it should not have jurisdiction to hear appeals in matters under provincial law.

These considerations have led to suggestions that the existence of the court should be based on a constitutional provision not subject to repeal by Parliament; that Supreme Court justices be appointed by federal and provincial governments; that the Supreme Court be divided into three banks, one to hear appeals from the common law provinces, one to hear appeals from Quebec and one to hear appeals involving federal and constitutional law; and, alternatively, that appeals involving provincial matters should be determined finally by the provincial courts of appeal with no further appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The new role the court is to play lends a new urgency to all of these questions which have been raised in recent years.

Provincial Powers?

The recent decision affects the constitutional debate in yet another way. Part of that debate involves the distribution of power between province and federation. Should the powers of one be limited in favor of the other? The current decision, appearing in the midst of that debate, establishes a blanket restriction on all powers to be exercised at the federal level—that is, a restriction against the abridgement of the rights and freedoms protected by the bill.

If federal powers are to be limited in that way, should provincial powers remain unlimited? If the doctrine of parliamentary supremacy has been abandoned at the federal level, should it remain at the provincial level?

Key Appointment at a Crucial Time

By MICHAEL ENRIGHT

Nobody remembers very much about David Ferguson except that he was a Scot and during his life said one memorable thing: "Show me the man and I'll show you the law."

People will be watching closely for the next few months to see how much of Mr. Justice Bora Laskin the man will be bound up in what he determines as law in the Supreme Court of Canada.

Last month, at 57, he was named to the highest court in the land by Justice Minister John Turner.

And he became a part of that court without ever having practiced as a lawyer.

He has spent his life more as a teacher than tactician and has built an enviable international reputation as an architect of legal thought rather than its engineer.

He is the youngest of the nine-member court and its first Jewish judge. For five years he has been a judge of the Ontario Court of Appeal.

His appointment comes at a crucial time in the court's history when the future role of the tribunal is being debated and scrutinized by both lawyers and laymen.

By tradition, the court has held to the position that it settles legal disputes and does little more.

Splendid Isolation

But recently some authorities have speculated that the court should come out of its splendid isolation. They feel it should move away from the British tradition of dispute-settling toward the U.S. heritage of policy-making by the Supreme Court.

At several points in his career, Mr. Justice Laskin has shown himself to be a legal activist, uncomfortable within the restrictions of precedence and tradition, anxious to push the law toward social issues.

Both as a man and a judge, he has demonstrated that he knows the power of the law and is not afraid of it.

In 1965 he said: "It seems to me a truism that power contracts by a failure to use it."

Three years ago, in a speech, he said the law must, by its nature, come to grips with social problems as well as individual cases.

As an example he used racial discrimination. When confronted by prejudice, he said, the law must lead and educate and not merely maintain the status quo.

Strong Federalist

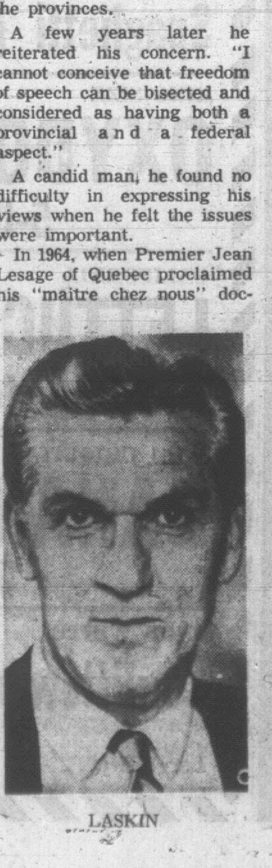
Philosophically, Mr. Justice Laskin has been a strong federalist, adhering to the belief that certain issues in law cannot be divided between the federal authority and the provinces.

For instance, in 1954, as president of the Association of Canadian Law Teachers, he expressed concern that the control of freedom of speech was within the authority of the provinces.

A few years later he reiterated his concern. "I cannot conceive that freedom of speech can be bisected and considered as having both a provincial and a federal aspect."

A candid man, he found no difficulty in expressing his views when he felt the issues were important.

In 1964, when Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec proclaimed his "maitre chez nous" doctrine, Mr. Justice Laskin thought the proposal would lead to a further deterioration of federal power.



LASKIN

"The whole is greater than the sum of its parts in political life," he said.

Possibly because of his role in settling labor disputes over the years, Mr. Justice Lasking is known as a left-of-centre judge. His effectiveness as a labor arbitrator has added to his reputation.

Over the years he has been involved in labor disputes in such disparate fields as railways, television, hospitals and lumbering. In a 1959 arbitration decision he agreed with a group of theatre owners that the presence of stagehands in movie houses had — sadly — become obsolete.

Although management respected him, he was known as a man with special sensitivity toward the problems of the working man. Nonetheless, in a dispute involving the government - owned Polymer Corp., he became the first Canadian arbitrator to award damages against a union for breach of contract.

Often Dissented

On the Ontario Court of Appeal he quickly gained a reputation for aggressive judgment, often on the dissenting side. One of his most famous dissents involved the appeal of Russell Horsburgh, a Chatham minister convicted of a criminal offense involving juveniles.

The conviction was upheld, but Mr. Justice Laskin entered what one of his former law students described recently as "a masterful dissent." When the case went before the Supreme Court of Canada, the court took the Laskin view, and quashed the conviction.

In another dissent, Mr. Justice Laskin argued against the conviction on obscenity charges of Dorothy Cameron, the proprietor of a Toronto art gallery. However, a majority of his colleagues upheld the trial court, and the Supreme Court of Canada refused to hear a further appeal, so the conviction stood.

He has also served on numerous boards and special commissions. At present he heads a special committee which will recommend a new president of York University. There has been some muted speculation that he himself would make the best president.

Faculty Dispute

His mammoth study of the Ontario Industrial Standards Act led to 58 recommendations designed to increase the Act's effectiveness.

Mr. Justice Laskin was born in Fort William. His brother Saul is mayor of the new combined community of Thunder Bay. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto and Harvard and was called to the bar in 1937.

He was a lecturer in law at the Osgoode Hall Law School from 1945 to 1969, when he became embroiled in a faculty dispute. The dean of the school, C. A. Wright, resigned because of what he felt were badly planned teaching procedures; Mr. Justice Laskin resigned with him.

In his written judgments from the bench he has impressed the legal community not only with the quality of his analysis but with the clarity of his writing.

Mr. Justice Laskin is the holder of five honorary degrees and the author of several books and articles. Last April he was one of 15 judges in the world called to New York to study and discuss the future of the World Court.

Mr. Justice Laskin thought it imprudent to comment on his appointment to the Supreme his appointment to the Supreme Court or what judicial course he might follow.

He did say that he found the law "thoroughly exhilarating."

He is married to the former Peggy Tenenbaum, and they have two children — John, 26, a law student at the University of Toronto, and Barbara, 19, in her second year at U of T.

Although his judicial responsibilities leave him little spare time, Mr. Justice Laskin has a fondness for televised hockey and football, and an insistence on informality around his home in Toronto.

Friends say he is not fluently bilingual, but has a good reading knowledge of French and understands the spoken language well.

Free Bus Plan Hits Road Bump

The idea of free metro transit service as a control on air pollution, eliminating the bother of change-making and fare collection, was left standing at the bus stop Wednesday.

Union delegates at Victoria Labor Council meeting were exhorted by Dawson R. Miller, of Office and Technical Employees Union, to ask B.C. Hydro to cancel bus fares and bill downtown merchants for 60 per cent of operating costs, and balance to be paid by the municipalities.

One delegate agreed there was merit in the idea if it cut down the number of pollution-causing cars on city streets, and reduced the traffic congestion.

NO PIPEDREAM

Another said it was no pipedream, just good business to provide the transportation needs of the working people.

But they were outvoted overwhelmingly.

Delegates tabled another motion dealing with transit, which asked for a protest to B.C. Federation of Labor over B.C. Hydro's new exact fare system.

The resolution said it was contrary to Canadian law to refuse payment in legal tender, even though it may not be the precise amount required.

NO REFUSAL

But a delegate from the transit drivers'-union pointed out that drivers are not refusing to let people ride, or refusing to accept amounts of cash in excess of the fare.

He said Hydro even lets people ride free if they have no money, as long as they give the driver their name and address so the transit authority can collect the fare later.

The driver said anyone offering currency or odd change would simply have to take a chit from the driver, deposit his money and claim a refund on the balance by taking the chit to the authority later.

Two delegates suggested a campaign to strangle the system by having passengers deliberately give the wrong amount o bus drivers.

The driver said the exact fare system was promoted by his union to eliminate a hazard to drivers encountered in many other North American cities, the threat of robbery, injury and death for the few dollars carried by drivers with which they make change.

TOTAL BILL FOR SEWERS $400,000

A total expenditure of $400,000 must be made before Oak Bay is completely free of septic tanks, Oak Bay council's works committee was told Wedesday.

Municipal engineer Geoffrey White said three areas were involved.

These are the King George Terrace section, an area extending from Satellite to the golf course end of Beach Drive, and a third area in the Uplands, which is on a municipal septic tank.

The third area is the north side of Loon Bay and an individual property to the south of the bay.

The Royal Victoria Yacht Club is seeking to extend moorage into Loon Bay.

Several complaints have been received on pollution in the Satellite and Beach Drive section which White estimated would cost about $150,000 to convert with $60,000 of this going for a pumper station and Satellite

The committee decided to ask his department to prepare estimates of the work needed to correct the situation in the Satellite area, particularly around the Oak Bay Beach Hotel. The municipal administrator, Ted Hart, will be asked to recommend the method of financing.

Ald. Brian Smith pointed out that former councils had acquiesced in home owners using septic tanks "in the days when we were not so pollution-conscious".

Undercover RCMP Coercive Heroin Trafficker Claims

A 53-year-old city man, charged last week with trafficking in heroin, told Judge William Ostler Wednesday he felt the RCMP methods that led to his arrest were "pretty close to coercion."

John M. Caird, 717 Pandora, was arrested March 24 on one of 48 warrants issued by the RCMP after a four-month undercover investigation of trafficking in various illicit drugs on the Island.

Twelve persons have appeared in Victoria Provincial Court since March 24 all charged with trafficking. The remaining warrants were for juveniles and other centres on the island.

Caird, with an extensive record since 1934, pleaded not guilty when he first appeared in court last week but changed his plea Wednesday afternoon.

STAKE OUT

Constable Morris Nelson testified that he and another policeman watched Caird sell a capsule of heroin to one of two undercover officers Feb. 10.

He added that the undercover agent involved had not appeared in court because he was working on other duties.

Caird told Ostler the man had asked for his help and he helped by obtaining the drug.

He said he wasn't acting as a trafficker and pointed out that the agent has approached him, as he had done on several other occasions.

Caird told the court the man had showed him marks on his arm indicating needle marks from earlier drug use.

ADDICT POSE

Nelson explained that agents at times had to pose as addicts to further their investigation.

Caird said the fact the agent had approached him, played on his sympathies with a certain degree of deceit added up almost to coercion.

Ostler replied it was necessary to employ agents and deceit when investigating certain types of crime.

"I wouldn't have raised a hand to help if I had known he was RCMP," Caird said.

Ostler remanded the accused to this afternoon for judgment.

Langford Girl Crash Victim

A 19-year-old Langford girl, Pat Anderson, 755 Meaford, is in serious condition in a Calgary hospital today after being injured in a traffic accident Tuesday night east of Cranbrook.

The girl was a passenger in a semi-trailer truck which jackknifed on a bridge 20 miles east of the Kootenay city. The truck jammed crossways on the bridge, located on the southern Trans-Provincial Highway, and blocked traffic for several hours.

Miss Anderson suffered multiple injuries, including fractured cheekbone and spinal damage, and was transferred Wednesday to hospital in Calgary from Cranbrook for further treatment.

Two other occupants of the truck, George Kennedy of Chilliwack and Donna Lee Singh, 1102 Queens, Victoria, were in fair condition Wednesday in Cranbrook hospital.

World Record

WAKEFIELD, England (UPI)—Farmer Reuben Parsons, 26, claimed a world record Monday by running 1,100 yards with a 112-pound bag of coal on his back in four minutes, 42 seconds.

Censorship Rejected

A plea for censorship of moving pictures with "sewage" content was rejected by Victoria Labor Council delegates Wednesday night.

The vote went solidly against civic outside workers' delegate Bill Smith, who said the type of movies being shown in Victoria had gotten out of hand since the job of B.C. censor was modified.

"There is one on now that is not just filth, it's sewage," Smith said, mentioning the titles, Truth and Soul, and MASH. "I don't think our youth need it," Smith declared, asking the council to protest to Greater Victoria mayors and Premier Bennett.

"Bennett is supposed to be a Christian — they are all church-going people — and he's letting this stuff infiltrate our youth."

Smith said he went to see the pictures because he was asked to by someone who felt labor should be involved instead of simply seeking wage increases.

SYMPATHY

Other delegates said they could sympathize with some of Smith's objections — he took exception to strong language and the sexual behavior of actors on the screen — but they could not support censorship.

Carpenters' delegate Larry Tickner said the labor movement had fought against censorship in the past. If this particular film is sewage, then that is just one man's opinion, Tickner said.

"I think it's up to me to decide for myself," he said, adding the opinion that youth's frailty is subject to exaggeration.

Hospital Takeover Power Approved

Dr. Scott Wallace (SC—Oak Bay) joined with the opposition in a vote against giving the minister of health the power to take over any hospital in the province in the legislature Wednesday.

"Whatever party I might belong to now or in the future," Wallace said, he could never be happy about bills giving cabinet ministers such sweeping powers, even if they are described as unlikely ever to be used.

Wallace said the bill, amending the Hospital Act, should be rewritten to make clear the minister could take over a hospital only after a committee of inquiry, including at least one "non-political" person, had reported on the administrative situation at the hospital in question.

AUTONOMY GOOD

If such committees could bring in a unanimous decision for a takeover, it would be clear to the public that a wise decision had been made, Wallace said, adding that the autonomy of local hospital boards is one of the good features of Canadian hospital administration.

Dennis Cocke (NDP—New Westminster) said he feared the bill is aimed directly at a New Westminister hospital (Royal Columbian) which has been in conflict with the government and Allan Williams (L—West Vancouver-Howe Sound) said Health Minister Ralph Loffmark had failed to be candid with the House about the purpose of the bill.

It passed 34-17. An NDP request that the vote be recorded in the House journals, requiring unanimous consent, was denied by Industry Minister Waldo Skillings who called out, "No."

IN COURT

Jail Term Given For Lie

A 21-year-old man who falsely reported his car stolen in order to gain welfare support was sentenced in court Wednesday to 45 days in jail for public mischief.

"This man should be a novelist," Judge William Ostler remarked when David H. Chibry, 731 Vancouver, pleaded guilty March 23.

Police testified Chibry Jan. 20 reported his 1968-model car stolen four days before from the Dominion Hotel parking lot and when it was located in Albuquerque, N.M., Feb. 21, it was in the possession of a juvenile girl.

Further investigation proved the accused had loaned the vehicle to the girl when he was in Tampa, Fla. last fall.

Police added Chibry had fabricated the story to make it easier to apply for welfare.

★ ★ ★

Frederick T. Stoba, 18, of 1827 Ruby, was committed for trial on a charge of trafficking in marijuana.

Ostler committed him after the accused waived preliminary hearing. Bail is $2,500.

★ ★ ★

Kenneth Williams, 28, of 1044 Redfern, was fined $250 for driving a car when he was not covered by insurance.

He was stopped on David Street March 31 and he did not have coverage at the time.

★ ★ ★

John H. Meurs, 20, of 373 Walton, was also fined $250 for driving without insurance.

He was stopped on Foul Bay Feb. 15 about 1 a.m. and he did not have coverage at the time.

★ ★ ★

George Eric Lee, 36, of 945 Orono, was fined $400 for impaired driving and it was recommended his licence be suspended for four months.

He was observed to be the driver of a truck March 19 about 9:40 p.m. that was weaving in its lane on the Old Island Highway, police said.

★ ★ ★

Ian R. Mortimore, 21, of 1680 Cedar Avenue, was fined $350 for driving while his blood-alcohol content was over .08 per cent and an additional $150 for driving while disqualified.

He also was banned from driving for two years.

He was observed driving on Beach Drive Jan. 29 about 10:45 p.m. with no lights on and with a restricted licence.

He gave a breathalyzer reading of .13 per cent at the time.

★ ★ ★

Melvin S. Harris, 44, of 697 Hoy Lake Road, was fined $400 for being in care and control of a vehicle while he was impaired and another $200 for refusing to take a breathalyzer test.

He was found slumped over the wheel of a truck on Millstream Road Feb. 20 about 4 a.m. and when he was wakened up refused to give a breath sample.

His truck was blocking the north lane of Millstream.

Teen-Age Twin Named English Peer

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A 15-year-old Australian schoolboy has become an English peer.

From today, Dominic Charles Latham is Lord Latham, Baron of Hendon.

He succeeds to the title following the death of his 81-year-old grandfather in a London hospital Wednesday night.

Dominic, known among his schoolboy chums as "Lord Stinky," beat his twin brother Anthony to the title by half an hour.

His grandfather, former head of London's Transport Authority, thought his title would die when his son Francis was killed in a car accident in Australia.

Then he learned that Francis had been secretly married and had six children.

It is not clear whether Dominic will swop his school desk for a seat in House of Lords.

His mother, Gabrielle Latham, said: "If he does, heaven help the House of Lords."

Police Aid Refused

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — Robert M. Phelps, 44, was fined $50 and costs Wednesday for refusing to "get involved" by helping policemen make an arrest. Phelps was working in a restaurant Dec. 13 when Patrolmen Donald Shelton and Larry Brown, who were trying to curb a small disturbance, asked Phelps to call police headquarters for assistance. Phelps told the court he refused because he thought the men being placed under arrest "might get me."

NDP BIDS TO PLUG POLLUTION ACT'S LOOPHOLES

Loopholes in the present Pollution Control Act allow those issued government permits to litter beaches and dump waste in water, opposition MLAs charged Wednesday.

An attempt by Ernest Hall (NDP—Surrey) to plug the "loophole" was turned down by a vote of 35 to 15 with the NDP and Liberals supporting his amendment to the government's pollution control bill.

Hall wished to have written into the act a clause that would give the government authority to fine permit-holders who break the requirements of pollution control board permits.

DUMP GARBAGE

Hall said there was nothing written in the anti-pollution laws that stopped permit-holders from violating the conditions of their permits. It is not now an offence to contravene the permit, Hall added, calling for tougher action against polluters by the government.

Liberal leader Dr. Pat McGeer also said he would like to see the government take a tough line against permit-holders who dump garbage into B.C.'s coastal waters.

Though Hall's amendment was defeated, the bill passed third reading unanimously.

The bill gives the government power to take action to prevent air pollution and puts the onus to report pollution on the polluter. The government already has control over land and water pollution under previously passed legislation.

MORE TAXES, MORE BALLOTS

Black and White Vote for Rhodesians

By KENNETH L. WHITING

SALISBURY (AP) — Black and white voters will ballot for separate slates of candidates of their own skin color in the Rhodesian election next week.

Although Rhodesia has 4,500,000 blacks and about 240,000 whites, there are only 95,300 eligible voters.

Asians and mulattos are regarded as "white" for voting purposes and are included in the 87,000 on white rolls.

The 8,300 black voters will choose among 33 candidates in eight constituencies. Eight more black members will be selected by tribal assemblies.

The 16 blacks in Parliament will be evenly divided on tribal lines with parity between the Matebele and the Mashona.

Black political advancement depends on the amount of income tax they pay. They get more seats as they pay more taxes. Theoretically, the blacks can acquire a maximum of 50 seats—the same as whites. In practice, this is unlikely to happen until late in the next century since most blacks rely on subsistence farming.

This is the first general election since Prime Minister Ian Smith declared independence from Britain in November, 1965.

Rhodesia recently proclaimed itself a republic.

The question is not whether Smith and his Rhodesian Front will win April 10, but by how much. It is contesting all 50 white seats, none of the black constituencies.

Smith's party goes into the balloting with a head start of 13 unopposed candidates for the 66-member House of Assembly. To be assured of a bare majority in Parliament, the party needs another 21 seats from 37 white constituencies in which there are contests. It needs to win 31 for the two-thirds majority required to amend the constitution.

Moroccan Air Crash Sparks Investigation

CASABLANCA, Morocco (Reuters) — Doctors fought desperately today to save the lives of several of the 21 survivors while the government launched an inquiry into the crash Wednesday of a Caravelle airliner which killed 61 persons.

The Royal Air Morac jet, bound for Paris and carrying many returning Easter vacationers from the resort of Agadir, crashed in a wheat field 25 miles south of Casablanca just before it was to land at Casablanca-Nouasseur airport. The plane was carrying 76 passengers and a crew of six.

Most of those killed were French and Moroccans but one of the victims was Mercedes Goodyear of San Francisco, a representative in Agadir of the British Save the Children Fund.

The government ordered an inquiry into the crash and sent the plane's flight recorder or "black box" to Paris for examination after witnesses said the plane suddenly dived to the ground from a height of 680 feet.

PLANE BROKE UP

Most of the survivors were in the rear section of the plane, which broke in two after crashing. Doctors said many of the survivors today were still "very critically ill."

Four survivors, including one crew member, were alive after the crash but died in hospital.

Airport officials said they received a radio message just before the crash saying all was well.

Yvonne Elmakmth, 45, of Casablanca, a survivor, said the plane rocked violently just before the crash. She said her husband, killed in the crash, saved her life by throwing himself on top of her.

Czechs Defect

COPENHAGEN (AP) — At least 26 Czechoslovaks defected from a tourist travel group in Copenhagen Tuesday night, police said. It was the second mass defection by Czechoslovaks in Denmark this year. In January, 43 Czechoslovaks defected from a similar travel group in Copenhagen.

Outlook: More Drinks, Domiciles, Degrees

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer spending on higher education, housing and beverages—both alcoholic and soft drinks—will grow faster in the first half of the 1970s than demand for all goods and services, reports a staff study prepared for the Economic Council of Canada.

* * *

The study by Thomas T. Schweitzer is the first of a series being prepared for the council, analyzing personal expenditures from 1926 to the present and projecting growth patterns to 1975.

Schweitzer's study deals with food, beverages and tobacco; clothing, footwear and accessories; and rent, fuel and light. These three groups account for about half of total expenditures.

The other seven major groups of personal expenditure included in the gross national expenditure will be reported on later, the council said.

Basing his projections on 1968, Schweitzer's analysis shows spending on board and lodging in universities increasing by 181 per cent—almost threefold—by 1975. It is expected a larger percentage of the total population will be in universities by then. Demand for water and electricity would increase by more than 60 per cent.

The calculations are in terms of the volume of consumer spending, ruling out price increases.

* * *

The report sees a 41.5-per-cent increase in per-capita consumption of alcoholic beverages between 1968 and 1975. Non-alcholic beverage consumption is expected to increase by 33.8 per cent per capita.

Consumer expenditure totalled $38,998,000,000 in 1967 and the council, in its sixth annual review of the economy issued late last year, sees this amounting to $59 billion in 1975, in terms of 1967 dollars, if the country is running at its economic potential then.

* * *

Schweitzer sees gross rents paid rising by 32.5 per cent per capita between 1968 and 1975.

The analysis shows only four consumer expenditure items declining the first half of the 1970s. Food served in company cafeterias and the like will be down 4.6 per cent, and food produced and consumed on farms will be down 55.1 per cent. But food sold at retail will be up 34.2 per cent.

Other declines are 13.7 per cent in demand for armed forces clothing, and 28 per cent in jewelry repair and engraving service.

SNAIL SNACK FATAL TO GASPE GIRL, 12

QUEBEC (CP) — Warnings against eating St. Lawrence River shellfish have been issued by provincial authorities following the death of a 12-year-old girl who ate snails she gathered on a Gaspe Peninsula beach.

An autopsy indicated Wednesday that Joanne Vallee, 12, died of poisoning after eating snails she found near Cap Chat, 270 miles northeast of Quebec City.

Greek Colonels Crack Down on Dissident Journalists

ATHENS (AP) — Five journalists and a former cabinet minister have received jail terms for advocating the replacement of Greece's military dictatorship with a political government.

They also received fines ranging from the equivalent of $6,666 to $10,000 today for violating martial law by publishing "false reports likely to cause anxiety among the public."

The trial resulted from an interview which John Zigdis, former cabinet minister of the Centre Union party, gave to the Athens newspaper Ethnos after an assassination attempt against President Makarios of Cyprus and the murder of Polycarpos Georgadjis, a former Greek-Cypriot government minister.

In the interviews, published March 24, Zigdis called for a government of national unity to cope with the troubles on Cyprus and said Greek-Cypriots were being "threatened with fratricidal dissention." Cyprus, an island republic in the Mediterranean, is perennially plagued by conflicts between its Turkish and Greek communities.

The prosecution called Zigdis the "moral instigator" of the article, and the court sentenced him to 4½ years. John Kapsis, chief editor of the newspaper, received a five-year term.

The defendants also included Ethnos's three co-publishers: Constantine Nicolopoulos, Constantine Kyriazis and his brother Achileas. Constantine Kyriaziz got a four-year sentence. His brother and Nicolopoulos were each sentenced to three year terms.

Managing editor Constantine Economides was sentenced to 13 months.

The six are not permitted to appeal the verdict because it was handed down by a special court martial. Only an amnesty could erase their prison terms.

The court also ordered the newspaper to pay full import duty of newsprint for the next five months, a move that cast serious doubts on whether it would be able to continue publication.

Ethnos, an evening daily, was in financial difficulties for about five years but began recuperating slowly after it adopted a hard anti-government line 4½ months ago. It was able to do so because the government lifted most press censorship restrictions.

anti-regime line.

The newspaper's directors say its circulation doubled to 40,000 copies daily after it took its

MARKET SUMMARIES

Further Gains Posted

Gainers continued to outnumber losers as the Toronto and New York stock markets posted gains today.

It was the third upward session for Toronto. Trading was more active on Wall Street and light at Toronto.

Under light trading prices were mixed during the morning session on the Vancouver exchange.

AT TORONTO, Bell was up 1⅜ to 43⅞, International Utilities 1⅛ to 28¾, Scintrex 1 to 16 and Seaway ¾ to 14½.

Versatile was down 85 cents to $3.55, Corporate Foods ¾ to 9, Imperial Oil ⅜ to 21⅞ and Neonex ⅛ to 5.

Hudson Bay Mining rose 2⅜ to 87⅝ and Denison ½ to 41. Sherritt lost ⅜ to 23¼.

Bow Valley was down ½ to 22 and Husky ⅜ to 12½. Spooner gained 15 cents to $3.10.

AT NEW YORK, advances ran through motors, aircrafts, metals, chemicals and building materials with other issues mixed.

Some big blocks were traded, including 104,900 shares of Oxford First Corp. at 16½, off 2⅛; 75,000 shares of Phillips Petroleum, unchanged at 23¾.

AT MONTREAL, banks were firm while papers declined in moderate afternoon trading today on the stock market.

Imperial Oil eased ⅛ to 22 in light trading following a denial by the company of a new Arctic oil find.

Microsystems International was listed today on the Montreal Stock Exchange. It traded 7,808 shares between 10⅛ and 9⅞.

Among banks, the Royal gained ⅛ to 22⅞ and Bank of Nova Scotia ⅛ to 20¼. Bank of Montreal was off ⅛ to 16¾. Highlighting gains, Velcro Industries advanced 1¼ to 28¾.

New Oil Find Off Nigeria

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. has announced the discovery of a major new source of oil off the coast of Nigeria.

The giant oil producer said tests produced a daily flow of 5,000 barrels daily of low-sulphur crude oil.

The new well is located about 10 miles north of Gulf's Meren field, one of five in Nigeria producing a total of 225,000 barrels a day, a spokesman said.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — There was a good volume of buying at the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today with the market under some selling pressure from commission houses and exporters.

Selling pressure moved rapeseed prices down slightly and flax had small trade but exporter buying maintained the price fractionally below the previous close.

Rye showed a stronger pattern and domestic shippers were fairly active in oats and barley.

Wednesday's volume of trade included 2,237,000 bushels of rapeseed, 538,000 of flax and 738,000 of rye. Export loadings of Canadian wheat included 1,282,400, bushels to China and 253,680 to the Soviet Union.

Lakehead prices for Class Two and IGA wheat were all unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP) — Corn and oats futures advanced more than one cent on the Board of Trade today on buying associated with the weather.

Other commodities closed on an irregular tone. Trade was only moderately active.

Corn buying remained strong through the close but profit takers whittled away in the oats pit and halved the advance near the close.

Poseidon Finds Additional Ore

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Poseidon, the company that led the boom in western Australian nickel shares, said today it has more ore than it thought. But it gave no figures on the latest finds.

The company said in its quarterly report that drilling since December had indicated substantial additions to the known reserves of 4,000,000 tons of ore averaging 2.4 per cent nickel.

The extra ore was thought likely to amount to millions of tons and would boost the estimated production of 200,000 tons a year.

The report was released too late Wednesday to influence the price of Poseidon shares. They closed at $175, a drop of $3.

One of the new assays reported 14.1 per cent nickel in a nine-foot drill in a new area. This is one of the highest nickel assays on record.

The report pointed out that Poseidon still did not know the limits of its strike, although the nickel found so far was in an area 4,300 feet long, 1,350 feet deep and 50 to 60 feet wide.

U.S. Dollar Holdings Score Gain

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's official foreign exchange reserves rose $173,700,000 last month to reach $3,597,600,000, the finance department reported today.

U.S. dollar holdings of the Bank of Canada, the exchange fund account, and the Receiver-General rose to $2,056,400,000 from $1,898,300,000 at the end of February.

Because of other countries' dealings, Canada's special drawing rights in the International Monetary Fund, created Jan. 1, rose to $133,100,000 from the initial allocation of $129,300,000.

Gold holdings remained unchanged at $879,100,000.

Canada's reserve position in the IMF rose to $515,000,000 at the end of March from $501,400,000 at the end of February.

$ EXCHANGE

VICTORIA—Purchase of U.S. funds in terms of the Canadian dollar was quoted by the Royal Bank today at $1.07 1-16 for cheques, $1.07 for cash, $1.04⅝ for silver. Sales were $1.07¾ for cheques and $1.07⅞ for cash.

MONTREAL (CP) — U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds unchanged at $1.07¼. Pound sterling off 1-16 to $2.58 3-16.

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadian dollar unchanged at 93 15-64 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling down 1-16 at $2.40 45-64.

Leclerc Heads Canadian Bankers

TORONTO (CP) — Rene Leclerc, vice-president, chief general manager and a dirctor of Banque Canadienne Nationale, has been elected president of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

Leclerc joined Banque Canadienne Nationale in 1921 and, after working in several branches and at head office, became assistant general manager in 1963, general manager in 1965, vice-president in 1967 and chief general manager in 1968.

As president, he succeeds Arthur H. Crockett, now president of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

Editor: G. S. Kent

Susquehanna

Net earnings dropped to nearly half the 1968 figure during the past year, reports Susquehanna Corp., diversified mining, building materials and technological company of Alexandria, Va.

At $6.49 million or $1.15 a share, earnings were of $5.86 million to $12.35 million or $2.15 a share.

Sales and revenues also were off, $129.67 million against $140.54 million in 1968, although three of the four groups posted gains. The technology group was off due to shifting priorities and cutbacks in defence spending.

Polymer Corp.

Polymer Corp. Ltd. will open a $15 million latex plant in Chattanooga, Tenn., the Canadian Crown corporation's first U.S. manufacturing unit, the second outside Canada.

The new plant will have capacity of 50,000 tons of latex a year, starting by mid-1971, destined for the carpet and furniture industries. About 100 persons will be employed.

Besides the main factory at Sarnia, Polymer has a plant at Strasbourg, France.

Mark Hot Inc.

A new $1.5 million manufacturing plant is to be built by Mark Hot Inc., Montreal-based heating, air conditioning and custom cabinetry firm which has just won a $150,000 order for cabinets at Washington Plaza, in Tacoma.

The plant is expected to be operating in suburban Montreal next year, based partly on a campaign to spread sales into the U.S. where contracts worth $500,000 are pending.

Mark Hot has supplied Columbia Centre in Vancouver, Place des Arts, Montreal; Confederation building, Charlottetown; Place de Ville, Ottawa, and city hall, Toronto.

Davis Keays

Japan's Dowa Mining Co. Ltd. says it has signed a loan agreement to supply $1.3 million to Davis Keays Mining Co. Ltd., for prospecting copper reserves in B.C.

Davis Keays now is prospecting the Eagle Mountain Mines, about 100 miles west of Fort Nelson. The Canadian firm plans to construct a dressing plant there capable of handling 1,000 tons of ore daily by late 1971 to produce 1,000 tons of concentrates monthly, Dowa said.

United Auto

A 5 per cent improvement in profits and 10 per cent gain in sales is reported by United Auto Parts Inc., of Montreal.

Figures were $34.36 million in sales ($31.4 million), and $1.05 million (1 million) in net profit, equal to $2.29 per share ($2.19).

Ogilvie

Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Ltd. reports consolidated net earnings of $3.8 million or $1.23 a share for the nine months ended Jan. 31, up from $2.67 million or 85 cents for the corresponding period in 1968.

The substantially increased earnings include income of $1.7 million or 57 cents a share from the sale of marketable securities and other assets.

Labatt Breweries of Canada Ltd. holds about 99 per cent of Ogilvie's outstanding shares.

The Montreal Stock Exchange said the common shares of the company will be removed from its trading list April 30.

Company Listings Lag Behind 1969

First quarter new company registrations in B.C. lagged behind 1969 figures by 256 incorporations, but are still ahead of the first three months of 1968.

The roll kept by the registrar of companies shows 1,590 B.C. companies registered in the period, of which March accounted for 559 (a drop of 126), February for 553 (down 22), and January 478 (down 108).

The January-March period of 1968 had 1,508 new B.C. registrations.

Although new registrations are a form of business-economic indicator, the results of one quarter are probably not sufficient to signal a trend.

Extra-provincial incorporations for the quarter this year exceeded the similar period last year by one. In March there were 32 registrations (42 a year ago), and in February 45 (38).

New societies numbered 43 (32) in March, 38 (28) in February; co-operatives 2 (one) in March, 2 (none) in February; partnerships 188 (183) in March, 205 (146) in February.

THE ACCOUNTANT'S ADVICE

Business Can Set Own Year-End

(This is a service of the Times and of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of B.C.)

By Edgar A. Downey, C. A.

There is no rule which requires a business to use December 31 as the end of its year.

Taxpayers who start a new business during the year may choose to set the first fiscal year-end at any time within 12 months of commencing the business. The first year may be shorter than 12 months but not longer.

After the first year-end is set a taxpayer must obtain the approval of the taxation officials to change to some other period.

Those rules apply in the same way to proprietorship and partnership business as they do to corporations. However, an individual must always report the earnings during the calendar year for his personal tax return.

This means that an individual who operates an unincorporated business, or professional practice, with Jne 30 as his business year-end must report his business profit for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1969, in his 1969 income tax return. The profits of the business after that date would flow into the next business year, June 30, 1970, and be reported in the 1970 tax return to be filed in 1971.

Earnings by that individual other than his business profit, such as wages earned from outside sources, investment income, rents, etc. Received in the calendar year 1969 must be reported in his 1969 return together with the business profit for the business year ended June 30, 1969.

Drawings from an unicorporated business are not income of the individual. Such a business is not subject to tax as a separate entity but the total business profit is taxed in the hands of the proprietor or partners regardless of how much has been drawn out for personal use.

If a proprietor employs his wife the wages paid to the wife are treated as income of the husband and taxed in his hands. However, if a partnership employs the wife of one of the partners then the husband of the employed wife is taxed upon his partnership share of his wife's earnings and the wife is taxed upon the remainder which, in effect, is paid to her by the other partners.

If the business is operated as a corporation then it is a separate entity and pays tax at corporate rates upon its profit for the fiscal yar. A separate income tax return must be filed for the corporation within six months of its year-end. Corporation tax must be paid by monthly instalments with the final payment due three months after the fiscal year-end of the company.

The shareholder owners of a corporation must report and pay tax upon the salaries or wages, and dividends received from their corporation during the calendar year. And the corporation is required to deduct income tax and Canada Pension payments and remit in the same was as for any other employee.

(In last week's column Downey intended to say that gifts in excess of $2,000 (not $3,000) might incur gift tax.)

Port Hardy Enjoys New Riches

PORT HARDY (CP) — This hardluck town of 2,000 on Northern Vancouver Island foundered for its first 100 years on bad coal, a fraudulent land company and shattered dreams.

Now Port Hardy appears to have turned the corner, riding the tide of whopping new export contracts for $400,000,000 worth of copper concentrates.

The buyers are Japanese interests — Mitsui Mining and Smelting Co. Ltd., which will take 60 per cent of copper production in 10 years starting in 1972, and Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha and Dowa Mining Co., which take the balance under a five-year agreement.

The project, 10 miles north of here, was launched in November by Utah Construction and Mining Co. Ltd. of San Francisco on land purchased from Port Hardy municipality.

It's one of the largest known copper deposits in the world.

"The council has already engaged a firm of planning consultants who are mapping out a whole new town," says a delighted Mayor Nick Cadwallader. "We are anticipating a population of 10,000 in 10 years." years."

Ironically, the payoff will come from the source of the town's past woes — the soil. In the 1850s Port Hardy was to have been Vancouver Island's boom town on the strength of substantial coal deposits.

But the boom went bust when the mine closed shortly after entering production because of labor trouble and a poor grade of coal. The town slumbered until 1912 when an outfit called the Hardy Bay Colonization and Land Company advertised the area in U.S. and Europe as an agricultural utopia.

The advertisements attracted hundreds of immigrants with promises of highly fertile soil, grain elevators and railways, none of which existed.

It was a gigantic fraud. The Hardy Bay company quietly went out of business after raking in huge profits and the would-be settlers scattered after finding only thick rain forests and desolate bush.

"All of the town's problems have come out of the ground," said Mayor Cadwallader. "It's right that its riches should come from there too."

The new riches form an ore body 7,500 feet long, 3,500 feet wide and 1,000 feet deep — a massive find. Utah spent three years proving it out, including 100,000 feet of diamond drilling.

Since the original contract was announced, B.C. firms have received more than $4,000,000 worth of contracts for development of the site.

Site preparation has been under way since early this year and mine manager Mort Pratt said construction of a mill will begin early next year. By that time Utah's capital investment will total $70,000,000.

About 200 construction workers are employed on the project now and this will increase to 400 next year.

The mining operation itself will employ 500.

GOVERNMENT ACTION DEMANDED

Chronic Bed Lack Said Critical

Welfare Minister Phil Gaglardi told the legislature Wednesday night he hadn't heard about the impending closure of Oak Lodge Private Hospital and the crisis it could create for 21 welfare recipients with nowhere to go.

"This has never been brought to my attention," Gaglardi said of the case which has been widely publicized in Victoria newspapers in the past week.

Opposition Leader Dave Barrett, speaking slowly, said he wasn't aware whether Gaglardi reads the newspapers but suggested the minister "find out how your department failed to bring this matter to your attention."

SAID UNFAIR

He said it wasn't "fair" to Gaglardi for his department to keep from him the "crisis situation" facing the 21 welfare recipients currently in the Victoria hospital which will close because of financial problems.

Barrett was joined by Scott Wallace (SC—Oak Bay) in an appeal for government action to solve the specific problem and the wider problem of lack of nursing home care.

Waiting lists for other Victoria nursing homes, some of them also reported threatened with financial problems, mean the welfare recipients have nowhere to go. Wallace said 50 or 60 patients in acute hospital beds are awaiting nursing home beds in Victoria.

"The welfare department should be concerned about finding facilities for these people," he said.

Wallace agreed with Barrett that the system of requiring nursing home patients to use up acquired savings before qualifying for welfare assistance is "most unjust and unreasonable."

Gaglardi said the question of expanded nursing home care is a matter for the health department, not the welfare department.

The $108 million welfare department estimates were approved by the legislature at 11 p.m. after a frayed-temper shouting match over procedure, one of the wildest rhubarbs this session.

New Democrats claimed chairman James Chabot (SC—Columbia River) had improperly shut off debate on a vote of $500,000 to the Provincial Alliance of Businessmen, the job-finding agency set up by Gaglardi last year.

BARRETT
". . crisis situation"

"You're trying to cover up for that minister," shouted Robert Strachan (NDP—Cowichan-Malahat) to Premier Bennett who was accused by Bob Williams (NDP—Vancouver East) of manipulating the rules of the House.

OPPOSITION JOINED

New Democrats and Liberals joined forces to vote against the expenditure which was approved 35-15.

Barrett repeated earlier charges that the alliance was a "political pork barrel" which was set up outside the Civil Service Commission.

The shouting match, featuring Premier Bennett on the Socred side against Williams, Strachan, Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby-Edmonds) and Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) may have been linked to tangles during the afternoon sitting.

Industry Minister Waldo Skillings had several times refused to allow unanimous consent to have opposition votes recorded in the House journals and the NDP retaliated by calling formal divisions on three sections of bills and then voting with the government in favor — a delaying tactic.

During the welfare debate, Barrett charged that the $94 million spent on social assistance by the government reflected a waste of money and human resources by the government. The government policy was to hand out cheques to recipients without any involvement in the community, he added.

The department operated as a bureaucracy in Victoria without any concept of local conditions and needs, Barrett, a social worker, said.

He demanded to know what the plans, philosophy and action of the department under Gaglardi would be.

Liberal leader Dr. Pat McGeer said if the experience found in Alberta proved to be similar to that in B.C. a total of 83 per cent of those on welfare would be receiving assistance because they were physically or socially handicapped, or because they were deserted mothers or widows.

CHILD CARE

On this basis, the $211,000 that Gaglardi said the government spent on day care centres to look after the children of women who work should be increased ten-fold, McGeer said. Some groups had approached the government for assistance in this sphere, he added, but had been turned down.

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East) asked that none of the $94 million in social assistance wind up in the hands of a funeral home "combine" owned by American interests in Vancouver. He said the interests operated a monopoly in Vancouver with a low price of $478.

Railway Amendment Said Costing Jobs

A government move to give the B.C. Harbors Board statutory power to own railways was described in the House Wednesday as a device to allow shipment of Fernie coal to Roberts Bank superport on U.S. rail lines.

"This amendment will allow the remaining jobs (from the Kaiser coal operation) to go to the Great Northern Railway instead of to Canadian rail workers," charged Bob Williams (NDP—Vancouver East).

Opposition MLAs asked repeatedly if the bill, giving the harbors board the authority to build, own and operate a railway, was intended to facilitate the carrying of coal on the U.S. line to the B.C. port, but received no answer.

SECRET DEALS

They also charged the bill, amending the B.C. Harbors Board Act, is being pushed through to "legalize" agreements already made in secret by the board which controls access to the superport.

Peterson said the harbors board already has been given the authority to run railroads through cabinet order-in-council.

The opposition has pressed for all-Canadian rail routes for the Japan-bound coal.

New Democrats and Liberals were outvoted 35-15 on the amendment.

LEASES URGED

They were also unsuccessful in a 35-16 vote aimed against allowing the government to give Crown grants of land to mining companies which require the surface rights for their operation.

The opposition charged the government is failing to crack down hard enough on promoters who use mining claims as a dodge to acquire non-competitive land rights. Land should be leased rather than alienated permanently for mining purposes, New Democrats said.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A businessman who claims his reputation was permanently damaged when his secretary opened a letter containing alleged unsolicited pornography filed a $50 million damage suit Tuesday.

Daren T. Johnson contended in his Superior Court suit he was "chagrined and embarrassed" when he tried to explain the pictures and literature contained in the letter to his secretary.

Named as defendants were Collectors Publications Ltd. and Marvin Miller. The suit also asked for unspecified amounts for 10,000 other persons allegedly similarly offended.

Mine Interests Said Pushing Panic Button

Mining interests in the province have "pushed the panic button" and are looking for the worst in the new B.C. Mineral Processing Act, Mines Minister Frank Richter said Wednesday.

Richter was commenting on concern expressed by the B.C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines that the new act might jeopardize the export of minerals to Japan.

The act gives the minister the authority to order any producing mine in B.C. to send up to 50 per cent of its production to a designated smelter.

The chamber said Tuesday that the provision would jeopardize development of Lornex Mining Corp.'s Highland Valley copper holdings about 125 miles northeast of Vancouver. They particularly referred to sales and financing agreements with Japanese interests.

Richter said Wednesday that the mining interests in the province knew the government was interested in having a smelter in B.C. The government was responsible for the protection of the public interest, he added, and when the companies did not take the initiative to establish a smelter, the government did.

•

He felt that minerals should be processed in B.C. "to the maximum" in the light of world markets and economic conditions.

The government had encouraged the Japanese to come here, Richter added, and several companies indicated their interest.

Richter said that he did not think the question of ensuring a supply of ore for any copper smelter that might be built in the province was as difficult a matter to overcome as some mining people have indicated.

Ottawa Buys a Pisces

OTTAWA (CP) — A $750,000 underwater vehicle, looking like a huge bug, has been bought for marine operations by the Canadian Armed Forces.

The submersible — first for the forces — is being built by International Hydro Dynamics of Vancouver and will be ready this fall.

An interim version has been provided by the company to the forces for tests at the national defence Nanoose underwater range near Nanaimo. Tests got under way this week.

The underwater vehicle can be used for search and recovery of lost equipment, inspection of cables, submarine rescue operations and underwater research.

It is 25 feet long, 10 feet wide and nine feet high and carries a crew of two. It manoeuvres on four legs.

The submersible has a lockout compartment to permit divers to leave and re-enter while submerged. It can also be transported by air.

DOG BAN PROPOSAL AROUSES OAK BAY

Dog lovers are rising up against a proposed bylaw which would forbid dogs on Oak Bay beaches from June 1 to Sept. 30.

At Wednesday's meeting of Oak Bay council's parks committee, Ald. Brian Smith reported he had had numerous phone calls on the bylaw, and they were seven to one against the bylaw.

"It had been suggested," he said, "that they organize a mass dog march on Oak Bay council."

Four letters were received supporting the proposed bylaw. One, written by a woman who asked to remain anonymous, said a dog on Willows Beach had fouled her beach bag and umbrella and complained that she had had to carry the articles on her return trip to the city by bus.

Smith suggested that "there should be some amelioration of the bylaw," adding that he could see no harm in dogs using beaches in the early hours of the morning when exercised on a leash.

Ald. Douglas Watts asked, "Are we concerned about the happiness of dogs or people?"

Smith countered with: "Lots of people love their dogs and are concerned about this bylaw."

Bill WALKER

The first settlers arrived in what now is Seattle in 1851. They named the place New York. Then, figuring that such a name couldn't last, they renamed it Chief Seattle.

That was to keep the Indians placated. This was deemed necessary for survival, or at least a friendly relationship. But the palefaces blew this one. They buttered up the wrong chief. Another tribe raided the town three years later. Fortunately, the massacre didn't succeed.

Last year, the American Baseball League decided to settle in the glorious Pacific Northwest. It decided to call Seattle home. It named the baseball team "Pilots". Pobably because it was a "pilot" project, or perhaps because one of the men in the town most interested in baseball was himself a "pilot". Dewey Soriano had pioneered the move. He had long been a part of pro ball, and a past Coast League president. By trade, he was a ship's pilot.

That name wasn't designed to succeed either. Few people like it. The team wasn't much better. The ball park was worse, the worst in the majors. And the prices were high, almost the highest in the league.

Thus the Pilots lost money, a lot of money. So much that they couln't pay off their loan at the bank.

And so things went from bad to awful. This winter there were two separate sorties by invading tribes from the east and south.

●

Milwaukee had lost its Braves a few years ago in a National League site switch, and wanted back; and Lamar Hunt, who started the American Football League, let it be known that he was interested in baseball. Dallas or Fort Worth would make a nice home for the sport.

Hunt was ruled out, for the present, because as owner of the Kansas City Chiefs of the NFL, he couldn't straddle two pro sports. He may find a way around this problem, later because he does have friends, with influence, and money. But not this year. Texas will get is second major league team in another season. Houston will not be alone much longer.

Milwaukee then became the prime bidder. It got the team through a bankruptcy court ruling. Seattle was losing $12,500 a day and hadn't even started the season yet. The American League had loaned the money for training camp, and the player bonuses were also guaranteed by commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office. But there was nothing coming in. Everything was going out.

So, it's been a sorry mess, and an embarrassing situation. The league kept backing off while giving Seattle a chance to make it go. But nobody was willing to carry the ball. Nobody with money, that is, or courage!

It needed a lot of both.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee had a big-league stadium, which was unoccupied. Seattle did not. Sick's Stadium, at best, would seat only 25,000 fans.

There had been a promise of a domed stadium. The first spade was to be turned this season. The $40 million edifice was to be built two blocks from the Space Needle. It was to be ready by 1972. It could be used for other pro sports.

This has not materialzed. There is a question before the courts. It may be built in the future. It will have to be if Seattle is to get back, or get pro sports. But Seattle won't be back until it can show more than it did this time. Things got out of hand, not only last season, but this spring as well. Nobody could whistle up that money when it was needed and the city wasn't keeping its promises very well, either.

The American League owners weren't bragging any more about their move to the northwest. They were too busy looking up friends elsewhere. They had been trying for some time to pin the tail of the donkey on the National League for deserting Milwaukee in the first place. Now they had their chance.

They would rescue the damsel in distress. They would point with shame to the National League. They would step in and wipe out the stigma of baseball's dirty deed that sent the Braves to Atlanta. They would restore Milwaukee to its rightful status. Major league baseball would return.

The natives would be pleased, and perhaps more friendly than those in Seattle.

But then they never did cotton much to newcomers, on the coast. Especially in 1854, and now 1970.

Point Marks Fall To Portland Pair

By The Canadian Press

The two leaders in the Western Hockey League kept pace with one another Wednesday night, pulling farther away from the rest of the pack as the league moved into the final three days of regulation play.

Vancouver Canucks, who have wrapped up first place, beat Salt Lake City Golden Eagles 7-4 in Salt Lake while second-place Portland Buckaroos trounced San Diego Gulls 11-3 in Portland.

It was also a night for records. Portland's Art Jones set a league record by scoring his 123rd and 124th points of the season and teammate Dennis Kearns picked up seven points, a WHL mark for points in one game by a defenceman.

FOURTH IN DOUBT

San Diego has tied up third place but Seattle Totems with 64 points and Phoenix Roadrunners with 62 are still battling it out for the final playoff berth.

Seattle plays host to San Diego tonight while Vancouver visits Denver Spurs.

Jones tied the old mark for most points in a season, 122 by Guyle Fielder of Seattle in 1957, with a goal in the first period. He added another point in the second with a second goal and chalked up the 124th with an assist in the same period.

Buckaroos dominated the game, skating out for a 6-1 first period lead on three of Bill Saunders' four goals and singles by Norm Johnson, Jones and Kearns.

Jones and Saunders made it 8-2 going into the final period and Kearns, Rick Foley and Connie Madigan capped the Portland scoring. Warren Hynes scored twice for San Diego and Len Ronson added the single before 5,353 spectators.

In Salt Lake City, Golden Eagles led 3-1 in the second period before Canucks took command with three goals in that stanza and three more in the final.

Duke Harris, Len Lunde, Jerry Goyer, Paul Andrea, Ted McCaskill, Germain Gagnon and Murray Hall accounted for Vancouver scoring.

Salt Lake scoring was by Guyle Fielder, Bob Toothill, Rollie Wilcox and Galen Head.

Little League Tryouts Slated

Goldstream Triangle and Oak Bay Little Leagues will be holding baseball tryouts this weekend.

Langford's Centennial Park will be the site of the Goldstream sessions starting at 9:30 a.m. Saturday and 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Oak Bay tryouts will be held Saturday at Fireman's Park from 10 a.m. for nine and 10-year-olds and from 1 p.m. for 11 and 12-year-olds.

SCURRYING through snowflakes in Detroit is Denny McLain. Tigers' pitcher is considered to have escaped "hot water" Wednesday when baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn suspended McLain only until July 1. See Story below. (AP Wirephoto).

McLain's Ban Not as Stern As Expected . . .

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn has dropped the other shoe in the Denny McLain case and it didn't land as hard as some people thought it might.

Kuhn Wednesday suspended McLain until July 1 because of his involvement with bookmaking activities in Flint, Mich. The decision deprives Detroit Tigers of their star right-hander's services for less than half of the 1970 major league season.

The reaction to Kuhn's decision was generally a huge sigh of relief in the Detroit camp where manager Mayo Smith and the Tigers seemed prepared to face the entire season without McLain.

"Just a half a year's suspension," mused Bill Freehan, McLain's batterymate and one of his critics. "It soulds as if he almost did something wrong. It's better than we anticipated."

Smith said he was sure that McLain's mid-season return would help the Tigers' chances for the American League pennant.

PREDICTS SHUTOUT

"It'll all settle down until July 1," he said, "then on July 1, when he shuts out the Yankees . . ."

New York plays at Detroit on the night McLain's suspension ends and he'll be the probable pitcher. Denny has been working on his own this spring and says he could pitch right now.

"All things being equal," said McLain — "commissioner Kuhn did what he had to do. I can't say I agreed with the decision, because I want to play baseball right now but he made the decision and we'll live by it."

McLain had been waiting since Feb. 19, the date the commissioner tagged him with an indefinite suspension and launched an investigation into the pitcher's off-field activities.

That was the result of a face-to-face confrontation between the pitcher and the commissioner and McLain revealed Wednesday that he contemplated committing suicide by jumping from a building in New York when Kuhn told him he was to be suspended.

WAS DARKEST TIME

"I looked out the window when they said I was going to be definitely suspended. I really thought for about 10 seconds I was going out," McLain said.

"I looked down on the street," said McLain. "That was the darkest moment of my life. I would have jumped out of that window if I had thought about it much longer. But then I thought maybe there would be seven or eight Boy Scouts passing by I might land on."

Kuhn's investigation lasted six weeks and uncovered an involvement "with certain gamblers said to be involved in a bookmaking operation," according to a two-page statement released Wednesday. In January, 1967, according to Kuhn's statement, McLain "commenced placing basketball bets with this operation and subsequently was persuaded to make financial contributions totaling approximately $5,700."

NEVER A PARTNER

"While McLain believed he had become a partner in this operation," Kuhn continued, ". . . it would appear that in fact he was the victim of a confidence scheme. I would thus conclude that McLain was never a partner and had no proprietary interest in the bookmaking operation.

"The fair inference is that his own gullibility and avarice had permitted him to become a dupe of the gamblers with whom he associated."

McLain said he'd "have to get a dictionary" to look up the meanings of gullibility and avarice. "But if it means stupid and greedy," Denny added, "yes, I am stupid and greedy."

'Murder' Charge Dropped

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Stockholm police said today no action will be taken on a public complaint that Czechoslovak goalkeeper Vladimir Dzurila had tried to murder Swedish team captain Ulf Sterner in a game in the world hockey championship here last week.

A man in southern Sweden reported the burly Czechoslovak to the police after a brawl in the closing seconds of the game which ended with Sterner, a tough former professional, being carried off on a stretcher.

The complainant, who called for a charge of attempted murder, claimed that Dzurila had jabbed his stick several times at Sterner's head as the Swede lay prone behind the cage.

Police said they could find nothing criminal in Dzurila's action.

Rangers, Habs, Wings Claim Crucial Victories

By Canadian Press

New York Rangers weren't cheering for Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night but tonight they should be.

The Rangers had a hard struggle to edge the Leafs 2-1 Wednesday and stay one point behind fourth-place Detroit Red Wings in the battle for the National Hockey League East Division's last playoff berth.

But the Rangers will be rooting for a Toronto victory tonight when the last-place Leafs visit Detroit to play out the Red Wings' game in hand over New York. A win for the Wings, on the other hand, would give them three points over the Rangers. It would mean the New Yorkers would have to win both their remaining games this weekend to gain a playoff spot.

The Rangers visit Detroit Saturday and the Wings go to New York for the final season encounter Sunday.

The Red Wings stayed in front of the Rangers with a 5-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks who share the division lead with Boston Bruins. The Bruins were also kept at a standstill by a 6-3 defeat at the hands of Montreal Canadiens.

In the West Division, Pittsburgh Penguins clinched second place with a 4-1 win over third-place Philadelphia Flyers while Oakland Seals stayed in contention for a playoff berth on a 2-2 tie with St. Louis Blues.

Only Five Points Separate Top Five

The New York, Detroit and Montreal victories further tightened the hot Eastern race with only five points now separating the fifth-place Rangers from the two leaders.

Chicago and Boston still are the only two clubs assured of playoff berths with either New York or Detroit the most likely to drop out with a fifth-place finish.

Chicago and Montreal exchange visits on the weekend to wind up the schedule while Boston has a similar home-and-home series with Toronto.

The Rangers gained their win before a crowd of 16,485 at Toronto on power-play goals by rookie Bill Fairbairn and Jean Ratelle.

The Leafs, although out of playoff contention, never stopped fighting and even pulled goalie Bruce Gamble for an extra attacker to try and tie the game in the dying seconds.

But Ron Ellis' 34th goal of the season was the only one the Leafs could put behind Ranger netminder Ed Giacomin.

Beliveau, Fergy Pace Canadiens

At Montreal, the Canadiens veterans came to life with centre Jean Beliveau collecting two goals and an assist and left-winger John Ferguson a goal and assist.

Ralph Backstrom, Yvan Cournoyer and Jacques Laperriere were the other Montreal scorers before a record crowd of 18,484 fans.

Canadiens goalie Rogatien Vachon stopped 13 Boston shots but allowed two goals by centre Phil Esposito and one by league scoring leader Bobby Orr.

Goalie Ed Johnston allowed five of the Montreal goals before being replaced by Gerry Cheevers midway through the second period.

At Chicago, netminder Tony Esposito, who leads the league with a record 15 shutouts, failed to stop a 33-shot Detroit attack while Roy Edwards won the duel by making 35 saves in the Red Wings nets.

Frank Mahovlich and Pete Stemkowski each scored twice for the Wings and Wayne Connelly added a single goal. Rookie Gerry Pinder scored both Chicago goals.

Keenan's Goal Earns Blues a Tie

The one point gained by the Seals at St. Louis moved them into a tie with Minnesota in the battle for fourth place in the West.

Oakland has a home-and-home series remaining with the last-place Los Angeles Kings while Minnesota faces two road games—at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

The Seals appeared headed for a 2-1 win over the Blues but Larry Keenan's goal with less than three minutes remaining in the game gave St. Louis the tie.

Bill McCreary put the other St. Louis goal behind Oakland goalie Gary Smith while netminder Glenn Hall was the victim on Seals scores by Earl Ingarfield and Carol Vadnais before a St. Louis crowd of 16,298.

The Penguins' home-ice victory in front of a crowd of 7,984 clinched their first playoff berth in their three-year history.

Val Fonteyne and Jean Pronovost beat goalie Bernie Parent to give the Penguins a 2-0 lead but Andre Lacroix replied for the Flyers before the end of the second period.

The Flyers pulled Parent in favor of an extra attacker in the last minute of the game, but the move backfired with Dean Prentice and Bob Blackburn scoring into the empty net.

Al Smith had an easy night minding the Pittsburgh nets as he stopped 25 shots, but the Penguins unloaded 40 drives at Parent.

Philadelphia plays host to first-place St. Louis in the only other game tonight.

Green Mountain Open to Skiers

Skiers could find a final haven on Green Mountain this weekend as the spring thaw continues to close other areas.

Reports this morning indicate a light dusting of new snow on top of a 45-inch base and a temperature of 24 degrees.

Junior Champs Open for Bids

VERNON B.C. (CP) — The president of the Vernon Minor Hockey Association said today the Vernon club in the British Columbia Junior Hockey League is for sale.

"The main reason for selling the club is that it is too big an operation for a non-profit organization like us to handle on a voluntary basis," said Stewart Mitchell.

The association has handled the club for the last four seasons. The club's executive advised it to sell to a buyer with some financial backing.

The association has been approached by one interested individual from Vernon, and two groups, also from Vernon, have indicated willingness to purchase the franchise, Mitchell said.

FINANCIAL PROBLEM

Vernon won the B.C. Junior title this year but lost to Weyburn, Sask., Red Wings in Memorial Cup quarter finals, four games to two.

Kelowna Buckaroos is the only other club in the league run on a similar basis.

"Operating a junior club on this basis is fine if the club is making money or at least breaking even," Mitchell said, "but it could be a problem should we lose money."

He said no financial bids have been made by interested parties, nor has the association yet determined what the club is worth.

PROVINCIAL CUP FINALS ON SATURDAY

Two provincial rugby titles will be on the line Saturday at Macdonald Park.

University of Victoria Vikings will meet Vancouver Kats for the Roundsfell Cup, emblematic of B.C. first division supremacy, at 2:30 p.m.

Saanich Velox and Vancouver Georgians will tussle for the second division crown at 1 p.m.

Both local clubs are divisional champions in the Victoria Rugby Union.

Art Chapman, Bruce Humber In Hall of Fame

Two more Victoria products were elevated to the British Columbia Sports Hall of Fame in voting conducted this week, bringing the total number of Victorians in the Hall to 13.

BRUCE HUMBER

Bruce Humber, still in Victoria, and Art Chapman, who now calls Vancouver home, were selected along with Olympic skiing champion Nancy Greene Raine, swimmer Elaine Tanner and track champions Lillian Palmer Alderson and Bill Parnell.

Humber began a track career here as a high school student in the 1930s, clocking the then phenomenal times of 9.9 in the 100-yards and 21.8 seconds in the 220. He later timed in at 9.6 and 20.8 at the University of Washington, where his record was untouched for 32 years.

Also a member of the Washington University Hall of Fame, Humber was on the fourth-place Canadian 400-meter relay team at the 1936 Olympics.

As a volunteer coach in Victoria, Humber has produced four B.C. championship teams as well as two Canadian team championships. He also coached the Canadian track squads at the 1950 British Empire Games and the 1952 Olympics.

FIVE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Chapman was a key player in the great Blue Ribbon-Dominos basketball dynasty that dominated the Canadian picture in the 1930s and 40s. Together with his brother Chuck, who was elected to the Hall last year, Art shared in the winning of five national championships and was later to become a dominant figure in the professional Vancouver Hornets.

He also shared in a Canadian silver medal at the 1936 Olympics and is considered one of the finest playmakers in the

Tribe First To Fall

By The Associated Press

Cleveland Indians Wednesday became the first team this year to lose to Milwaukee Brewers, the late Seattle Pilots.

The transplanted Pilots trounced the Indians, 9-4, in exhibition action as Danny Walton slammed a home run and three singles and knocked across five runs. Walton got his homer in the first inning off Dick Ellsworth with two on.

It was a good day for Detroit Tigers. First they learned they'll only have to do without suspended pitcher Denny McLain until July 1. Then, Al Kaline hit a grand-slam homer in the ninth inning to provide a 6-4 victory over Boston Red Sox.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati Reds exploded for nine runs in the sixth inning, including a grand slam homer by Tony Perez, and outslugged Washington Senators 14-9. The big outburst came at the expense of rookie pitcher Dick Such, who brought a string of 14 scoreless innings into the game.

CHISOX REGULAR?

Another rookie, Jerry Janeski, won a spot on the Chicago White Sox' starting rotation by stopping Pittsburgh Pirates for seven innings on six hits and one run. The Sox won, 5-1.

Rookie sluggers John Ellis and Thurman Munson continued to impress with homers but New York Yankees lost to Kansas City Royals, 4-3. Amos Otis cracked a two-run homer for the Royals.

Outfielder Sam Parilla, trying to make the big jump from the Carolina League where he hit .383 last season, belted a sixth-inning homer and sparked a two-run rally in the eighth as Philadelphia Phillies rallied to beat Minnesota Twins, 4-3. Parilla's two-out single started the winning rally.

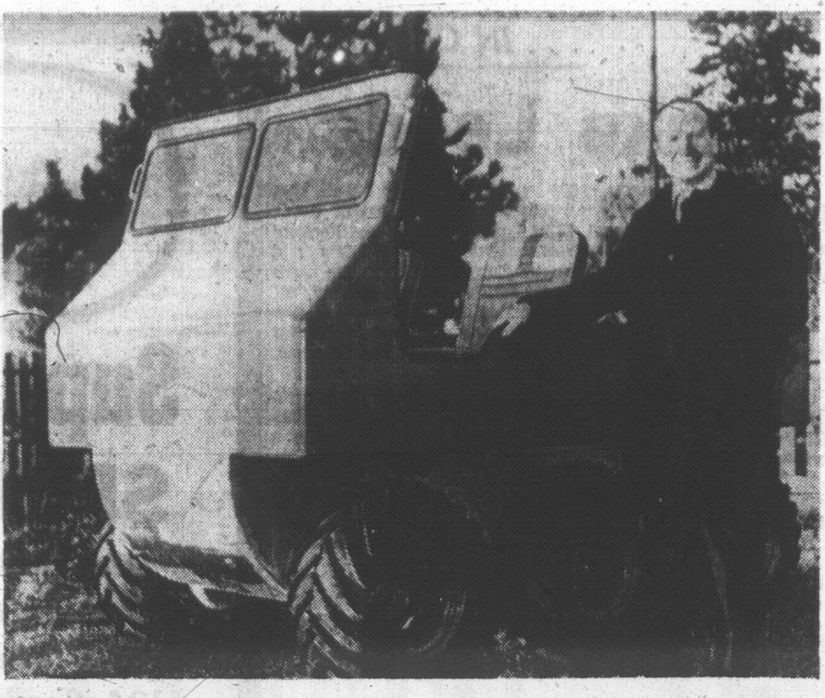
LAWYERS STILL WORK

Off the field, in Seattle, lawyers still were hammering away in federal bankruptcy court at the exact wording of the order approving sale of the Pilots to Milwaukee for $10,800,000.

After 2½ hours of deliberation before bankruptcy referee Sidney C. Volinn, the hearing was recessed to day. At that same hearing, Washington State will seek to have all legal restrictions against a joint Seattle and state damage anti-trust suit lifted. The suit is against the league, the individual owners and the owners of the Pilots.

Volinn had stayed all legal action so that he could consider the Pilots' petition to have the sale approved. He gave that approval Tuesday night.

The only question left after Volinn announced his decision to approve the sale was when he would sign the order. Wallace Aiken, attorney for Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc., the Pilots' owner, asked for an early-morning signing because of a deadline on the sale.



INTEREST in amphibious "swamp buggy" is displayed by Sam Dumka, co-chairman of Kiwanis Sportsman Show that opens today at Esquimalt Sports Centre. (See story below.)

Machines Show You How To Get Off Beaten Track

Theme of the annual Kiwanis Sportsman Show is "action" and the kind of action that appeals to people who like to get off the beaten track is wrapped up in some of the machines that will be on display when the four-day show opens at 5 p.m. today at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Three of the most intriguing mechanical masterpieces—all built by men in the Greater Victoria area—will get you almost anywhere. You can cruise on land or water, you can skim a few inches above either earth or sea, or take the same route higher in the air.

For instance, there is the Swamp Buggy. Built by Otto Stoberl, the buggy is a fully-amphibious vehicle that hits 40 m.p.h. on highways and 3 m.p.h. on water. Constructed of aluminum alloy with a carrying capacity of 1,000 pounds, it will flit faster over waves if you attach an outboard motor

Then there is a hovercraft, designed and developed by Al Zarft of Langford. With a motor that churns up 200 horsepower, this item is a 20-footer that can tote eight people and ride its air-cushion at 60 knots. Retractable wheels eliminate need for a trailer.

Perhaps you would prefer the Benson Gyro-copter, built by G. Ray and Ray Creed. It only weighs 240 pounds, but it will carry 300 about 200 miles. The 'copter needs a speed of 25 m.p.h. for take-off and comes in at a gentle 10 m.p.h.

Other exhibits include a Lotus racing car and, of course, dozens of displays of outdoor equipment. For do-it-yourselfers there is an archery range and pro Ron Cush will offer tips while you swing away in his indoor golf driving range.

YMCA gymnasts will exhibit their talents each night at 7:30, retrieving dogs will splash at the same time in a pool set up in the curling rink, and thrills will be supplied by an outstanding aerial act—Les Rhodins—at other times.

Les Rhodins and the other entertainers will present their show at 8:30 tonight, 3:30 and 8:30 Friday and Saturday, and at 2:30, 4:30 and 8:30 Sunday.

There could be something for everybody.

City Youngsters Claim Pin Title

WINNIPEG — British Columbia's bantam boys' team from Town and Country Lanes in Victoria nailed down their age-division title Wednesday in the Youth Bowling Council's national championships.

Craig Shemilt, Gordon Ewan, Bruce White, Michael Stuart and Bob Desiatnyk slipped by Manitoba, 331-330.

Gloria Crow of Victoria failed to make the top three of the senior girls' singles competition which was won by Ontario's Joanna Alho.

Three age-bracket titles were competed for in the five-day annual national championship—bantam, junior and senior. A total of 257 young keglers took part this year.

Ontario representatives swept all the other team titles but one.

Squads from Toronto captured the Canadian crowns for bantam girls, junior boys and senior girls while an Oshawa entry won the junior girls' laurels.

The senior boys' crown was taken by Edmonton.

Orioles Rated Team to Beat

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP)—Baltimore Orioles, who have the power, and Oakland Athletics, who hope they have added the power, figure to be the teams to beat in the American League baseball pennant races that begin next week.

Each, however, likely will be faced with different problems.

The Orioles, who do not seem to have stiff competition facing them in the Eastern Division, will have to overcome whatever psychological scars were inflicted by losing to New York Mets in the World Series last year. The Athletics will have to overcome Minnesota Twins in the Western Division.

With the exception of those three teams—the Orioles, the Athletics and the Twins—it looks from here as if the others will have difficulty keeping within hailing range. The entire order of finish should look something like this:

East—1. Baltimore; 2. Boston; 3. Washington; 4. New York; 5. Detroit; 6. Cleveland.

West—1. Oakland; 2. Minnesota; 3. Kansas City; 4. California; 5. Chicago; 6. Seattle-Milwaukee.

The big battle most likely will develop in the Western Division with the defending champion Twins meeting the challenge of the Athletics.

The Twins, who won it under Billy Martin last year, will be trying to duplicate that effort this year under Bill Rigney and the adjustment required in adapting to that change-over may have been reflected in Minnesota's 0-9 record at the beginning of spring training.

Twins Have Hitting and Pitching

There is heavy artillery available, with Harmon Killebrew and Tony Oliva and the pitching should have improved with the addition of Luis Tiant to a staff that includes Jim Kaat, Jim Perry and Dave Boswell.

The Athletics, however, seem to have improved themselves to the point where they have the ability to overtake the Twins. The addition of Don Mincher and Felip Alou should add even more dynamite to a lineup that already includes a legitimate super-slugger in Reggie Jackson.

There doesn't seem to be any way the others can be a factor. Kansas City Royals' youthful forces may be the only edge needed to finish third in what figures to be a three-team race with California Angels and Chicago White Sox. Seattle-Milwaukee, or whatever, will bring up the rear.

In the Eastern Division, only a complete turnabout can keep the Orioles from another World Series engagement.

With Frank Robinson, Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson swinging and Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally and Jim Palmer pitching the Orioles just could be as convincing winners as they were last year when they finished 19 games ahead of the second-place Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers figure to fade this year, without the suspended Denny McLain for a half season, and the most likely challenger are Boston Red Sox, hoping to recapture the spirit of 1967 under new manager Eddie Kasko with a solid team led by Carl Yastrzemski.

Another year under Ted Williams should lift Washington Senators into third place despite improvements made by New York Yankees with the acquisition of first baseman Danny Cater and outfielder Curt Blefary.

The Tigers are tagged to sink to fifth, winding up ahead of only Cleveland Indians.

Victoria West Blanks Vikings

Victoria West pulled out a goal in each half Wednesday night at Royal Athletic Park to blank University of Victoria Vikings 2-0 and advance to the semifinals of the Victoria and District Soccer League's Jackson Cup competition.

Jim Schulz scored the first tally in the match between two first-division clubs and Mike Beaulac added the insurance goal for Wests.

Vikings failed to capitalize on two great chances in the second half. Russ Ball missed a penalty shot and Greg Pearson later booted the ball over the net with the Wests' defence out of position.

Wests now meet Hourigans on April 15 while Oak Bay tackles Gorge Molsons in the other semifinal next Wednesday.

The final is scheduled for April 22 with all matches at Royal Athletic Park.

history of Canadian basketball.

Mrs. Raine's career was highlighted by two successive world championships and gold and silver medals in the 1968 Olympics. A native of Rossland, she now lives in Montreal.

GREAT RECORD

Miss Tanner blazed a fiery trail through B.C. sports history by winning an unprecedented four gold and three silver medals in swimming at the 1966 Commonwealth Games, two golds at the 1967 Pan-American Games and two silvers and one bronze at the 1968 Olympics. Along the way, Miss Tanner managed to set five world records.

Vancouver-born Mrs. Alderson set a world record of 5.8 seconds for the 50-yards in 1930 and won three firsts at the BEG trials the same year. She shared a silver medal with the Canadian relay team at the 1932 Olympics and a gold medal with the national relay squad at the 1934 BEG.

WON GOLD MEDAL

Another Vancouver native, Parnell was a gold medallist for the mile in the 1950 BEG, ran in the 1948 and 1952 Olympics and captained the national team at the 1954 BEG. He is now a successful track, football and basketball coach at Delbrook High School.

Other Victoria products in the Hall beside Humber and the Chapmans are Archie McKinnon, George "Porky" Andrews, Norm Baker, Doug and Torchy Peden, Doug Fletcher, Muzz and Lynn Patrick, and the late Lester and Frank Patrick.

New members will be formally enshrined in the Hall at the annual Banquet of Champions in May, details of which are expected to be announced shortly.

Saanich Lacrosse

Saanich Minor Lacrosse Association is holding a final day of registrations for boys between the ages of six and 16 on Saturday, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at Hampton and Braefoot parks. Both birth certificates and medical insurance cards are required by prospective players.

Celtic Blanks Leeds

By The Canadian Press

Glasgow Celtic and Feijenlands are poised to qualify for the final of the European Cup—Europe's major club soccer competition.

Celtic, the 1967 European champion, shocked English League champion Leeds United by winning, 1-0, at Leeds in the first leg of their semi-final match. A first-minute goal by George Connelly was enough to give Celtic victory.

TOP CHAMPIONS

Feijenoord, conqueror of reigning European champion AC Milan in the second round, battled to a goalless draw against Legia Warsaw in Poland and should win through to its first European Cup final in the return leg.

The second legs in the semi-finals will be played April 15.

Leeds, which had scored 24 goals and conceded none in winning earlier European Cup ties against Lyn Oslo of Norway, Ferencvaros of Hungary and Standard Liege of Belgium, was staggered when Connelly made his first-minute thrust.

Connelly's close-range shot struck Leeds defender Paul Madeley and was deflected past goalkeeper Gary Sprake.

In the second half Leeds captain Billy Bremner had left the field with a head injury.

With away goals counting double in the event of an over-all tie, Leeds now faces a massive task when it plays the return leg at Glasgow's 134,000-capacity Hampden Park stadium.

Two weeks ago Leeds was challenging for a unique treble of English League and Football Association Cup trophies and the European Cup in the same season. They have already lost the English League title to Everton and now look booked for elimination from the European Cup.

Elsewhere, West Germany's Schalke-04 team defeated England's Manchester City, 1-0, in a match for the European Cup Winners' cup.

Inter-Milan beat Anderlecht 1-0 in the first leg of the semi-finals game of the European Inter-Cities Fairs cup.

Everton clinched the English first-division title Wednesday with a 2-0 win over West Bromwich.

'SNARLING' COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED

Compromise Reached on Floor Plan

Chief Librarian John Lort and Frank Poirier of the management consultant firm of Woods, Gordon and Co. have reached a compromise on the layout of the main floor of the public library as proposed in the firm's survey.

The library will be closed April 20 to 25 so the changes can be made.

Lort said today it was unfortunate that he had not been consulted before.

"If I had been given a draft copy of the proposals and an opportunity to make recommendations earlier we would have been able to prevent everybody snarling at each other."

He said further alterations to the library will be made in phases.

Lort said estimates for steel shelving ranged from $5,000 to $6,000. The steel shelves would replace old wooden shelving which he suggested could be used for a new branch in Oak Bay.

The legality of photocopying machines was questioned at Wednesday's board meeting.

Rev. Gordon Walker said the question was coming before American courts on whether the copier or the people who supply the machines were responsible for copyright infringements.

Lort said no legal opinion has been given on the matter but a decision would have far-reaching effects because so many libraries, universities, businesses and chain stores were using the machines.

He warned: "Our main concern should be that we don't harm firms which depend on these machines for their livelihood."

A new public library for Greater Victoria will be suggested as a provincial centennial project.

The board decided to make an official request to the Greater Victoria Centennial 71 Committee, whose office will open on Fort Street within a few days.

'Close Whole Place Down' City Library Board Told

By AB KENT

A real economy in Greater Victoria Public Library operations could be gained by shutting the whole place down, an angry labor spokesman said Wednesday.

Larry Ryan, secretary of Victoria Labor Council, was reporting to delegates after the council was rebuffed in an attempt to discuss proposed library cutbacks with members of the library board.

The Woods, Gordon and Co. report on library efficiency recently outlined ways for the publicly owned institution to save $100,000 a year.

DELEGATES UPSET

"If the board really wants to save money they could close the place down entirely and make everyone subscribe to the Readers' Digest," Ryan said.

Council delegates were upset by the board's attitude that library affairs are none of their business.

"They think Victoria Labor Council is audacious," the secretary said.

The board wrote to the labor council expressing the view that "no useful purpose could be served" by a meeting to hear VLC executive members.

"We were quite disappointed in not getting a meeting with the board," Ryan said, noting that in the past VLC had met with such elected bodies as the school board, city council and the hospital board, without difficulty.

Pointing out that members of the library board are appointed from the community rather than elected, Ryan said:

"We think the board was very narrow-minded in not condescending to meet with us."

He suggested the members could have learned something from the labor spokesmen.

Many other citizens have asked to meet with library trustees and have been refused, Ryan said.

The labor council's role in the matter had been misinterpreted, he said. Rather than being credited with having public interest at heart, the council is charged with a special interest, that of the library's internal labor matter.

Staff reductions are contained in the Woods, Gordon proposal.

APPLICATION

During discussion of the library, VLC delegates voted to accept an application by local 410, Canadian Union of Public Employees, representing Greater Victoria Library Staff Association, to affiliate with the council.

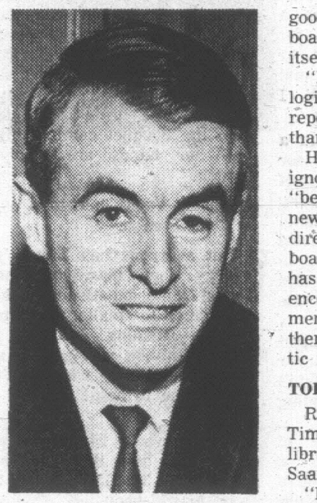
Ryan said there is a contradiction in public policy pertaining to education. At a time when municipalities support greater provincial spending for education — with one-third of the B.C. budget going to educational spending — the city of Victoria is "going the other way."

Executive members had met with Mayor Courtney Haddock of Victoria, which does some of the administration on behalf of all municipalities, but the mayor had refused to intervene.

USEFUL COMMENT

Delegate Joseph Fowler said he felt the labor council could put forward useful comment, especially since many of the people it represents have children who make use of library facilities in their school work.

Another delegate said he was distressed at the attitude of trustees, and questioned their qualifications to serve. He wondered whether some were library card holders.



RYAN
'. . . really save money'

"I think we have constructive criticisms," Ryan said, "and I am surprised other bodies haven't taken a stand."

UNIVERSITY

He thought the school board and University of Victoria student union should have said something.

"We simply suggest the principle of discussion is a good one. Why can't the board come out and explain itself?"

"I am afraid there is no logic to the (Woods, Gordon) report, that it is nothing more than fiction," Ryan said.

He charged the press with ignoring the issue editorially "because the editor of one newspaper is involved directly as a member of the board, and the other editor has not spoken out in deference to the first. The involvement of the papers makes them opt out of the journalistic role."

TOBIN A TARGET

Ryan was referring to Times Editor Brian Tobin, a library trustee appointed by Saanich.

"Here's a case the Davey commission could look at, where there is an issue vital to the community and the press is completely out of the picture."

Ryan charged the library issue is "full of municipal politics, with four municipalities jockeying for position and the number one casualty is the library."

He suggested some body other than the labor council should come forward to organize a public meeting on the issue.

Ford Estate To Top Court

Disposition of the estate of Victoria millionaire Alan Douglas Ford will be decided by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The British Columbia Appeal Court Wednesday granted leave to the Royal Trust Company, executors of the estate, to appeal its own decision concerning the Ford will.

The Appeal Court in January refused to probate the 1958 will, in which the Victoria millionaire questioned his son's legitimacy and left him only a small part of the estate.

The son, John Douglas Ford, 47, of Australia had appealed against a ruling of the B.C. Supreme Court which declared the 1958 will valid.

In reversing the Supreme Court decision, the B.C. Court of Appeal ruled that the elder Ford, who died in 1967 at the age of 94, was of unsound mind when he made the 1958 will.

BOTH DOING WELL IN SEATTLE

City Man Donates Kidney to Sister

A Victoria man gave a kidney to his sister in a transplant operation Tuesday. Both are doing well.

David Lund, 33, of 3411 Maplewood, has been in Seattle for a week preparing for the operation in Seattle University Hospital.

The Lunds have five children and Lund's sister, Mrs. Steven Adams of Seattle, is the mother of six.

Mrs. Lund reported today that doctors consider the transplant a success.

* * *

"The kidney was working within 10 minutes of the operation. It's quite a miracle. My sister-in-law received no sedation or pain killers and seems to be quite comfortable without them."

Lund, an entomology technician at the Federal Forestry laboratory in Victoria, arrived here recently from Vernon where he had undergone tests for two or three months in preparation for the operation.

His sister is 36.

Another Victoria man, John S. Craddock, 33, of 709 Weans, received a kidney from a 17-year-old motorcyclist victim in an operation at the Vancouver General Hospital.

Craddock received his new kidney Thursday, March 19 and is still receiving regular treatments from an artificial kidney machine until the transplant is ready to take over normal functions.

Official Nod For Daisy's 'Do'

The B.C. Housing Commission is delighted that Mrs. Daisy Beckett of Blanshard Court is organizing an official opening for the Rose-Blanshard urban renewal project.

Commission chairman Everett Brown said today: "This is a private party arranged by one of our tenants and the commission is very pleased that Mrs. Beckett has taken it on."

Mrs. Beckett has issued invitations to 75 guests for the opening, which will feature a tour of her home at 2667 Blanshard. The opening is slated for Saturday, April 11 at 2 p.m.

Taking part in the ceremonies will be MP David Groos, Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, R. G. Clausin, the commission's regional supervisor; Mayor J. Courtney Haddock, former alderman Robert Baird and the project's resident manager, E. S. Roberts.

Victoria Out in Front As Construction Booms

The construction boom on southern Vancouver Island is continuing, first-quarter building permit figures show.

Increases in Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt and Central Saanich more than offset decreases in Oak Bay, Sidney and Langford-Colwood-Metchosin.

Figures show permits worth $14.7 million were issued in the first quarter of this year compared with $12.3 million in the same period last year.

Victoria tops, with permits worth $6.8 million against $6.3 million last year. Apartments and commercial buildings accounted for close to $3 million.

Saanich was second—$4.9 million against $2.4 million. This reflects some large single permits, for example the $1.6 million University Heights Shopping Centre at McKenzie and Shelbourne.

Langford-Colwood-Metchosin was third—$1,237,950 this year against $1,247,850 last year.

This included permits for 103 houses this year, down two from the first quarter of 1969.

In Saanich, residential construction continued its decline with permits issued for 57 houses and duplexes this year against 80 in the same period last year.

Esquimalt issued permits worth $720,539 compared with $437,901 in 1969. Helping boost this year's figures was a $337,600 permit for an apartment building on Cairn Road.

Sidney was down—to $555,441 this year from $673,304 in the first quarter of 1969.

Central Saanich was up—to $458,849 this year from $241,200 in the corresponding period last year.

Oak Bay was down sharply—to $105,820 from $1,023,847. This reflects a decline in permits issued for apartments.

Ask The Times

Q. Can you tell me where I can get addresses of servicemen serving in Vietnam who would be willing to correspond with us?—V.N.

A. There is no official address in the United States for this type of exchange although there are Pen Pal clubs in various parts of the country. Your best approach would be to write one of the leading newspapers, such as the New York Times, San Francisco Chronicle or the Los Angeles Times.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Arthur Mayse . . .

MY HOPE THAT MAN will outlast his machines was bolstered several weeks ago when the newspaper typewriter alloted to me gave up the battle. First it refused to feed its ribbon through the guides provided for that purpose. Then the little dingus that positions the ribbon ceased to function.

But the triumph of hard-punching forefingers over harder metal was a hollow one. In the ups and downs of our partnership, I had acquired a grudging affection for that elderly, foursquare mill. Generations of newsmen had hammered a personality into it. And in spite of its quirks and fits of temperament, it had rolled out approximately 1,600 columns for me.

I poked around in its works for a while. Then a typewriter man came and lugged it away. He did this with a certain air of finality, and he was disturbingly vague about when my old friend and enemy would be coming back.

It never returned: our parting proved final. Today I am poking cautiously at a sleek replacement of different make and modern styling. Everything on or in it functions smoothly. It doesn't jump letters, and it reverses its ribbon without a helping whack on its flank.

Well, no crocodile mourning for a mere machine. But I wish just once this streamlined, sterile stranger would trip over its type bars, give off a deep-down clatter, and jump its spacing.

As my old one used to!

THE UBC LIBRARY boasts a splendid collection of books on angling and game fishes. Thereby hangs a speckled tale to which a number of distinguished British Columbians have contributed.

The story is told in a beautiful little book compiled by Susan B. Starkman and Stanley E. Read, and brought out in limited edition by Morriss Printing Company Ltd. of Victoria.

Title is "The Contemplative Man's Recreation." To remove any doubts as to what that recreation may be, a nicely-tied trout fly (Professor, wet, on a size 10 hook) is let into the plastic-shielded cover.

The rear portion of the book is given over to a bibliography that fills 75 pages.

Elsewhere, co-compiler Read, in an essay of uncommon charm, explains with the help of various fellow-anglers how the collection was born and grew.

Its father is "The Harry Hawthorn Foundation for the Inculcation and Propagation of the Principles and Ethics of Fly-Fishing," a mock-solemn brotherhood that convenes on likely lakes. Its mother, I gather, was a cutthroat trout.

The foundation, to which anthropologist - angler Harry Hawthorn of UBC lent his name, fines its members for small offence or none. These fines are paid into a book-buying fund.

Another notable essay by Roderick L. Haig-Brown pays tribute to the late Tom Brayshaw, artist and master fly fisherman, whose library forms part of the collection.

May our own University of Victoria be as lucky in its friends!

HERE'S A QUESTION from [illegible] who has been [illegible] advance [illegible] Hydro [illegible] goes [illegible] plan to install a nuclear power plant in the Duncan area, will there be any change in our life insurance picture? Specifically, is there a danger that rates could be raised?"

I passed this query on to a local life insurance expert, who told me that he's aware of no precedent for any such rate increase.

"Anyone who already has a policy in effect," he said, "should be reassured that we would be unable to change its terms in any event."

He was less certain, however, about policies that might be written for this area after a nuclear power plant was installed. That, I gathered, might possibly depend on the type of neighbor the plant in question proved to be.

This is looking some distance ahead, but it might be as well if government clarified that point, and others, soon rather than later.

Energetic Aunt Beats Gladys Cold

By PENNY SAVER

I was complaining to Mathilda about Gladys' tiring enthusiasm when Wendy came back from settling little Bartleby down for his afternoon nap.

"For heaven's sakes," she said. "Be glad you don't know my aunt. Sometimes I think the stress of going to school with the name Europa Aphrodite Poole (her father was a classics scholar) unsettled her mind a bit because she can never sit still. She'll be arranging a party for Bart soon, but right now she's too busy arranging her daughter's wedding."

Arranging the wedding Aunt Europa style, Wendy explained, means making the dress, and the attendants' dresses, and arranging the flowers, preparing most of the food, and sending out all the invitations and generally doing everything, but everything, herself.

"She's baking the wedding cake," said Wendy, "and decorating it. She's terribly good at that and has even bought herself a sheet of sugar moulds so she can mould her own decorations.

"This mould cost her $2.35 and contains all sorts of shapes for all sorts of occasions—animals for children's parties and so forth.

"She's quite good at making shapes from scratch with stiff icing but she does occasionally buy a few things.

"Just the other day she was telling me how she found some doves for 50 cents a pair and sugar roses from between 5 and 15 cents, depending on size. I guess she didn't have enough time for shaping and drying."

Base for Bouquet

Wendy told us that a visit with Europa had taught her a lot about where to go for things, "if I ever want to make a wedding veil and bouquet, that is, which I doubt."

Milliner's wire at 50 cents a roll, tiny flat "jewels" for jewelling tiaras, stiff net bases for headdresses ranging from 65 to 95 cents, artificial flowers (most of stiffened organdy) from 15 cents to $1.50 depending on size and style can all be found in one store, she told us.

"She also got a bouquet backer, something I'd never seen before since I didn't have that sort of wedding myself.

"This thing is made of white plastic and has a rounded styrofoam pad on a circle set at an angle to the handle. The stems of the flowers are jabbed into the pad (or the flowers are wired into bunches and the wire stuck into the styrofoam) so there is a nice large display surface. The bride can hold onto the bouquet comfortably and her hands are nicely hidden."

These, Wendy informed us, cost $1.65 each.

Not everyone has Europa's energy, but many of the items Wendy mentioned could be applied to smaller projects than a wedding. In fact, I think Mathilda was getting a few ideas. I hope she doesn't expect me to help!

If you would like to know where to find these items, please call 382-3131 between 9 a.m. and 12 noon.

SEW SIMPLE

By EUNICE FARMER

Dear Mrs. Farmer,

Please explain how to make a flat V neckline on a one-piece dress in the front. The dress has a centre front seam, the band that forms the V does not. I simply can't get this to lie nice and smooth. — Mrs. R. E. R.

Dear Mrs. R. E R:

I can almost visualize the problem you are having and think I can spot the reason. You have probably stitched the center front seam of your dress clear up to the end of the fabric. By doing this, you haven't left yourself any space to fit the separate banding in the proper position to make a perfect V.

You must end your stitching at the dot on your pattern which will appear ⅝ inches from the cut edge of the pattern. Be sure to backstitch or reinforce at this point. Then proceed as you would if you were fitting in a gusset, each section is stitched individually, not continuously.

I think you could benefit from my leaflet, All About Gussets, where all types of gusset details are explained. Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to Sew Simple by Eunice Farmer, care of The Times, with your request.

CHICKEN BAKED IN SOUR CREAM

Chicken Cooking Contest Invites Men to Enter

Calling all fowl cooks!

There are two weeks left in the original chicken recipe contest being sponsored by the B.C. Broiler Marketing Board.

The contest, which closes April 17, will judge chicken recipes on originality, flavor, appearance and practicality. It is open to everyone who ever cooked a bird, and offers three $35 prizes. One for the best recipe from a homemaker; another for the best recipe from a man and a third from the best student entry.

Entries should be sent to Box 472, Victoria, B.C. Each entry must include name, address, phone numbers, whether or not entrant is a student. A B.C. Chicken label must be enclosed. All entries become property of the B.C. Broiler Marketing Board.

Home economist, Mrs. H. Graham Pettapiece, who is quite a fowl fancier herself, suggested these recipes as inspiration for aspiring contestants, or a way out for a non-competitive mother who is just looking for a new and different main course dish.

CHICKEN BAKED IN SOUR CREAM

1 chicken (3 to 4 pounds)
¼ cup butter
½ cup chopped onion
2 tbsp. flour
1½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
½ pint commercial sour cream
1 cup (4-ounces) sliced mushrooms
½ cup diced green pepper
½ cup diced celery
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
Paprika to sprinkle

Cut chicken in serving-size pieces. Brown in melted butter, about 10 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Arrange in greased casserole. Pour any excess fat from pan, add onion and saute until transparent (1 to 2 minutes). Blend in flour and seasonings. Gradually add sour cream and stir until smooth. Add remaining vegetables and parsley. Pour sauce over chicken. Sprinkle with paprika. Cover and bake at 325-deg. F until chicken is tender (1 to 1½ hours). 6 servings.

SWEET AND SOUR CHICKEN

¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup vinegar
3 tbsp. soya sauce
½ cup catsup
1 tsp. mustard
1 can crushed pineapple

Heat over medium heat and thicken with 1 tbsp. cornstarch mixed with a little water. Brown about 2 lbs. chicken parts and place in baking dish, cover with sauce. Bake in covered casserole 1 hour at 350-deg. F.

CHICKEN CRUNCH

1 can cream of mushroom soup
¾ cup milk
1 tbsp. finely chopped onion
2 lbs. chicken parts
2 tbsp. melted margarine
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ tsb. poultry seasoning

Mix ½ cup soup, ¼ cup milk, onion and parsley. Dip chicken in soup mixture, then roll in seasoned bread crumbs. Place in shallow baking dish

Drizzle butter on chicken. Bake at 400-deg F. for 1 hour. Combine remaining soup and milk, heat and stir. Serve as a sauce with chicken.

Colorless Lipstick Used For New Natural Look

TORONTO (CP) — Your goal, when you put on makeup these days, should be to look like yourself—only better. The almost natural trend is going to continue, says Robert Biggs.

It pays Biggs to know, as he is vice-president of Biggs Dominion Sales, Ltd., manufacturers of cosmetics.

"You don't want to look like Twiggy, you want to be yourself. The young generation doesn't want to spend 24 hours painting faces like a paint-by-number set," he says.

"The trend is to a very natural look. In the daytime, use colorless lipstick or lip glosses, a monotone, complete look with pale pink lipstick and eye shadow.

"In the evening the hair is sculptured and you wear some eye makeup, a little more color on the lips.

"You should be playing a role and being complete in it. Older women wear the same look and moderate it for themselves."

Biggs says daytime hair styles now are casual. You should look as if you just got up and ran your fingers through your hair. If it's long, wear it in an easy pony tail.

He says too many women let their personal styles freeze.

For instance, some still wear bouffant hair styles.

"You wear what you wore when you were working, five years ago. If you don't want your styles to freeze, tie in with what's going on, know what's happening. You don't have to agree with everything, but you should be aware."

"If you apply makeup too hard, you just clog your skin. What you should do is buy a highlight or a brighter color.

"A moisturizer stops makeup from turning color. People think of skin as being like their fingernails, but it's not. Skin exudes oil and moisture and may affect the color of makeup."

He says one source of information about cosmetics is too often ignored—the instructions on the package. Read them before you buy a product and when you are learning to use it.

"You'd be surprised how many people have cosmetic problems because they don't read the instructions."

DEAR ABBY . . .

Refuses to Give

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a cook at a country club. A week ago I got the flu and had to stay at home for several days. The boss called me up and asked me for my onion ring recipe. I told him it was my own special recipe, and the other cook could make up his recipe like I made up mine. The boss then asked, "Is it your intention to take the onion ring recipe to your grave with you?" (You can can imagine how that kind of question hit me, being sick with the flu and all.)

Well, I never did give him my recipe. Do you think I was wrong or not? — Cook.

DEAR COOK: A professional cook is under no obligation to give his recipes away. The other cook could have found a recipe for onion rings in any number of cook books, even though he may have had to look with tears in his eyes.

DEAR ABBY: For the past eight months my friends and relatives have been playing DEAR ABBY — and now I would like the real DEAR ABBY to stand up with her advice.

My widowed sister remarried (a widower) and in lieu of a gift we gave her a cocktail-dinner party. I asked her to limit the number of guests, as we could accommodate only 30 comfortably.

Everyone accepted. The night of the party we held up dinner half an hour waiting for a couple who never did show up. Neither did they call to apologize or explain later. I have had nothing to do with them since. Everyone tells me to forget it, and act as though nothing happened.

I say, "Who needs friends like that?" I even found out they had no intention of coming when they accepted. I could have invited someone else. What do you think my attitude should be? — How 'Bout That?

DEAR HOW: First I would want to be positively certain they received my invitation. If they did, and plumb "forgot" (which is possible) I wouldn't hold it against them a lifetime. It's hard to believe that anyone would accept an invitation — plan not to come, and be so rude as to not show up or apologize later for their absence. Something is cockeyed here. If I were you, I'd ask them.

DEAR ABBY: Please save us from insanity! We recently put one of those "answering devices" on our telephone which records the "messages" left by callers when we are not at home. It would be marvelous if only the callers would leave a message so we could call them back.

Abby, it is sooooo frustrating to come home and get the "message" that the phone rang at such and such a time, but the party hung up as soon as the recording went on.

Please ask people to take another 20 seconds and leave their names so we will know who called and we can call them back! — Going Crazy.

DEAR GOING: Okay. Here's the plea. And lotsa luck.

DEAR ABBY: Re your letter from LIKES PETS who wanted to know if a dog would mistake a green carpet for grass, and use it accordingly: Dogs go by smell and feel — not by color. Next thing you know, someone will be asking whether or not to buy tables with brown legs, since they look like trees! — Likes Pets, Too, Outside.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Bus Load of Guides Arrives from Vancouver

Guides Receive Awards

Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson presented gold cord certificates to 16 Vancouver Island Girl Guides in a ceremony at Government House Wednesday honoring 81 B.C. Guides.

The 2 p.m. presentation followed a provincial council luncheon attended by Mrs. Nicholson, provincial guider executives and the girls.

Mrs. C. E. C. Stewart, provincial commissioner, gave the "charge" to the Guides.

The gold cords, guiding's highest achievement, are awarded annually to those Guides completing the Guide program.

Refreshments were served at Government House following the ceremony. Out-of-town Guides were billeted in Victoria homes last evening.

Today, the Guides toured the provincial museum and shopped in downtown Victoria before returning to their homes.

Victoria Guides receiving certificates included Colleen Margaret Clark, Trudy Clark, Robin Dunbar, Louise M. Evans, Caroline J. Foster, Jeannie Harrison, Krista Jensen, Deborah Jones, Kathy L. Kromm, Susan M. Phillips, Christine G. Reder and Barbara Tomlin.

Chemainus Guides receiving awards were Catherine J. Cairns, Judy Hill and M. Patricia Lacy.

Carol E. Pearson of Port Alberni also received a gold cord certificate.

Changing Shopping Patterns May Eliminate Supermarkets

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — North America without supermarkets?

Research done at Battelle Memorial Institute here indicates that supermarkets — which currently receive most of the nation's food dollars — may be extinct by the end of the century.

They probably will be replaced within 30 years, by home delivery services, small neighborhood specialty stores and prepared food outlets, according to this look into the future.

"Housewives' shopping patterns are changing," Gerald Collings, a research economist at Battelle, told UPI. "They want more convenient, quicker shopping to give them more leisure time."

Collings said a preliminary study of consumer food shopping habits by Battelle showed a definite trend away from supermarket buying.

Conversely, the study showed an increase in catalogue sales, telephone ordering and home deliveries.

The supermarket came into being to give the housewife a vast array of goods from which to choose, he said. But this no longer is necessary.

The acceptance in recent years of proven-quality brand names and labels makes home delivery workable, not only of staple goods, but meats, vegetables, pastries and other groceries as well, he said.

"If she knows the canned soup, cube steak, or cream pie she orders this time will be the same as the one she bought a week ago, the housewife doesn't need to see it before she buys it," Collings said.

When home delivery becomes the chief method for consumers to obtain food, small neighborhood specialty food shops and prepared food outlets will appear in great numbers, Collings believes.

The specialty stores will provide the pickup items nearly everyone forgets at the market as well as fancy cuts of meat and other items the customer prefers to shop for individually.

The prepared food business, which already is growing by leaps and bounds, will reach a point where there may be as many outlets as there are service stations today, Collings predicted.

He said the logistics of home delivery of food should present no problem.

Delivery would be coordinated from a central warehouse from which the customer would order by telephone. Videophones or closed circuit television could allow the customer to view any or all of her order if she desired.

Collings believes the cost of home food delivery would equal or be less than the current overhead of supermarkets. Food prices also would be comparable or lower.

He pointed out that home delivery would not lend itself to impulse buying which helps boost supermarket profits. But neighborhood stores would benefit.

"Food processors and distributors will have to develop some new techniques to stimulate buying," he said.

Red Cross Commissioner To Speak Here Monday

Major-General A. E. Wrinch, national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross Society, will speak at a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club of Victoria in the Newcombe Auditorium Monday at 2:30 p.m.

His topic will be The Aftermath of the Nigerian Civil War from a Red Cross point of view.

Born at Hazelton, B.C., General Wrinch joined the Canadian Red Cross after 32 years with the Canadian Army. He is the first non-medical man to take the top administrative position in the Canadian Red Cross.

During the Second World War, he served in Canada, the United Kingdom, Italy and Northwest Europe as signal officer of the Canadian Army Pacific Force.

Since joining the Red Cross he has served in many parts of the world, including Russia and Eastern Europe.

This year General Wrinch has been active in the organization of Canadian relief for victims of the Nigerian conflict.

Tugboat Crews Back to Work

NEW YORK (AP) — Tugboat crews went back to work in New York harbor today after a two-month strike that ended when they agreed to a 53.5-per-cent increase in wages and benefits over three years.

Capt. Joseph O'Hare, president of the 6,000-member Local 333 of the AFL-CIO National Maritime Union, told a ratification meeting Wednesday it was "one of the best, if not the best contract in the country."

The Marine Towing and Transportation Employers Association said the settlement, which includes a 41-per-cent wage increase, was "the greatest package ever granted in the history of the tug industry."

One result of the contract was expected to be an immediate increase in tug hiring rates. From the present $111.50 an hour for a tug to dock a liner at the Hudson River piers the rate is expected to go to about $155 an hour.

The strike began Feb. 1 and made idle 400 tugs. It cost an estimated $35,000,000 in lost revenues and wages but had little direct effect on the general public.

The strikes had originally sought a 100-per-cent boost in base wages of $2.96 an hour for deckhands and $4.03 for captains. They accepted an immediate 20-per-cent wage increase with an additional 10 per cent in each of the next two years for a total 41 per cent with compounding.

2,000-POUNDER LANDED

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP) — George Moskovita, a veteran Astoria fisherman, didn't let the big one get away. But he probably wishes he had.

Moskovita had his drag boat Kathy Jo about 25 miles off the Oregon coast early Wednesday when the big one got tangled in his net.

"We pulled this thing aboard," Moskovita said. "We didn't know what we had but the thing was banging back and forth between the hatch combing and the rail."

What he and his crew had hooked was a 2,000-pound bomb.

When he recognized the potential danger, Moskovita radioed for help from the Coast Guard, which sent a fixed-wing aircraft from Port Angeles, Wash., to bring in a three-man demolition team from Bangor, Wash.

After some anxious moments, the demolition experts determined the object was a practice bomb containing only sand and cement.

The catch ruined the fish net and Moskovita says, "I guess I'll give the thing to the museum."

Auditorium Bought

WINNIPEG (CP) — The provincial government Wednesday said it will buy the Winnipeg Auditorium for $1,000,000 from the city of Winnipeg. The auditorium has lost money for 36 of its 37 years of operation.

THE GALLUP POLL

French-English Relations Worse?

Belief that the feeling between English-speaking and French-speaking Canadians is getting worse, instead of better, has mounted steadily through the sixties. Early in the decade the nation was divided equally between optimism and pessimism, with 27 per cent in each camp. Today, weight of opinion is almost two to one that relationships are worse, as 42 per cent believe this is true, and only 24 per cent think they are improved.

Westerners take the most gloomy view with a majority (51 per cent) estimating that relationships have worsened and only about a third as many (18 per cent) holding they are better. Ontario is close to this point of view, with 50 per cent of the opinion that conditions are worse, and 24 per cent that they are brighter.

Quebec itself, however, and the Maritimes with its large French-speaking segment, is far more cheerful. In Quebec province, the largest proportion (33 per cent) feels there has been no change over the past five years, while 28 per cent think relationships are better, and 27 per cent worse.

Younger people are rather more hopeful than their parents, who are more inclined to think the situation is static.

To determine these facts, Gallup interviewers asked:

"DO YOU THINK THAT TODAY THE FEELINGS BETWEEN ENGLISH-SPEAKING AND FRENCH-SPEAKING CANADIANS ARE BETTER OR WORSE THAN THEY WERE SAY FIVE YEARS AGO?"

The table below compares attitudes in 1963 and 1967, with those of today.

	1963	1967	Today

Mobile Homes Fine To Saanich Planner

Mobile homes are a legitimate form of land use.

This is the opinion of Saanich planner Tom Loney and is reflected in a draft report on mobile homes.

He differentiates, however, between mobile homes which are more or less permanent and trailers and trailer parks which are temporary.

Loney said interest has been expressed in introducing mobile homes into Saanich. But a review of policy implications has had a low priority because no positive proposals have been put forward.

CHANGES

The working draft has been completed but he anticipates a number of changes before a final report is issued.

The draft is in two sections, policy and specific regulations. It deals with mobile homes themselves, not trailer parks.

He said a mobile home is essentially a home built to be transported, but once moved it rarely moves again. The mobile home thus becomes permanent. They are often put on foundations and have landscaping added.

"They become, in effect, a normal residential use of land," he said.

Trailers, and trailer parks, are designed for short-term accommodation, often pulled behind cars, "are mobile in every sense of the word" and oriented to the tourist.

MURDER RATE CLIMBS; 337 VICTIMS IN 1969

OTTAWA (CP) — The murder rate rose again in 1969, federal statistics show, providing more ammunition against the current trial abolition of hanging.

Preliminary figures for 1969 from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show 337 murder victims last year compared with 314 in 1968 and 281 in 1967.

A trial abolition of capital punishment began Dec. 29, 1967, for a five-year period. The death penalty was retained, however, for the deliberate slaying of policemen or prison guards on duty.

Three policemen were killed in 1967, before the new law came into effect. The number went to five in 1968 and five in 1969.

Currently two men are under sentence to death for police slayings that have occurred since the trial law came into effect. Mercy was recommended in both cases, meaning that if the federal cabinet must make a final decision on them, commutation is likely. They are still in the appeal process.

LIST CASES

The federal policy of commuting death sentences where the jury recommends mercy has been firmly established.

The two cases involve:

- William Roy Rosik, 22, sentenced in Windsor, Ont., to be hanged for the shooting last August of Constable Robert Carrick, also 22, killed while answering a domestic complaint in a Windsor suburb.
- Clifford Lurvey, 53, a Vancouver man sentenced to be hanged for shooting Constable Leonard Shakespear 26, during burglary in a St. Boniface, Man., store last July 18.

Among the other cases since the trial period began, one capital murder trial is pending, one convicted killer committed suicide, one was found mentally unfit to stand trial in the killing of two policemen, one case is unsolved, and the others have resulted in prison terms.

The pending trial in Montreal involves the death of Constable Gilles Boutin, 29, killed as he tried to jump clear last May as an escaped convict attempted to drive a truck through a roadblock.

Caught Cold

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Stephen Guarino, a University of Pennsylvania sophomore, deliberately caught a cold to earn $5 a night as a participant in a research project on the common cold. He slept two nights with his bedroom window open, got a head cold and earned $10. But someone crept through the window while he was asleep and stole his stereo and several books.

HOME GARDEN

All Ages Enjoyed Touch of Nature

By HILDA BEASTALL.

Hilda

"We've found the most beautiful place in the whole world!" When you hear this ecstatic statement from an eight-year-old girl on Easter Sunday morning, your hope is renewed for the world's future in the hands of the young ones.

It was our good fortune to be at Mount Douglas Park on Sunday, and this has nothing to do with gardening except as an interlude.

A young, well-bearded father had his family of three exploring the edge of the woods just above tideline .

As we reached the foot of the steps, this ecstatic proclamation burst from the child compelled to share her joy with all.

The spot in the woods had been made the most beautiful in the whole world because father had been discovering all kinds of beautiful things to share with his youngsters.

After a few pleasantries concerning the beauty of the world in general, we passed on to explore the wide wet strip of sand, left in fascinating ripples as the the tide receded.

Peace was all around, a quietness devoid of the sharpnesses and continuity of man-made sounds.

There was time and opportunity to hear the large quiet movements of nature. The lapping of wavelets in succession all along the beach; the congregating of crows awaiting the first picnickers of the season; and the movement of some tiny marine animal maintaining its breathing hole through the wet sand.

Suddenly there was another small creature with the same idea of "here is the most beautiful place in the world", a wirehaired terrier knowing the ecstasy of racing at the heels of his companion. We watched as the dog stood a few paces behind his pleasant-faced and also bearded young friend to give him a chance with a head start.

A usual procedure we were told, and they were off, quickly mile or so down the firm wet beach.

By noon there must have been close to 75 people enjoying the upper park area. Ages ranged from infants in what I call "carrying cases" to a few grey haireds like ourselves.

It was easy to sense the keen anticipation of outdoor enjoyment as each carload arrived. A oneness of purpose and need which had brought the whole bunch to this most beautiful place.

The little girl was right. Mount Douglas Park and the woods and the beach, the whole place was indeed the most beautiful in the world on Easter Sunday morning to each of us there.

May that little girl's gift of self expression grow with her years, and may she continue to share her excitement of living with those she meets in passing.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED L. KARPIN

The deal diagramed today is presented as a bridge mystery. You are informed that our South declarer committed an error or omission in his play; and, as a result, he lost a contract that might have been fulfilled. It is your job, as a bridge detective, to bring South's error to light.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

♣ Q 9 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

On West's opening lead of the club king, the three was played from dummy, East followed with the four-spot, and South dropped the deuce. West then led the queen of hearts, which was captured by dummy's king. On this trick, East played the ten of hearts, to get West to continue playing hearts if the latter regained the lead. From East's position, he didn't want any other suit played.

Dummy's eight of trumps was led next and the finesse taken, losing to West's king. West now came back with the jack of hearts, South's ace winning. In time, declarer lost two more club tricks—and his contract. What was South's error of omission?

Actually, South made no error that could be classified as one of a technical variety. But if South had appreciated that games made by deceiving the opponents count exactly as much as games made by brilliant technical execution, he might have won both the game and the rubber.

On the opening club lead, South should have played his nine-spot instead of the deuce. Whether West would have accepted this play as an "honest" one or not, we will never know. But if he did, he might well have assumed that South had started with either the J-9, the -9 or the Q-J-9, in which case it would cost West nothing to continue with the ace of clubs at trick two.

And, of course, if West did play the club ace next, South's queen would be promoted into a winner, and his game-going trick. In the same sense as East's play of the heart ten at trick two was a message to his partner to continue hearts, South should have tried to encourage West to continue playing clubs by playing the nine-spot at trick one. It would have cost absolutely nothing—and might have worked out beautifully.

Plant Seed in Right Direction—It Pays

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — If the seed is pointed in the correct direction, the plant will grow faster and better.

Don't laugh—this is the finding of a plant scientist who has been doing research for 10 years.

U. R. Pittman of the federal research station here also says he has found it helps to expose seed to some sort of magnetism.

Pittman said it should not be too difficult for engineers to devise equipment for positioning seed in the ground so that its embryo will point toward the north. This type of equipment design has been done in the case of some precision vegetable planters and Pittman feels it should be possible to do the same for cereal seeds.

In crops with round seeds the problem becomes a bit more difficult but still not impossible, Pittman feels.

Treat, Trick Marked Capital Selection

By BOB BOWMAN

Victoria was chosen as the capital of British Columbia on April 2, 1868. If the decision had been made one day earlier it could have been regarded as an April Fool's joke. Vancouver Island and the mainland of British Columbia had been united as one colony in November, 1866, and it looked as though New Westminster would be chosen as the permanent capital. Governor Seymour was in favor of it.

However, on the day that the legislative council was to make its decision, one of the chief speakers was Captain Franklin of Nanaimo. He was to present the case for New Westminster. Some of the Victoria supporters took him to a bar for some drinks before the meeting and he was not in shape to make an important speech.

To make matters worse for New Westminster, Gold Commissioner Cox, who was seated next to Franklin, managed to mix up the opening pages of his speech so that Franklin made three false starts. Then Cox took Franklin's glasses, that were lying on the table, and pressed the lenses from their frames. There was so much laughter and confusion that the chairman called a recess for half an hour.

When Franklin got up to speak after the recess, there was an objection that he had already spoken and could not be heard again. The objection was upheld by a vote of the members of the council, and so Victoria was chosen to be the capital of British Columbia.

Governor Seymour was so angry that he dismissed Cox and Franklin from the council, and refused to sign the bill making Victoria the capital until April 28. The Victoria "News" called him a "heartless dictator."

Other events on April 2:

1871 — First census after Confederation showed total population 3,496,877; Ontario, 1,629,842; Quebec, 1,190,050; New Brunswick 285,777; Nova Scotia, 387,800; Manitoba, 11,953.

1885 — Indians massacred white people at Frog Lake during Northwest Rebellion.

1887 — U.S. patrol ships seized British Columbia sealing vessels in Bering Sea.

1902 — Liqour Act was defeated in Manitoba.

1906 — Saskatchewan opened first session of legislature after becoming a province.

1947 — Toronto got cocktail bars.

1955 — Angus L. Macdonald Bridge opened between Halifax and Dartmouth.

We have 1258 for the game today. Using all four each time, one of each but no other digits at all, you form expressions for the consecutive numbers from one up.

Any arithmetical signs may be used, but no summation (that's not the simple plus) or factorial symbols. Don't forget powers, decimals, and the root sign.

For example, 81 minus 5 plus 2 is a solution for 78.

Uvic Perceives, In Images, The 'Magic Mountain'

An exhibition on the modern German writer, Thomas Mann, has opened at the University of Victoria.

Described as unique, it consists of 261 photographic reproductions which illuminate the life and work of the German author.

The department of Germanic Languages and Literature, which is sponsoring the exhibition, said the display had been seen in all the major cities of Europe and North America during the past eight years.

It is on display in the lobby of the MacLaurin Building and will remain there until April 11.

New Rector Sunday For St. Dunstan's

Rev. William J. Lunny will be inducted as the new rector of St. Dunstan's Anglican Church, Gordon Head, at the Sunday evening service.

The induction will be performed by Archdeacon Hywel Jones of Quatsino.

Formerly rector of Courtenay, Lunny was granted leave of absence in 1967 to study for a doctor of divinity degree at Evanston, Illinois.

After completing his first year, he spent a summer in New York working with slum children cared for by the famous Trinity Church on Wall Street.

Since returning to Victoria last year, Lunny has been in charge of the Colwood-Langford parish.

UBC GRADUATES

He and his wife June are both graduates of the University of British Columbia. Mrs. Lunny has an honors diploma in education and worked towards her master's degree in education while living at Evanston.

Lunny is a graduate of the Anglican Theological College, Vancouver, and received an MA degree at Oriel College, Oxford, England.

After a short time as assistant curate at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, he was for four years in charge of Cowichan Lake parish.

After the induction service Sunday evening, there will be a reception for Rev. and Mrs. Lunny and their three sons, Andrew, Mark and Matthew.

Alcatraz Indians Offered Plan

By WILLIAM CHAPMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (WP) — Alcatraz would be transformed into a park and cultural centre commemorating the American Indian's heritage under a peace plan offered to the Indians who have occupied the island for more than four months.

The federal government's offer, which calls for demolishing the old federal prison and creating a park that would "maximize Indianness," was presented to the occupiers' negotiating committee at a two hour meeting on the island Tuesday.

It was presented as a tentative plan for settling the island dispute by Robert Robertson, executive director of the National Council on Indian Opportunity, who reported Wednesday that Indians "promised to consider it fully."

The offer does not meet the Indians' principal demand that title to the island be turned over to them and vested in the corporation called Indians of All Tribes Inc.

A band of about 100 Indians took over the island last November, insisted an old Sioux treaty gave them legal title to it, and demanded federal aid for a university and cultural centre devised and operated by Indians.

The government has called them trespassers but has not tried to evict them and the offer made Wednesday was intended to break the unique stalemate.

Tonight's Top Television Shows

SPECIAL. 7 p.m., Channel 8. The Search for the Steller Sea Lion features Saanichton wildlife biologist Dave Hancock and his wife Lyn on a trip made to Triangle Island in the summer of 1969. There is some excellent wildlife footage taken on the rugged island, showing the largest bird rookery on the eastern Pacific Rim, a young harbor seal named Benjamin and the Steller sea lions, which are facing a crisis of survival — their numbers have been reduced from 12,000 to 4,000 in the past 13 years. This half-hour production is the pilot film for a projected series, The Elusive Wilderness.

★ ★ ★

BILL COSBY. 8 p.m., Channels 2 and 6. Really Cool is built around one of those hilarious Cosby monologues Tonight he's concerned with his performance at a very important track meet.

★ ★ ★

SPECIAL. 7:30 p.m., Channel 5. "It Couldn't Be Done" Many TV documentaries claim to be different, but this one actually is. It's an engrossing review of some of the outstanding achievements of American engineering which began as incredible ideas dreamed up by visionaires who wouldn't be defeated. Rare film clips and interviews with some of the people involved in the various projects set the stage for fascinating accounts about the construction of the Hoover Dam, the Panama and Erie Canals, Mount Rushmore, the Empire State Building and the Holland Tunnel, among others. Of particular interest is the story of George and Emily Robling whose courage and determination made the Brooklyn Bridge a reality. Lee Marvin is the host for this worthwhile and highly recommended hour. A treat for the whole family.

★ ★ ★

JIM NABORS SHOW. 8 p.m., Channel 7; 9:30 Channel 12. If you're an Anthony Newley fan, better tune in as the English entertainer goes through many of his hit songs. With the host, Newley offers numbers like "Once in a Lifetime" and he has the floor for "What Kind of Fool Am I?" and "Who Can I Turn To?" Jim Nabors becomes an awestruck bell boy in a Las Vegas sketch trying to help star Newley while Ronnie Schell barks out orders as Newley's manager. In other routines, Frank Sutton plays a hood about turn the business over to son Ronnie Schell. Then Nabors transforms the boarding house into a fancy hotel on "The Brothers-In-Law."

BONANZA. 9, Channel 2. The Horse Traders is a comic episode. Little Joe and Hoss figure to make some fast money by selling a herd of horses. But they get a rude awakening from an old acquaintance, a miner turned city slicker who drives a hard bargain.

★ ★ ★

IRONSIDE. 8:30 p.m., Channel 5. "Little Dog Gone." The Chief gets involved looking for a rich woman's lost dog as a favor to the commissioner and soon finds himself up against a dog-napping racket. Let's hope this drama does not provide some devious viewer with a new idea for a racket.

★ ★ ★

THURSDAY NIGHT MOVIE. 9 p.m., Channel 7. "Fate Is the Hunter." (1964) (repeat) A sometimes exciting drama which has Glenn Ford playing an airlines investigator who leaves no stone unturned trying to piece together the whys and wherefores of a fatal crash which took more than 50 lives. The flashback technique works well, and the cast is competent. Also, there's an excellent climax which maintains the tension. (Black and white.)

★ ★ ★

THIS IS TOM JONES. 7:30 p.m., Channel 8; 9 p.m. Channel 4 Tom and his guest Sammy Davis Jr. offers fans a treat with an hour of solos, duets and a couple of production numbers with The Welsh Guards Band. Tom and Sammy combine their vocal styles for a long medley of such tunes as "My Way," "Light My Fire," "With a Little Help from My Friends" and "You're Nobody 'Till Somebody Loves You." Another highlight is Sammy's turn with the Welsh Guards Band to "Before the Parade Passes By."

★ ★ ★

DEAN MARTIN. 8:30 p.m., Channel 8; 10 p.m., Channel 5. Forrest Tucker steps out for a song and dance to "Take Me Along" and enjoys himself gabbing with good-time pal Dean Martin, topping it off with a duet to "You Can't Love 'Em All'" Dean's daughter Gail duets with her Dad and Janice Harper sings "Going Out of My Head" before a version of "I Wish I Were in Love Again" with Dino. On the comedy side, Norm Crosby has a garbled monologue and Charles Nelson Reilly appears as a physical ed instructor and a department store manager.

TONIGHT'S MOVIES

5:30, Channel 12: The Amazing Colossal Man (1957 Science Fiction) Glenn Langan, Cathy Downs. Atomic effects make a guy grow and grow and grow; script just drags and drags and drags.

7:30, Channel 12: Edge of the City (1957 Drama), John Cassavetes, Sidney Poitier. Exciting, moving film about two longshoremen whose friendship is threatened by a bullying bigot.

9 p.m., Channel 7: Fate is the Hunter (1964 Drama), Glenn Ford, Nancy Kwan, Rod Taylor. Investigation of airliner wreckage turns up conflicting details.

11:40, Channel 2: The Straw Man (1955 English Mystery), Dermot Walsh, Clifford Evans. An insurance investigator refuses to believe a convicted man is a murderer and proves his case — good mystery.

12:01, Channels 6 and 8: Quantez (1958 Western), Fred MacMurray, Dorothy Malone. Four men and a woman escape a posse and hole up in a Mexican town where their emotions get the better of them.

MONTREAL TRUST
1057 Fort St.
"Complete Real Estate Service Across Canada"

There are many ways of putting your property into the hands of many selling brokers — Multiple Listing (which) reaches most Victoria Offices and Salesmen) is the sure way; or the listing agent will sub-list to other offices as seems advisable. A broad segment of selling agents is readily within your reach.

The key man in listing a property, though, is the listing broker you choose, and you should choose him with care. It is he whom you look to for advice as to the proper selling price to be placed on your property. It should not be too low — obviously — otherwise you will loose money; and it should not be too high so as to have a property which "drags" and does not sell in a reasonable time. This too can result in, eventually, a lower price than what could have been obtained. The advice is helpful in arriving at this figure. You will look to the listing agent to advertise your property fully; it is unlikely that anyone else will take on this task. Then, when an offer is received, the listing agent is available for advice as to its acceptance, no matter what the source of the offer may be. A key man in a satisfactory Real Estate Sale is the listing agent — a position of trust.

Our experienced staff is at your service.

WITH INCOME

EXHILARATING VIEW—PRIVACY We all like an income, but often hesitate to buy income property because we have to sacrifice our own privacy. Here is property that is unique in that one can have one's pie and eat it. Income and privacy goes hand in hand. The owner's apartment is situated in such a position that it offers a commanding view over our beautiful city and out to the distant sea. Hardwood floors throughout, de luxe kitchen with built-in range and oven. In addition to the owners home there are FOUR furnished rental units with separate entrances and plumbing. These provide a substantial monthly income. Construction only 11 years old and beautifully maintained. A pleasure to show. Sorry, no drive-by address can be given. Make your appointment to view by calling Don Bacon, 385-2458.

Trial Opens Monday On Stolen Bonds

The trial of a Victoria man, charged with being in possession of allegedly stolen B.C. Hydro bonds valued at $7,000, will open in Victoria County Court Monday at 11 a.m.

Rene Talon, 36, of 110 Government Street, will be tried by Judge Montague Drake and a jury of 12 to be selected from a jury panel of 50.

Crown counsel is Cecil O. D. Branson. Dermod Owen-Flood is defending Talon.

This is the first of four or five trials to be held at a general session of the county court, expected to last three weeks.

Mine Workers Affiliate With CLC

Canada's 8,000 miners belonging to United Mine Workers of America have joined the Canadian Labor Congress after a lapse of about 25 years as an affiliate of a national labor body.

The men are members of 28 Canadian locals, of which 16 are in District 18 — 11 in Alberta, four in B.C. and one in Saskatchewan — representing the bulk of western coal miners.

The eastern locals are divided between Nova Scotia, with 11 locals, and New Brunswick with one.

The Canadian districts have been independent since about the Second World War, but were formerly affiliated with the Canadian Congress of Labor, which merged with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in 1956 to become the CLC.

The move by Canadian districts is seen by some as a defensive measure against raiding. Other organized bodies with mining membership in Canada include United Steel Workers of America, also a CLC affiliate, and an independent union.

Steel Workers are certified to hard rock mining operations, UMW to coal mining, according to the CLC.

Oil Removal From Arrow Progresses

ARICHAT, N.S. (CP) — About 675,000 gallons of oil have been removed from the tanks of the sunken stern section of the tanker Arrow, lying in 90 feet of water in Nova Scotia's Chedabucto Bay.

A spokesman for the federal task force in charge of the operation said Tuesday the operation to pump oil out of the tanks into a receiving barge on the surface is going "slowly, but surely."

An estimated 1,500,000 gallons of oil was in the stern section when the operation began earlier this month.

The spokesman said the Canadian Coast Guard ship Narwhal, which has been housing military personnel since the operation began, will be replaced today by the Cape Scott, a maintenance ship equipped with a machine shop.

A seven-day test of the lobster population on the south side of the bay ended Tuesday, the spokesman said. All tests showed the lobsters to be free of oil pollution.

The lobster fishing season on the south side of the bay begins April 15.

A similar seven-day test will be carried out on the north side of the bay starting April 13, the spokesman said.

The Arrow grounded on a rock in the bay Feb. 4 and broke apart four days later, spewing heavy oil into the water. The oil later spread to cover an estimated 125 miles of the bay's shoreline.

The tanker carried 3,800,000 gallons of oil.

Loot Bagged

CHICAGO (CP) — Three robbers walked into a department store Monday, and while one bought a suitcase for $11.97 the other two robbed a cashier's cage in another part of the store of $21,000. The loot was placed in the suitcase.

Pool Vote April 25 On $400,000 Bylaw

FOWLER
'. . . like merchants'

NORTH COWICHAN — After several ups and downs the Pioneer Park swimming pool bylaw has been officially set at $400,000 and April 25 will be voting day.

The joint Duncan-Cowichan Recreation Commission had sought to have the price tag set at one time at $375,000 and on Wednesday asked North Cowichan council to agree to $395,000.

Ald. Lars Fowler said the comissioners were "acting like merchants trying to sell something for $3.95 because it sounds like a better bargain than $4."

Ald. Margaret Robertson said the $5,000 discount might have a psychological effect on the voters but council defeated the motion to alter it.

Duncan council took similar action Tuesday night.

A bid by the recreation commission to obtain $500 from each council for publicizing the pool bylaw was defeated by North Cowichan aldermen.

Mayor Gerry Smith said he could not "honestly" support it. It couldn't be done for one bylaw and not another.

"We've been in trouble with ratepayers over this sort of thing before."

Ald. Dennis Hogan disagreed. "We've done it for water and sewer bylaws. It's nothing new."

'Line Needs To Be Drawn'

Ald. Jim Roome said a line needed to be drawn between what constituted advertising and promotion.

"We are not necessarily favoring it if we say it is being held."

Smith said advertising of the bylaw in newspapers paid out of general revenue would almost amount to the $500 requested.

A motion to delete the "merging clause" from the swimming pool bylaw also was defeated but only after a deadlock vote, a swift committee of the whole discussion, and a revote.

Aldermen Jim Roome, Don Morton and Tom Burge voted for deletion first time around. Council was unanimous in its decision to defeat the motion on the second vote.

Before the final vote Burge said the merging clause was "a bogey man, a red herring drawn across the path. We would be very remiss as a council if we do not delete it."

The merging clause is a sticky piece of business that was brought into effect several years ago when Westholme, Crofton and Chemainus agreed to press for an ice arena at Chemainus. The arena eventually was built at Fuller Lake, a more central location for the whole area.

At that time it was pointed out whenever recreation parity existed between north and south the two areas of the municipality could be grouped into one recreation area. Every citizen would pay an equal share for all municipal facilities.

Smith told council he phoned Cowichan school board chairman Dave Haywood as soon as he heard the board was holding a building referendum vote on April 18 to see if the pool bylaw might be held the same day.

"They have 16 polls and the recreation commission has only five and he told me there was no way we could get together and hold a joint vote."

Gift, Pledge Leavened By Threat

DUNCAN — Operation Recreation's Pioneer Park pool project grew at least $1,500 richer Wednesday with one donation, a pledge and a threat.

Eaton's of Canada donated $500 and Pacific Logging Ltd. promised $1,000 if the bylaw to raise $400,000 meets ratepayers' approval on April 25.

The logging company representative, Williams Sloan, also told a crowd of Gyro Club members that another $500 will be added to the pool fund after it is built if he could have the pleasure of pushing Mayor Gerry Smith of North Cowichan off the diving board.

Smith confirmed the pledge-threat at council meeting on Wednesday.

"We were surrounded by witnesses so I will make him keep his word," Smith said.

4-H SPEECH FINALISTS IN DUNCAN

DUNCAN — Eight finalists in the provincial 4-H Club speaking competition were guests today at a number of Cowichan Valley attractions.

The youngsters from across British Columbia were given a tour of the B.C. Forest Service nursery at Koksilah, a tour of a private holly farm, lunch at Quamichan Inn and a tour of Cowichn Hospital.

They were to relax in their surroundings at Village Green Hotel tonight in preparation for their speech-making Friday night. It is the first time such a competition has been held in Duncan.

Cowichan Band To Build Hall

DUNCAN — The Cowichan Indian Band hopes to start construction soon on a recreation hall with kitchen, study, library and nursery school facilities to cost about $12,000 in materials.

The L-shaped building, to measure 60 feet by 24 feet and 42 feet by 24 feet, will be built mostly of concrete blocks by volunteers at a site on reserve land on Tzouhalem Road between St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church and the old stone church.

SCHOOL BOARD VOTES

Cowichan High Tries Semesters

DUNCAN — Cowichan school board voted Tuesday night to switch from a regular program to a semester system at Cowichan Senior Secondary School.

The system already is used at Quamichan Junior Secondary School and under a partial arrangement at Mount Prevost Junior Secondary. It will begin at the senior secondary school in September.

Trustee Nancy Bailey said the move is progressive and will lead to less dropouts because a student could miss a semester and still get back into routine without too many problems.

Farmer Promises Pig-Pen To Be Clean as a House

NORTH COWICHAN — A pig farmer who told North Cowichan council his proposed new pig pen would be cleaner than "some of the houses around" was allowed a change of zoning Wednesday.

J. H. Dobbs was successfull in getting his property reclassified as rural frum rural restricted in order to operate a modern piggery at 9165 South Chemainus Highway.

Several of his neighbors were on hand to oppose the application.

They were mollified somewhat when Ald. Margaret Robertson said the present zoning allowed Dobbs to do as he wished with the property except build new buildings which would be an improvement. Dobbs currently operates a mixed farm on the land.

Mayor Gerry Smith said Dobbs' building still would be subject to approval by a health inspector.

In another application, H. W. Dickie Ltd. of Duncan was successful on behalf of a client in having a lot on Alexander Street near the Trans-Canada Highway changed from multi-family to commercial general in order to operate a tralier sales lot there.

BEACH CLEAN-UP SUNDAY MORNING

COBBLE HILL — A cleanup will be held Sunday starting at 10 a.m. on Cherry Point Beach, South Cowichan Recreation Commission decided at a meeting held at George Bonner School.

The commission has also requested that the department of highways install one of their distinctive garbage gobbler trash cans at the beach and arrange for regular pickup service.

Correspondence with the government to designate the beach as a Class C park or bird sanctuary did not lead to a satisfactory decision, the commission said.

Brentwood College has granted use of its outdoor pool for Red Cross swim classes again this year.

Sidney Concert For Naden Band

Canada's newest sea cadet corps, RCSCC Admiral Budge, will get a financial shot in the arm next week when the popular Naden Band performs at Sanscha Hall in Sidney.

The fledgling corps has been struggling to raise money for six months and proceeds from the performance will go towards renovating their quarters at Pat Bay.

The concert will be Firday, April 10 at 8 p.m.

IN CALGARY COURT

Eskimo Tells Tragic Story

CALGARY (CP) — Anthony Aparkark Thrasher told a tragic story of an Eskimo's encounter with the white man's world before he was sentenced in Alberta Supreme Court Wednesday to 15 years for manslaughter.

Thrasher, a 32-year-old native of Powderton, N.W.T., who faced trial on a charge of non-capital murder, was convicted on the reduced charge by Mr. Justice Harold Riley.

SAVAGE ATTACK

Mr. Justice Riley said Thrasher was guilty of "a particularly savage and brutal attack" on Charles Ratkovich, a 70-year-old pensioner, in the Victoria apartments in East Calgary last Nov. 6.

Thrasher told the court that he was born on the coast of the Northwest Territories 190 miles northeast of Inuvik, one of 17 children. He left home in 1957 at the age of 17 after completing grade six, intending to take a diesel mechanic's course at Leduc, Alta., and return north to work on the Distant Early Warning radar line.

"The first day I came down to Edmonton, they put us right where everybody drinks . . . on 96th street.

"I tried it. I didn't enjoy it too much, but I thought that's the way they lived down here."

JAILED 150 TIMES

Thrasher said he never stopped drinking, except for one year we spent in an alcoholic treatment centre. He got into trouble with the law, went to jail an estimated 150 times and was in hospital four times after he had been assaulted by other people.

"For the last 2½ years down here it's been bad, real bad. Never have a place to sleep except river banks and eat from garbage cans.

"Only one Swiss family was kind enough to give me a job for a while. I will never forget them. That was the only bit of kindness I ever got out of this civilized country.

"I've gone to employment offices in Edmonton and Calgary and Lethbridge but their response is 'no' or else you are not registered in our files.

JUNGLE COUNTRY

"I've got nothing against this country but I just can't adjust to it. It's a jungle to me.

"Polar bears hunt and share a meal. They even leave some for the foxes. The foxes share together what they have. I come down here and watch human beings prey on one another.

"Down here they keep people in reserves, Indian reserves. Up north we keep animals in reindeer reserves and the government protects them and watch them year round.

"I still haven't seen the pictures of the beautiful cities — saw in ny childwood. The outside world."

Mr. Justice Riley said the Eskimos are a greet race and have added a lot to Canadian culture but the values of self-defence and respect for the old, which Thrasher advocated, were not present in the beating.

Court was told that Ratkovich died as a result of internal bleeding. His face was severely bruised, 12 ribs were broken and his liver lacerated.

Thrasher testified he got drunk on wine Nov. 6 and could not remember meeting the old man.

Split Not Reason

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan New Democratic Party caucus said Wednesday that Woodrow Lloyd's decision not to stand for re-election after nine years as provincial leader had nothing to do with a quarrel over the party's Waffle group.

Caucus chairman Fred Dewhurst (NDP — Wadena) in a statement said fear was expressed in caucus circles that the Waffle group, which aims for complete Canadian ownership of all national resources, might become "a party within a party."

But, he said, Lloyd's decision, made public Tuesday in the legislature, was not the result of a split between political factions in the party or between caucus and other party members. The decision was conveyed to caucus last week.

Tenants Protected

EDMONTON (CP) — Tenants appeared to receive the major portion of protection under amendments to the Landlord and Tenant Act given first reading Wednesday in the legislature.

The amendments, introduced by Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart, will allow the establishment of local advisory boards to mediate landlord-tenant disputes; allow local governments to establish boards designed to curb rent abuses; advise both landords and tenants of their rights.

The legislation provides a fine not more than $100 for landlords who fail to return damage deposits within 10 days after the tenant vacates the premises and the landlord must give the former tenant an accounting of any money withheld to repair damage.

Strike Right Asked

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba Teachers' Society passed a resolution Wednesday, asking the provincial education department to return to teachers their right to strike.

The resolution received the approval of about 75 per cent of the 300 delegates at the society's annual meeting in Winnipeg.

Delegates who opposed the motion argued teachers' public image would be damaged by it, and that injuctions would probably deflate any strikes if right to strike was regained, but the resolution which has been presented at every annual meeting since 1966 was finally approved.

Vote Defeat Feared

By JIM HUME

Mayor Courtney Haddock surprised his city council this morning by expressing fears for the fate of a $5,570,000, five-year capital budget.

A few days ago Haddock agreed that the five year master plan, trimmed by $3,018,000 from the proposal put to the people and defeated last June, should be voted on April 30.

This morning he was reported as saying he had doubts "that this is the right time to place the budget before the voters."

Ald. Peter Pollen, a member of the select committee studying budget proposals, said he was "surprised that the mayor would make that remark. That is, unless he knows something I don't know.

SHOULD STAND FIRM

"I think we have a good plan here, and I think we should stand firmly behind it."

Ald. Harold Olafson said he found it difficult to believe Haddock had actually made the statement.

"He's chairman of the committee," he said. "He's the one who was to make the presentation to city council this afternoon and recommend adoption of his proposals.

"How can he agree to a date, ask us to endorse his committee's recommendation and then, even before he actually does that, tell us he thinks the vote will be negative.

INVITING DEFEAT

"I'm just bewildered. It seems to me to be inviting defeat."

Ald. Cecil Parrott, another member of the mayor's special policy review committee, said he was "very disappointed in the mayor's statement."

He added that if property

Whooping, Yelling Indians Recapture Seattle Fort

By BOB MITCHELL
Times Staff

SEATTLE — The United States Army was caught flat-footed today as Indians, camped outside Fort Lawton, suddenly invaded the 1,100 acre military establishment for the third time in a month.

An estimated 50 to 75 Indians, about one-quarter of them Canadian, dashed through the fort gates only moments after their leader, Bernie Whitebear, shook hands cordially with the fort commander, a Captain Siegurst.

Siegurst came outside the gates to congratulate the Indian picketers on the announcement they would dismantle their camp today.

But as the teepees and tents were being taken down, Whitebear announced to television cameras and tape recorders the camp would be relocated — inside the fort.

And with whoops and yells the young Indians sprinted though the gates and into the forested, park-like fort.

"Bernie, you're playing games again," shouted a despairing military policeman as he began to mobilize his men for search and arrest of the Indians.

By 11 a.m. several demonstrators had been arrested inside the fort by military police.

Four attorneys were stationed outside the fort this morning to provide legal assistance for demonstrators arrested by military authorities, and Indians who went inside were instructed to name one of the attorneys and request legal aid.

But Indian leaders charged military police are denying that prisoners have requested legal aid.

They said this was a delaying tactic on the part of the military, and volunteers are going over the fort fences with the specific intent of getting arrested. Presumably they will be placed in the same cells with other prison-

Critically-Sick Baby Stolen In Well-Planned Hospital Raid

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A two-day-old girl reported to be in serious condition with a blood disease was forcibly taken from Kingston General Hospital today by a group of people who entered the hospital in early morning darkness.

The child had been admitted Wednesday night after being made a ward of the Children's Aid Society and was to have undergone a blood transfusion.

Dr. D. J. Delahaye said the infant "should have been treated early this morning and every hour that passes increases the risk of brain damage."

City and provincial police are searching for the infant.

Dr. Delahaye said the baby was suffering a hemolytic disease — a disease of the blood due to the difference in blood type between mother and baby.

He said the infant was taken into care by the Children's Aid Society at Smiths Falls, 55 miles northeast of here, because of the "mother's unwllingness to have the baby received a blood transfusion."

The parents of the child apparently are members of the Jehovah's

Israeli Forces Attack Syria

Times News Services

Israel launched a major air and land attack against Syria today along the entire length of the 50-mile Golan Heights cease-fire line. The 7½-hour battle was the heaviest since the 1967 war.

Israel said its jets shot down three Syrian MiG 21s which rose to intercept the waves of Israeli planes concentrating on 15 Syrian artillery and seven anti-aircraft batteries in the Rafid area 25 miles south of Qneitr and 40 miles below Damascus. Israel said it lost one plane. It was believed to be a Phantom, the first loss of an F4.

GROUND BATTLE

Syrian communiques reported "large formations" of Syrian jets battled with Israeli planes while ground forces of the two nations pounded each other with tank and artillery fire.

Arab and Israeli troops were trading fire along the entire ceasefire line, said a Syrian military spokesman.

Syrian MiG fighters were trying to prevent Israel's aerial strafing of Syrian artillery positions, the spokesman added.

Syrian field artillery and armored units kept up a heavy barrage against Israeli positions in eight front-line areas.

Meanwhile in London, England, a highly-regarded international organization of jurists reported Wednesday it had "prima facie evidence on the serious maltreatment of Arab prisoners" in Israel.

The charge of "extremely brutal torture" was made by Amnesty International, an organization composed mainly of lawyers which enjoys a reputation for impartiality and care in its procedures and statements.

RUSSIANS SAID FLYING COMBAT JETS FOR EGYPT

By JESSE W. LEWIS JR.

BEIRUT (WP) — Soviet pilots were flying nine Egyptian air force MiG-21 fighters shot down in combat over the Suez Canal last week, according to reports here.

The Egyptian planes apparently were defending the sites of the new SA-3 air defence missiles that the Soviet Union has sent to Egypt.

The sites were under attack from Israeli Skyhawk jets.

Four of the Egyptian planes were shot down on March 25 and five on March 27, all over Egyptian territory. Most of the pilots parachuted to earth, although at least one is believed to have crashed with his plane.

★

These reports could not be verified officially.

Soviet pilots are not known to have flown Egyptian aircraft in combat before last week.

Soviet pilots have regularly flown test and training missions in Egypt. As the MiG fighters are assembled after shipment, Soviet flyers check them out before turning them over to the Egyptians.

The Soviet pilots also have carried on an active program of developing Egyptian pilots, flying with them on training exercises. But there appears to be no doubt that the pilots downed last week were on combat missions.

The pilots are part of a large Soviet military mission, currently numbering between 4,000 and 5,000 men, stationed in Egypt as instructors and advisers.

Casualties Shoot Up In S. Viet Battles

SAIGON (CP) — The offensive by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong continued at a high level today in South Vietnam, sending U.S. casualties toward a high for the year.

In one battle casualties suffered by the Americans were the heaviest in two years.

Eighteen more Americans were reported killed and 138 were wounded in more than half-a-dozen battles and 65 rocket and mortar attacks today.

Twice as many rocket and mortar attacks had been reported in the previous 24 hours, the largest number in eight months.

Battlefield communiques reported 61 Americans, 101 South Vietnamese and 552 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops killed in the last 38 hours. The American dead included a brigadier-general, the fifth U.S. general killed in the Vietnam war.

THE VICTIMS of Greater Victoria's patchwork approach to the vital function of public transit are the people who depend upon it. Seemingly interminable waits at bus stops, time-consuming transfers . . . could problems be eliminated by making transit a function of civic government rather than B.C. Hydro? (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

AT ROOT OF TRANSIT WOES

Who Should Run the Buses?

By JOHN MIKA

Most communities have a transportation "network" of some sort.

Greater Victoria only has a disjointed "fretwork" — obvious to the newcomer but often forgotten by the long-time resident who has learned to adjust to frustrations until they seem natural and ordained.

That's only one of the by-products of an artificial patchwork of self-proud parochialism which demands expression through expensive and unco-ordinated million-dollar showpieces like Victoria's Blanshard freeway to nowhere.

Buses Afterthought

Saanich has provided the most recent example in its spanking new $1.2 million Mackenzie Avenue east-west artery, completed years ahead of the schedule suggested by the $70,000 regional transportation study report of 1965.

Typical of all local councils in this area, after the road was widened and punched through, the Saanich aldermen realized that transit buses play a part in moving people too, so they asked B.C. Hydro to put a cross-town lop into service using Mackenzie Avenue.

The importance of a cross-town bus service — strongly urged by the 1965 report as a valuable supplement to the existing radial system of routes — was underlined this year when the Silver Threads also made a strong pitch to Hydro's local transit manager H. K. Halls for a Mackenzie bus service.

Halls agrees that a cross-town route is needed but the Mackenzie route "is at least five years ahead of time from a transit point of view," he said in an interview.

Four new buses (each $35,000) would be needed and the daily operating cost of the proposed route would run to $1,600 but the best estimate of passenger load is 400 persons a day — bringing in $100 at most.

"Putting a service on Mackenzie would mean adding $200,000 to our annual operating loss and I just couldn't recommend that to my principals," Halls said.

"But there is a cross-town route that I could recommend now — it would run from Dockyard to the Mayfair Shopping Centre, along Finlayson to the new Simpsons-Sears Shopping Centre, up Shelbourne and then across to the university campus and the Gordon Head area.

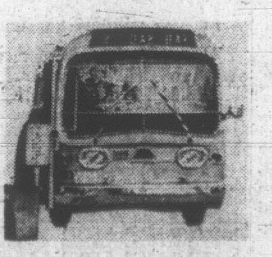
Joint Effort

"That would give us at least three major traffic generators to sustain reasonable passenger revenues and all it would require is that the municipalities fill a few of the gaps in the street system."

The irony is that the 1965 transportation study recommended that those less costly gaps be filled before completion of Mackenzie. But they haven't been undertaken yet and one can't avoid the suspicion the main reason is they would require a joint effort by Victoria and Saanich.

The tragedy is that Saanich never asked Halls how transit could fit in before it decided to build its pride and joy, the $1.2 million Mackenzie Avenue matcher to the city's Blanshard extravaganza.

Mackenzie's expensive expansion is useful and traffic counts suggest it has doubled cross-town driving by some 2,500 vehicle round trips a day — giving faster routing to perhaps 3,500 individuals.



But would more people have been served by a less-expensive expansion of Tattersal (all within Saanich too and also recommended by the 1965 consultants report) or a joint effort with the city in developing the Finlayson-Shelbourne-Gordon Head route?

We'll never know now — simply because Saanich never asked transit operators when it was planning a cross-town route even though its choice (if it even considered alternatives) involved juggling the recommended priority schedule.

Saanich's resulting protests that B.C. Hydro was unco-operative because it wouldn't run buses after Mackenzie was built sound hollow.

The same communication and planning gaps have prevented transit service from being improved economically in other areas, Halls says. Closing Bay Street at Veteran's Hospital blocked off a potentially feasible bus route once the Eric Martin Institute and burgeoning office-store developments were in operation beyond the hospital.

Nobody consulted him when that was planned either, so its impact on the transit service never was measured to see if it would make a difference worth consideration.

People Losers

There exists a built-in planning gap on roads that cross municipal boundaries, not only in routing but in such fundamental construction decisions as to whether to build a skimpy base for asphalt that leads to another municipality or installing a stronger base needed for carrying buses over unstable ground, such as the Fairfield bogland that straddles the Oak Bay-Victoria boundary.

Municipal councils may score points against each other in parochial battles, but the people they represent end up losers through higher costs and poorer transportation service.

The blame doesn't rest on municipal engineers and administrative offficals but on the prevalent system of making decisions which ignore three-quarters of the larger community outside a given municipality and even ignore the transit buses within its own boundaries.

David Campbell, the city's traffic engineer, summed up the point of view of a professional who has to agonize through this situation, when he made his special report to Mayor Haddock's new policy committee two months ago.

"So long as within our (separate divisions) we are concerned, each individually, with trying to optimize parts of the over-all transportation system, we will fail collectively," Campbell warned.

"Under a regional umbrella . . . the taxing, financing and planning of the transportation system not only has to be regional in nature but it must include all modes of transportation and be handled under one administrative structure.

What Benefits?

"Otherwise, the most efficient total transportation system is an impossibility."

This approach, naturally, would be neater but what would the benefits be?

The initial benefit would be to integrate — for the first time — the transit operations and planning with the road and traffic control system, no mean advantage when, on a per capita basis, the "average" resident of this region rides a transit bus about 70 times every year.

Continental Oil Market Stressed

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — It is dangerous and uneconomic for a nation which is able to supply oil and gas from its own resources to import 54 per cent of its petroleum requirements, the chairman of Husky Oil says.

Glenn E. Neilson told a group of the purchasing management association of Canada:

"In light of today's unstable world conditions, the heavy dependence upon overseas supplies places Eastern Canada in a perilous position."

He said it is unfair that Eastern Canada lacks some overland pipeline connection that could supply at least some of the petroleum needs from Western Canada in an emergency. Crude oil from Western Canada can be moved by pipeline only as far as the Toronto area.

Neilson said an integrated policy of co-operation between the United States and Canada would assure North American security of supply, give Canada control of its natural resources and provide the advantages of a continental market.

"Some want to wait to see if eastern offshore or Arctic supplies develop, but it must be realized that it would take at least six to 10 years to develop such reserves even if they were discovered tomorrow."

Provincial Bank Plans Expansion

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec-based Provincial Bank of Canada is "interested in becoming a national bank in the long run," Raymond Primeau, the bank's general manager says.

Primeau told the Montreal Society of Investment Analysts the bank is seeking opportunities for co-operation with other financial institutions, to extend its branch network to Ontario and other provinces and to increase its foreign operations.

"This year we will open about 10 new branches of which three will be in Ontario," he said.

The bank was also trying to develop relations with foreign banks and foreign firms interested in doing business in Canada.

Valley Copper Production Verdict Soon

MONTREAL (CP) Cominco Ltd. says that a decision regarding production at the Valley Copper Mines Ltd. property in British Columbia will be made by mid-1970.

Cominco holds about a 66-per-cent interest in Valley Copper and has conducted an extensive underground program to provide more precise data on ore grades and metallurgy.

The company says production is scheduled to start this year at the Anaconda-Caribou property near Bathurst, N.B. Construction of a 1,000-ton-per-day plant is currently under way.

Cominco holds a 25-per-cent interest in the property and Anaconda Co. 7 per cent.

Exploration work by a subsidiary in Spain has indicated a medium-grade lead and zinc deposit. The company plans to proceed with an extensive underground development program on the property.

Cominco's exploration expenditures totalled $12,000,000 in 1969 compared with $6,300,000 a year earlier.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Further Gains Posted

Gainers continued to outnumber losers as the Toronto and New York stock markets posted gains today.

It was the third upward session for Toronto. Trading was more active on Wall Street and light at Toronto.

Under light trading prices were mixed during the morning session on the Vancouver exchange.

AT TORONTO nine of the 17 industrial components were higher, eight lower.

Microsystems was listed today and traded at 9⅞ on 12,530 shares. Microsystems is a subsidiary of Northern Electric which in turn is a subsidiary of Bell Canada, up ⅝ to 43⅛.

Oshawa A gained ¼ to 19⅝. The company increased its quarterly dividend to 6¼ cents from 5½ cents.

Atlantic Sugar was up ¼ to 8½ after the company reported annual operating net of $5,317,304 compared with $2,022,056 in 1968.

AT NEW YORK, advances ran through motors, aircrafts, metals, chemicals and building materials with other issues mixed.

Some big blocks were traded, including 104,900 shares of Oxford First Corp. at 16½, off 2⅛; 75,000 shares of Phillips Petroleum, unchanged at 23¾.

AT MONTREAL, banks were firm while papers declined in moderate afternoon trading today on the stock market.

Imperial Oil eased ⅛ to 22 in light trading following a denial by the company of a new Arctic oil find.

Microsystems International was listed today on the Montreal Stock Exchange. It traded 7,808 shares between 10⅛ and 9⅞.

Among banks, the Royal gained ⅛ to 22⅞ and Bank of Nova Scotia ⅛ to 20¼. Bank of Montreal was off ⅛ to 16¾. Highlighting gains, Velcro Industries advanced 1¼ to 28¾. International Utilities 1⅛ to 28¾, Bell Canada ⅝ to 43⅛ and CPR ¾ to 65½.

Great West Life fell 2½ to 110 on an 800-share trade.

AT LONDON the stock market lacked a trend today with leading industrials slightly mixed.

Gilt edged lost earlier momentum to ease back to overnight levels.

Canadian issues were predominantly lower.

Noranda lost two points at 88 while Alcan, Canadian Pacific, Central Del Rio, Cominco, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas and TransCanada Pipe all recorded falls ranging between 1¼ and 1¾ points.

Pacific Pete, however, added 1¾ points to 76¼, with Triad and West Coast Transmission fractionally higher. Banks were narrowly irregular.

AT VANCOUVER, trading was light and prices were mixed on the stock exchange Thursday with a volume to 11 a.m. of 906,978 shares.

Leading industrial was Western Realty, trading 4,200 shares and up .36 to $5.50. Key Industries was up .05 to .60 and Neonex was down .12 to $5.

Leading the oils, Golden West had a turnover of 11,500 shares and was up .10 at .50. Plains Petroleum was down .02 at .43 and United Bata was down .01 at $2.95.

Leading mine was Brenmac with 153,500 shares traded, up .01 to $1.02. Casino was down .55 to $3.50 and Croyden was up .04 to .54.

Shell to Increase Exploration Spending

TORONTO (CP) — Shell Canada plans to spend $90,000,000 for exploration this year compared with about $60,000,000 in 1969.

Shell's report to shareholders says capital and exploration expenditures for 1970 will be about $150,000,000, up $31,000,000 over last year.

New Oil Find Off Nigeria

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. has announced the discovery of a major new source of oil off the coast of Nigeria.

The giant oil producer said tests produced a daily flow of 5,000 barrels daily of low-sulphur crude oil.

The new well is located about 10 miles north of Gulf's Meren field, one of five in Nigeria producing a total of 225,000 barrels a day, a spokesman said.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — There was a good volume of buying at the close of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today with the market under some selling pressure from commission houses and esporters.

Selling pressure moved rapeseed prices down slightly and flax had small trade but exporter buying maintained the price fractionally below the previous close.

Rye showed a stronger pattern and domestic shippers were fairly active in oats and barley.

Wednesday's volume of trade included 2,237,000 bushels of rapeseed, 538,000 of flax and 738,000 of rye. Export loadings of Canadian wheat included 1,282,400, bushels to China and 253,680 to the Soviet Union.

Chicago (AP) — Corn and oats futures advanced more than one cent on the Board of Trade today on buying associated with the weather.

Other commodities closed on an irregular tone. Trade was only moderately active.

Corn buying remained strong through the close but profit takers whittled away in the oats pit and halved the advance near the close.

Most of the trade felt that poor weather would stall movement of the two commodities from farms into commercial channels.

IMF Purchases Gold From South Africa

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — South Africa sold $76,000,000 worth of gold to the International Monetary Fund in March, the IMF has announced.

It said that, as a result, the fund's gold holdings rose during the month to a total of $3,561,000,000.

Lumber Shipments Suffer Decrease

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau has reported a 24 per cent drop in lumber shipments from British Columbia during February. In January, shipments totalled 221,200,000 board feet, but only 169,300,000 board feet in February.

The first settlers arrived in what now is Seattle in 1851. They named the place New York. Then, figuring that such a name couldn't last, they renamed it Chief Seattle.

That was to keep the Indians placated. This was deemed necessary for survival, or at least a friendly relationship. But the palefaces blew this one. They buttered up the wrong chief. Another tribe raided the town three years later. Fortunately, the massacre didn't succeed.

Last year, the American Baseball League decided to settle in the glorious Pacific Northwest. It decided to call Seattle home. It named the baseball team "Pilots". Pobably because it was a "pilot" project, or perhaps because one of the men in the town most interested in baseball was himself a "pilot". Dewey Soriano had pioneered the move. He had long been a part of pro ball, and a past Coast League president. By trade, he was a ship's pilot.

That name wasn't designed to succeed either. Few people like it. The team wasn't much better. The ball park was worse, the worst in the majors. And the prices were high, almost the highest in the league.

Thus the Pilots lost money, a lot of money. So much that they couln't pay off their loan at the bank.

And so things went from bad to awful. This winter there were two separate sorties by invading tribes from the east and south.

◆

Milwaukee had lost its Braves a few years ago in a National League site switch, and wanted back; and Lamar Hunt, who started the American Football League, let it be known that he was interested in baseball. Dallas or Fort Worth would make a nice home for the sport.

Hunt was ruled out, for the present, because as owner of the Kansas City Chiefs of the NFL, he couldn't straddle two pro sports. He may find a way around this problem, later because he does have friends, with influence, and money. But not this year. Texas will get is second major league team in another season. Houston will not be alone much longer.

Milwaukee then became the prime bidder. It got the team through a bankruptcy court ruling. Seattle was losing $12,500 a day and hadn't even started the season yet. The American League had loaned the money for training camp, and the player bonuses were also guaranteed by commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office. But there was nothing coming in. Everything was going out.

So, it's been a sorry mess, and an embarrassing situation. The league kept backing off while giving Seattle a chance to make it go. But nobody was willing to carry the ball. Nobody with money, that is, or courage!

It needed a lot of both.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee had a big-league stadium, which was unoccupied. Seattle did not. Sick's Stadium, at best, would seat only 25,000 fans.

There had been a promise of a domed stadium. The first spade was to be turned this season. The $40 million edifice was to be built two blocks from the Space Needle. It was to be ready by 1972. It could be used for other pro sports.

This has not materialzed. There is a question before the courts. It may be built in the future. It will have to be if Seattle is to get back, or get pro sports. But Seattle won't be back until it can show more than it did this time. Things got out of hand, not only last season, but this spring as well. Nobody could whistle up that money when it was needed and the city wasn't keeping its promises very well, either.

The American League owners weren't bragging any more about their move to the northwest. They were too busy looking up friends elsewhere. They had been trying for some time to pin the tail of the donkey on the National League for deserting Milwaukee in the first place. Now they had their chance.

They would rescue the damsel in distress. They would point with shame to the National League. They would step in and wipe out the stigma of baseball's dirty deed that sent the Braves to Atlanta. They would restore Milwaukee to its rightful status. Major league baseball would return.

The natives would be pleased, and perhaps more friendly than those in Seattle.

But then they never did cotton much to newcomers, on the coast. Especially in 1854, and now 1970.

Point Marks Fall To Portland Pair

By The Canadian Press

The two leaders in the Western Hockey League kept pace with one another Wednesday night, pulling farther away from the rest of the pack as the league moved into the final three days of regulation play.

Vancouver Canucks, who have wrapped up first place, beat Salt Lake City Golden Eagles 7-4 in Salt Lake while second-place Portland Buckaroos trounced San Diego Gulls 11-3 in Portland.

It was also a night for records. Portland's Art Jones set a league record by scoring his 123rd and 124th points of the season and teammate Dennis Kearns picked up seven points, a WHL mark for points in one game by a defenceman.

FOURTH IN DOUBT

San Diego has tied up third place but Seattle Totems with 64 points and Phoenix Roadrunners with 62 are still battling it out for the final playoff berth.

Seattle plays host to San Diego tonight while Vancouver visits Denver Spurs.

Jones tied the old mark for most points in a season, 122 by Guyle Fielder of Seattle in 1957, with a goal in the first period. He added another point in the second with a second goal and chalked up the 124th with an assist in the same period.

Buckaroos dominated the game, skating out for a 6-1 first period lead on three of Bill Saunders' four goals and singles by Norm Johnson, Jones and Kearns.

Jones and Saunders made it 8-2 going into the final period and Kearns, Rick Foley and Connie Madigan capped the Portland scoring. Warren Hynes scored twice for San Diego and Len Ronson added the single before 5,353 spectators.

In Salt Lake City, Golden Eagles led 3-1 in the second period before Canucks took command with three goals in that stanza and three more in the final.

Duke Harris, Len Lunde, Jerry Goyer, Paul Andrea, Ted McCaskill, Germain Gagnon and Murray Hall accounted for Vancouver scoring.

Salt Lake scoring was by Guyle Fielder, Bob Toothill, Rollie Wilcox and Galen Head.

Little League Tryouts Slated

Goldstream Triangle and Oak Bay Little Leagues will be holding baseball tryouts this weekend.

Langford's Centennial Park will be the site of the Goldstream sessions starting at 9:30 a.m. Saturday and 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Oak Bay tryouts will be held Saturday at Fireman's Park from 10 a.m. for nine and 10-year-olds and from 1 p.m. for 11 and 12-year-olds.

SCURRYING through snowflakes in Detroit is Denny McLain. Tigers' pitcher is considered to have escaped "hot water" Wednesday when baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn suspended McLain only until July 1. See Story below. (AP Wirephoto).

McLain's Ban Not as Stern As Expected . . .

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn has dropped the other shoe in the Denny McLain case and it didn't land as hard as some people thought it might.

Kuhn Wednesday suspended McLain until July 1 because of his involvement with bookmaking activities in Flint, Mich. The decision deprives Detroit Tigers of their star right-hander's services for less than half of the 1970 major league season.

The reaction to Kuhn's decision was generally a huge sigh of relief in the Detroit camp where manager Mayo Smith and the Tigers seemed prepared to face the entire season without McLain.

"Just a half a year's suspension," mused Bill Freehan, McLain's batterymate and one of his critics. "It soulds as if he almost did something wrong. It's better than we anticipated."

Smith said he was sure that McLain's mid-season return would help the Tigers' chances for the American League pennant.

PREDICTS SHUTOUT

"It'll all settle down until July 1," he said, "then on July 1, when he shuts out the Yankees . . ."

New York plays at Detroit on the night McLain's suspension ends and he'll be the probable pitcher. Denny has been working on his own this spring and says he could pitch right now.

"All things being equal," said McLain — "commissioner Kuhn did what he had to do. I can't say I agreed with the decision, because I want to play baseball right now but he made the decision and we'll live by it."

McLain had been waiting since Feb. 19, the date the commissioner tagged him with an indefinite suspension and launched an investigation into the pitcher's off-field activities.

That was the result of a face-to-face confrontation between the pitcher and the commissioner and McLain revealed Wednesday that he contemplated committing suicide by jumping from a building in New York when Kuhn told him he was to be suspended.

WAS DARKEST TIME

"I looked out the window when they said I was going to be definitely suspended. I really thought for about 10 seconds I was going out," McLain said.

"I looked down on the street," said McLain. "That was the darkest moment of my life. I would have jumped out of that window if I had thought about it much longer. But then I thought maybe there would be seven or eight Boy Scouts passing by I might land on."

Kuhn's investigation lasted six weeks and uncovered an involvement "with certain gamblers said to be involved in a bookmaking operation," according to a two-page statement released Wednesday. In January, 1967, according to Kuhn's statement, McLain "commenced placing basketball bets with this operation and subsequently was persuaded to make financial contributions totaling approximately $5,700."

NEVER A PARTNER

"While McLain believed he had become a partner in this operation," Kuhn continued, ". . . it would appear that in fact he was the victim of a confidence scheme. I would thus conclude that McLain was never a partner and had no proprietary interest in the bookmaking operation.

"The fair inference is that his own gullibility and avarice had permitted him to become a dupe of the gamblers with whom he associated."

McLain said he'd "have to get a dictionary" to look up the meanings of gullibility and avarice. "But if it means stupid and greedy," Denny added, "yes, I am stupid and greedy."

'Murder' Charge Dropped

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Stockholm police said today no action will be taken on a public complaint that Czechoslovak goalkeeper Vladimir Dzurila had tried to murder Swedish team captain Ulf Sterner in a game in the world hockey championship here last week.

A man in southern Sweden reported the burly Czechoslovak to the police after a brawl in the closing seconds of the game which ended with Sterner, a tough former professional, being carried off on a stretcher.

The complainant, who called for a charge of attempted murder, claimed that Dzurila had jabbed his stick several times at Sterner's head as the Swede lay prone behind the cage.

Police said they could find nothing criminal in Dzurila's action.

Leaf Cheering Section Adds New York Chapter

Rangers, Habs, Wings Claim Crucial Victories

By Canadian Press

New York Rangers weren't cheering for Toronto Maple Leafs Wednesday night but tonight they should be.

The Rangers had a hard struggle to edge the Leafs 2-1 Wednesday and stay one point behind fourth-place Detroit Red Wings in the battle for the National Hockey League East Division's last playoff berth.

But the Rangers will be rooting for a Toronto victory tonight when the last-place Leafs visit Detroit to play out the Red Wings' game in hand over New York. A win for the Wings, on the other hand, would give them three points over the Rangers. It would mean the New Yorkers would have to win both their remaining games this weekend to gain a playoff spot.

The Rangers visit Detroit Saturday and the Wings go to New York for the final season encounter Sunday.

The Red Wings stayed in front of the Rangers with a 5-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks who share the division lead with Boston Bruins. The Bruins were also kept at a standstill by a 6-3 defeat at the hands of Montreal Canadiens.

In the West Division, Pittsburgh Penguins clinched second place with a 4-1 win over third-place Philadelphia Flyers while Oakland Seals stayed in contention for a playoff berth on a 2-2 tie with St. Louis Blues.

Only Five Points Separate Top Five

The New York, Detroit and Montreal victories further tightened the hot Eastern race with only five points now separating the fifth-place Rangers from the two leaders.

Chicago and Boston still are the only two clubs assured of playoff berths with either New York or Detroit the most likely to drop out with a fifth-place finish.

Chicago and Montreal exchange visits on the weekend to wind up the schedule while Boston has a similar home-and-home series with Toronto.

The Rangers gained their win before a crowd of 16,485 at Toronto on power-play goals by rookie Bill Fairbairn and Jean Ratelle.

The Leafs, although out of playoff contention, never stopped fighting and even pulled goalie Bruce Gamble for an extra attacker to try and tie the game in the dying seconds.

But Ron Ellis' 34th goal of the season was the only one the Leafs could put behind Ranger netminder Ed Giacomin.

Beliveau, Fergy Pace Canadiens

At Montreal, the Canadiens veterans came to life with centre Jean Beliveau collecting two goals and an assist and left-winger John Ferguson a goal and assist.

Ralph Backstrom, Yvan Cournoyer and Jacques Laperriere were the other Montreal scorers before a record crowd of 18,484 fans.

Canadiens goalie Rogatien Vachon stopped 13 Boston shots but allowed two goals by centre Phil Esposito and one by league scoring leader Bobby Orr.

Goalie Ed Johnston allowed five of the Montreal goals before being replaced by Gerry Cheevers midway through the second period.

At Chicago, netminder Tony Esposito, who leads the league with a record 15 shutouts, failed to stop a 33-shot Detroit attack while Roy Edwards won the duel by making 35 saves in the Red Wings nets.

Frank Mahovlich and Pete Stemkowski each scored twice for the Wings and Wayne Connelly added a single goal. Rookie Gerry Pinder scored both Chicago goals.

Keenan's Goal Earns Blues a Tie

The one point gained by the Seals at St. Louis moved them into a tie with Minnesota in the battle for fourth place in the West.

Oakland has a home-and-home series remaining with the last-place Los Angeles Kings while Minnesota faces two road games—at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

The Seals appeared headed for a 2-1 win over the Blues but Larry Keenan's goal with less than three minutes remaining in the game gave St. Louis the tie.

Bill McCreary put the other St. Louis goal behind Oakland goalie Gary Smith while netminder Glenn Hall was the victim on Seals scores by Earl Ingarfield and Carol Vadnais before a St. Louis crowd of 16,298.

The Penguins' home-ice victory in front of a crowd of 7,984 clinched their first playoff berth in their three-year history.

Val Fonteyne and Jean Pronovost beat goalie Bernie Parent to give the Penguins a 2-0 lead but Andre Lacroix replied for the Flyers before the end of the second period.

The Flyers pulled Parent in favor of an extra attacker in the last minute of the game, but the move backfired with Dean Prentice and Bob Blackburn scoring into the empty net.

Al Smith had an easy night minding the Pittsburgh nets as he stopped 25 shots, but the Penguins unloaded 40 drives at Parent.

Philadelphia plays host to first-place St. Louis in the only other game tonight.

Green Mountain Open to Skiers

Skiers could find a final haven on Green Mountain this weekend as the spring thaw continues to close other areas.

Reports this morning indicate a light dusting of new snow on top of a 45-inch base and a temperature of 24 degrees.

Junior Champs Open for Bids

VERNON B.C. (CP) — The president of the Vernon Minor Hockey Association said today the Vernon club in the British Columbia Junior Hockey League is for sale.

"The main reason for selling the club is that it is too big an operation for a non-profit organization like us to handle on a voluntary basis," said Stewart Mitchell.

The association has handled the club for the last four seasons. The club's executive advised it to sell to a buyer with some financial backing.

The association has been approached by one interested individual from Vernon, and two groups, also from Vernon, have indicated willingness to purchase the franchise, Mitchell said.

FINANCIAL PROBLEM

Vernon won the B.C. Junior title this year but lost to Weyburn, Sask., Red Wings in Memorial Cup quarter finals, four games to two.

Kelowna Buckaroos is the only other club in the league run on a similar basis.

"Operating a junior club on this basis is fine if the club is making money or at least breaking even," Mitchell said, "but it could be a problem should we lose money."

He said no financial bids have been made by interested parties, nor has the association yet determined what the club is worth.

PROVINCIAL CUP FINALS ON SATURDAY

Two provincial rugby titles will be on the line Saturday at Macdonald Park.

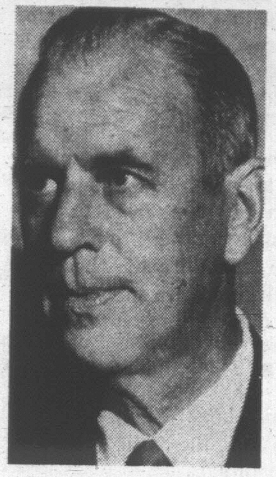
University of Victoria Vikings will meet Vancouver Kats for the Roundsfell Cup, emblematic of B.C. first division supremacy, at 2:30 p.m.

Saanich Velox and Vancouver Georgians will tussle for the second division crown at 1 p.m.

Both local clubs are divisional champions in the Victoria Rugby Union.

Art Chapman, Bruce Humber In Hall of Fame

Two more Victoria products were elevated to the British Columbia Sports Hall of Fame in voting conducted this week, bringing the total number of Victorians in the Hall to 13.



ART CHAPMAN

Bruce Humber, still in Victoria, and Art Chapman, who now calls Vancouver home, were selected along with Olympic skiing champion Nancy Greene Raine, swimmer Elaine Tanner and track champions Lillian Palmer Alderson and Bill Parnell.

Humber began a track career here as a high school student in the 1930s, clocking the then phenomenal times of 9.9 in the 100-yards and 21.8 seconds in the 220. He later timed in at 9.6 and 20.8 at the University of Washington, where his record was untouched for 32 years.

Also a member of the Washington University Hall of Fame, Humber was on the fourth-place Canadian 400-meter relay team at the 1936 Olympics.

As a volunteer coach in Victoria, Humber has produced four B.C. championship teams as well as two Canadian team championships. He also coached the Canadian track squads at the 1950 British Empire Games and the 1952 Olympics.

FIVE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Chapman was a key player in the great Blue Ribbon-Dominos basketball dynasty that dominated the Canadian picture in the 1930s and 40s. Together with his brother Chuck, who was elected to the Hall last year, Art shared in the winning of five national championships and was later to become a dominant figure in the professional Vancouver Hornets.

He also shared in a Canadian silver medal at the 1936 Olympics and is considered one of the finest playmakers in the

'SNARLING' COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED

Compromise Reached on Floor Plan

Chief Librarian John Lort and Frank Poirier of the management consultant firm of Woods, Gordon and Co. have reached a compromise on the layout of the main floor of the public library as proposed in the firm's survey.

The library will be closed April 20 to 25 so the changes can be made.

Lort said today it was unfortunate that he had not been consulted before.

"If I had been given a draft copy of the proposals and an opportunity to make recommendations earlier we would have been able to prevent everybody snarling at each other."

He said further alterations to the library will be made in phases.

Lort said estimates for steel shelving ranged from $5,000 to $6,000. The steel shelves would replace old wooden shelving which he suggested could be used for a new branch in Oak Bay.

The legality of photocopying machines was questioned at Wednesday's board meeting.

Rev. Gordon Walker said the question was coming before American courts on whether the copier or the people who supply the machines were responsible for copyright infringements.

Lort said no legal opinion has been given on the matter but a decision would have far-reaching effects because so many libraries, universities, businesses and chain stores were using the machines.

He warned: "Our main concern should be that we don't harm firms which depend on these machines for their livelihood."

A new public library for Greater Victoria will be suggested as a provincial centennial project.

The board decided to make an official request to the Greater Victoria Centennial 71 Committee, whose office will open on Fort Street within a few days.

'Close Whole Place Down' City Library Board Told

By AB KENT

A real economy in Greater Victoria Public Library operations could be gained by shutting the whole place down, an angry labor spokesman said Wednesday.

Larry Ryan, secretary of Victoria Labor Council, was reporting to delegates after the council was rebuffed in an attempt to discuss proposed library cutbacks with members of the library board.

The Woods, Gordon and Co. report on library efficiency recently outlined ways for the publicly owned institution to save $100,000 a year.

DELEGATES UPSET

"If the board really wants to save money they could close the place down entirely and make everyone subscribe to the Readers' Digest," Ryan said.

Council delegates were upset by the board's attitude that library affairs are none of their business.

"They think Victoria Labor Council is audacious," the secretary said.

The board wrote to the labor council expressing the view that "no useful purpose could be served" by a meeting to hear VLC executive members.

"We were quite disappointed in not getting a meeting with the board," Ryan said, noting that in the past VLC had met with such elected bodies as the school board, city council and the hospital board, without difficulty.

Pointing out that members of the library board are appointed from the community rather than elected, Ryan said:

"We think the board was very narrow-minded in not condescending to meet with us."

He suggested the members could have learned something from the labor spokesmen.

Many other citizens have asked to meet with library trustees and have been refused, Ryan said.

The labor council's role in the matter had been misinterpreted, he said. Rather than being credited with having public interest at heart, the council is charged with a special interest, that of the library's internal labor matter.

Staff reductions are contained in the Woods, Gordon proposal.

APPLICATION

During discussion of the library, VLC delegates voted to accept an application by local 410, Canadian Union of Public Employees, representing Greater Victoria Library Staff Association, to affiliate with the council.

Ryan said there is a contradiction in public policy pertaining to education. At a time when municipalities support greater provincial spending for education — with one-third of the B.C. budget going to educational spending — the city of Victoria is "going the other way."

Executive members had met with Mayor Courtney Haddock of Victoria, which does some of the administration on behalf of all municipalities, but the mayor had refused to intervene.

USEFUL COMMENT

Delegate Joseph Fowler said he felt the labor council could put forward useful comment, especially since many of the people it represents have children who make use of library facilities in their school work.

Another delegate said he was distressed at the attitude of trustees, and questioned their qualifications to serve. He wondered whether some were library card holders.

RYAN
'. . . really save money'

"I think we have constructive criticisms," Ryan said, "and I am surprised other bodies haven't taken a stand."

UNIVERSITY

He thought the school board and University of Victoria student union should have said something.

"We simply suggest the principle of discussion is a good one. Why can't the board come out and explain itself?"

"I am afraid there is no logic to the (Woods, Gordon) report, that it is nothing more than fiction," Ryan said.

He charged the press with ignoring the issue editorially "because the editor of one newspaper is involved directly as a member of the board, and the other editor has not spoken out in deference to the first. The involvement of the papers makes them opt out of the journalistic role."

TOBIN A TARGET

Ryan was referring to Times Editor Brian Tobin, a library trustee appointed by Saanich.

"Here's a case the Davey commission could look at, where there is an issue vital to the community and the press is completely out of the picture."

Ryan charged the library issue is "full of municipal politics, with four municipalities jockeying for position and the number one casualty is the library."

He suggested some body other than the labor council should come forward to organize a public meeting on the issue.

Ford Estate To Top Court

Disposition of the estate of Victoria millionaire Alan Douglas Ford will be decided by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The British Columbia Appeal Court Wednesday granted leave to the Royal Trust Company, executors of the estate, to appeal its own decision concerning the Ford will.

The Appeal Court in January refused to probate the 1958 will, in which the Victoria millionaire questioned his son's legitimacy and left him only a small part of the estate.

The son, John Douglas Ford, 47, of Australia had appealed against a ruling of the B.C. Supreme Court which declared the 1958 will valid.

In reversing the Supreme Court decision, the B.C. Court of Appeal ruled that the elder Ford, who died in 1967 at the age of 94, was of unsound mind when he made the 1958 will.

Official Nod For Daisy's 'Do'

The B.C. Housing Commission is delighted that Mrs. Daisy Beckett of Blanshard Court is organizing an official opening for the Rose-Blanshard urban renewal project.

Commission chairman Everett Brown said today: "This is a private party arranged by one of our tenants and the commission is very pleased that Mrs. Beckett has taken it on."

Mrs. Beckett has issued invitations to 75 guests for the opening, which will feature a tour of her home at 2667 Blanshard. The opening is slated for Saturday, April 11 at 2 p.m.

Taking part in the ceremonies will be MP David Groos, Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, R. G. Clausin, the commission's regional supervisor; Mayor J. Courtney Haddock, former alderman Robert Baird and the project's resident manager, E. S. Roberts.

BOTH DOING WELL IN SEATTLE

City Man Donates Kidney to Sister

A Victoria man gave a kidney to his sister in a transplant operation Tuesday. Both are doing well.

David Lund, 33, of 3411 Maplewood, has been in Seattle for a week preparing for the operation in Seattle University Hospital.

The Lunds have five children and Lund's sister, Mrs. Steven Adams of Seattle, is the mother of six.

Mrs. Lund reported today that doctors consider the transplant a success.

* * *

"The kidney was working within 10 minutes of the operation. It's quite a miracle. My sister-in-law received no sedation or pain killers and seems to be quite comfortable without them."

Lund, an entomology technician at the Federal Forestry laboratory in Victoria, arrived here recently from Vernon where he had undergone tests for two or three months in preparation for the operation.

His sister is 36.

Another Victoria man, John S. Craddock, 33, of 709 Weans, received a kidney from a 17-year-old motorcyclist victim in an operation at the Vancouver General Hospital.

* * *

Craddock received his new kidney Thursday, March 19 and is still receiving regular treatments from an artificial kidney machine until the transplant is ready to take over normal functions.

Victoria Out in Front As Construction Booms

The construction boom on southern Vancouver Island is continuing, first-quarter building permit figures show.

Increases in Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt and Central Saanich more than offset decreases in Oak Bay, Sidney and Langford-Colwood-Metchosin.

Figures show permits worth $14.7 million were issued in the first quarter of this year compared with $12.3 million in the same period last year.

Victoria tops, with permits worth $6.8 million against $6.3 million last year. Apartments and commercial buildings accounted for close to $3 million.

Saanich was second—$4.9 million against $2.4 million. This reflects some large single permits, for example the $1.6 million University Heights Shopping Centre at McKenzie and Shelbourne.

Langford-Colwood-Metchosin was third—$1,237,950 this year against $1,247,850 last year.

This included permits for 103 houses this year, down two from the first quarter of 1969.

In Saanich, residential construction continued its decline with permits issued for 57 houses and duplexes this year against 80 in the same period last year.

●

Esquimalt issued permits worth $720,539 compared with $437,901 in 1969. Helping boost this year's figures was a $337,600 permit for an apartment building on Cairn Road.

Sidney was down—to $555,441 this year from $673,304 in the first quarter of 1969.

Central Saanich was up—to $458,849 this year from $241,200 in the corresponding period last year.

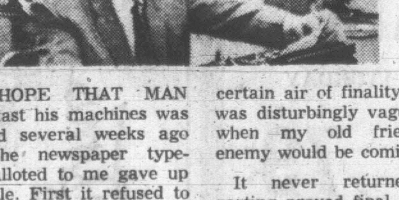
Oak Bay was down sharply—to $105,820 from $1,023,847. This reflects a decline in permits issued for apartments.

Ask The Times

Q. Can you tell me where I can get addresses of servicemen serving in Vietnam who would be willing to correspond with us?—V.N.

A. There is no official address in the United States for this type of exchange although there are Pen Pal clubs in various parts of the country. Your best approach would be to write one of the leading newspapers, such as the New York Times, San Francisco Chronicle or the Los Angeles Times.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.



Arthur Mayse . . .

MY HOPE THAT MAN will outlast his machines was bolstered several weeks ago when the newspaper typewriter alloted to me gave up the battle. First it refused to feed its ribbon through the guides provided for that purpose. Then the little dingus that positions the ribbon ceased to function.

But the triumph of hard-punching forefingers over harder metal was a hollow one. In the ups and downs of our partnership, I had acquired a grudging affection for that elderly, foursquare mill. Generations of newsmen had hammered a personality into it. And in spite of its quirks and fits of temperament, it had rolled out approximately 1,600 columns for me.

I poked around in its works for a while. Then a typewriter man came and lugged it away. He did this with a certain air of finality, and he was disturbingly vague about when my old friend and enemy would be coming back.

It never returned: our parting proved final. Today I am poking cautiously at a sleek replacement of different make and modern styling. Everything on or in it functions smoothly. It doesn't jump letters, and it reverses its ribbon without a helping whack on its flank.

Well, no crocodile mourning for a mere machine. But I wish just once this streamlined, sterile stranger would trip over its type bars, give off a deep-down clatter, and jump its spacing.

As my old one used to!

THE UBC LIBRARY boasts a splendid collection of books on angling and game fishes. Thereby hangs a speckled tale to which a number of distinguished British Columbians have contributed.

The story is told in a beautiful little book compiled by Susan B. Starkman and Stanley E. Read, and brought out in limited edition by Morriss Printing Company Ltd. of Victoria.

Title is "The Contemplative Man's Recreation." To remove any doubts as to what that recreation may be, a nicely-tied trout fly (Professor, wet, on a size 10 hook) is let into the plastic-shielded cover.

The rear portion of the book is given over to a bibliography that fills 75 pages.

Elsewhere, co-compiler Read, in an essay of uncommon charm, explains with the help of various fellow-anglers how the collection was born and grew.

Its father is "The Harry Hawthorn Foundation for the Inculcation and Propagation of the Principles and Ethics of Fly-Fishing," a mock-solemn brotherhood that convenes on likely lakes. Its mother, I gather, was a cutthroat trout.

The foundation, to which anthropologist-angler Harry Hawthorn of UBC lent his name, fines its members for small offence or none. These fines are paid into a book-buying fund.

Another notable essay by Roderick L. Haig-Brown pays tribute to the late Tom Brayshaw, artist and master fly fisherman, whose library forms part of the collection.

May our own University of Victoria be as lucky in its friends!

HERE'S A QUESTION from a reader who has been indulging in some advance worrying:

"If British Columbia Hydro goes ahead with its plan to install a nuclear power plant in the Duncan area, will there be any change in our life insurance picture? Specifically, is there a danger that rates could be raised?"

I passed this query on to a local life insurance expert, who told me that he's aware of no precedent for any such rate increase.

"Anyone who already has a policy in effect," he said, "should be reassured that we would be unable to change its terms in any event."

He was less certain, however, about policies that might be written for this area after a nuclear power plant was installed. That, I gathered, might possibly depend on the type of neighbor the plant in question proved to be.

This is looking some distance ahead, but it might be as well if government clarified that point, and others, soon rather than later.

Tugboat Crews Back to Work

NEW YORK (AP) — Tugboat crews went back to work in New York harbor today after a two-month strike that ended when they agreed to a 53.5-per-cent increase in wages and benefits over three years.

Capt. Joseph O'Hare, president of the 6,000-member Local 333 of the AFL-CIO National Maritime Union, told a ratification meeting Wednesday it was "one of the best, if not the best contract in the country."

The Marine Towing and Transportation Employers Association said the settlement, which includes a 41-per-cent wage increase, was "the greatest package ever granted in the history of the tug industry."

One result of the contract was expected to be an immediate increase in tug hiring rates. From the present $111.50 an hour for a tug to dock a liner at the Hudson River piers the rate is expected to go to about $155 an hour.

The strike began Feb. 1 and made idle 400 tugs. It cost an estimated $35,000,000 in lost revenues and wages but had little direct effect on the general public.

The strikes had originally sought a 100-per-cent boost in base wages of $2.96 an hour for deckhands and $4.03 for captains. They accepted an immediate 20-per-cent wage increase with an additional 10 per cent in each of the next two years for a total 41 per cent with compounding.

Trial Opens Monday On Stolen Bonds

The trial of a Victoria man, charged with being in possession of allegedly stolen B.C. Hydro bonds valued at $7,000, will open in Victoria County Court Monday at 11 a.m.

Rene Talon, 36, of 110 Government Street, will be tried by Judge Montague Drake and a jury of 12 to be selected from a jury panel of 50.

Crown counsel is Cecil O. D. Branson. Dermod Owen-Flood is defending Talon.

This is the first of four or five trials to be held at a general session of the county court, expected to last three weeks.

Mine Workers Affiliate With CLC

Canada's 8,000 miners belonging to United Mine Workers of America have joined the Canadian Labor Congress after a lapse of about 25 years as an affiliate of a national labor body.

The men are members of 28 Canadian locals, of which 16 are in District 18 — 11 in Alberta, four in B.C. and one in Saskatchewan — representing the bulk of western coal miners.

The eastern locals are divided between Nova Scotia, with 11 locals, and New Brunswick with one.

The Canadian districts have been independent since about the Second World War, but were formerly affiliated with the Canadian Congress of Labor, which merged with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in 1956 to become the CLC.

The move by Canadian districts is seen by some as a defensive measure against raiding. Other organized bodies with mining membership in Canada include United Steel Workers of America, also a CLC affiliate, and an independent union.

Steel Workers are certified to hard rock mining operations, UMW to coal mining, according to the CLC.

Oil Removal From Arrow Progresses

ARICHAT, N.S. (CP) — About 675,000 gallons of oil have been removed from the tanks of the sunken stern section of the tanker Arrow, lyiing n 90 feet of water in Nova Scotia's Chedabucto Bay.

A spokesman for the federal task force in charge of the operation, said Tuesday the operation to pump oil out of the tanks into a receiving barge on the surface is going "slowly but surely."

An estimated 1,500,000 gallons of oil was in the stern section when the operation began earlier this month.

The spokesman said the Canadian Coast Guard ship Narwhal, which has been housing military personnel since the operation began, will be replaced today by the Cape Scott, a maintenance ship equipped with a machine shop.

A seven-day test of the lobster population on the south side of the bay ended Tuesday, the spokesman said. All tests showed the lobsters to be free of oil pollution.

The lobster fishing season on the south side of the bay begins April 15.

A similar seven-day test will be carried out on the north side of the bay starting April 13, the spokesman said.

The Arrow grounded on a rock in the bay off here Feb. 4 and broke apart four days later, spewing heavy oil into the water. The oil later spread to cover an estimated 125 miles of the bay's shoreline.

The tanker carried 3,800,000 gallons of oil.

Loot Bagged

CHICAGO (CP) — Three robbers walked into a department store Monday, and while one bought a suitcase for $11.97 the other two robbed a cashier's cage in another part of the store of $21,000. The loot was placed in the suitcase.

Trial Opens Monday On Stolen Bonds

The trial of a Victoria man, charged with being in possession of allegedly stolen B.C. Hydro bonds valued at $7,000, will open in Victoria County Court Monday at 11 a.m.

Rene Talon, 36, of 110 Government Street, will be tried by Judge Montague Drake and a jury of 12 to be selected from a jury panel of 50.

Crown counsel is Cecil O. D. Branson. Dermod Owen-Flood is defending Talon.

This is the first of four or five trials to be held at a general session of the county court, expected to last three weeks.

Forgetting Date Brings a Fine

If the safety decal on your windshield has expired, don't wait for a reminder from the Motor Vehicles Branch to take your car to the testing station on McKenzie Avenue.

Many Victoria motorists have been fined $10 for not taking their cars to the station — and some are indignant about it.

They say were waiting for a "reminder" from the branch.

Others are under the impression there has been a year's extension from the date of expiry on the decal.

"This is not so," a spokesman for the branch said today. "Last year we granted a six-months extension from the date of expiry. That extension period ended on March 1 of this year.

NO MORATORIUM

"As of now, all cars showing an expired date should be taken to the testing station."

Last year's extension has caused some confusion.

To avoid overcrowding and delay, the branch is appealing to motorists to take their cars to be tested somewhat ahead of the expiry date.

Starting last January, the fee for inspecting a motor-vehicle was raised from $1.50 to $1.75.

The re-inspection fee, if a defect is found in the vehicle, remains at 50 cents.

The charge for inspection was increased under an amendment to the Motor Vehicles Act approved by the provincial cabinet.

The act also provides that vehicles which have passed the inspection may be ordered in for further inspection if considered necessary.

Pacific Press Talks Held

VANCOUVER (CP) — Representatives of five newspaper unions involved in the Pacific Press dispute held an exploratory meeting Wednesday with Pen Baskin of the British Columbia mediation commission in a new attempt to resolve the six-week shutdown of Vancouver's two daily newspapers.

Union and company representatives agreed Tuesday to work through the commission and a joint statement said Baskin and Alistair Pollock would be the mediators involved.

Baskin said following Wednesday's meeting that he would discuss the situation with Pollock, who was returning to Vancouver from the U.S. Wednesday night, and they would decide then what the next step would be.

Funeral Set For Victim Of Drowning

Funeral services will be held Monday for a 15-year-old Saanich youth, Donald Griffiths, who drowned Tuesday in Seattle's Lake Washington.

Griffiths, of 3976 Larchwood, and a companion, John Balmer, 20, of 3961 Smuggler's Cove, Saanich, were visiting friends on Mercer Island and were riding in a canoe borrowed from another island resident, when the craft overturned in rough water.

The victim's father Lloyd Griffiths, said the canoe was about 200 feet offshore, when the two realized the water was too rough and started to head back. The boat capsized and both boys started to swim.

Balmer managed to swim ashore and call police, but Griffiths disappeared.

Griffiths described his son as a "strong swimmer" and said he must have had a severe attack of cramps.

A grade 9 student at Gordon Head Secondary School, Donald is survived by his parents, a sister Beverly, 14, and a brother, Keith, 11.

Services will be held Monday at 10:30 a.m. in McCall's Floral Chapel, Rev. Canon Graham Baker officiating. Interment will take place at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Las Vegas Hit By Raging Fire

LAS VEGAS, N.M. (UPI) — A fire touched off by exploding fuel tanks at a commercial gasoline warehouse roared uncontrolled today through a four-block area of downtown Las Vegas.

Authorities said they feared a major explosion. There was no immediate report of any injuries.

Flames reaching 100 feet into the air blocked attempts by firemen to determine if anyone had been trapped in the building.

Montreal Union Plans Strategy

MONTREAL (CP) — Union plans were being kept secret today as unemployed mail truck drivers met to plan strategy in their struggle with the post office for the second consecutive day since the government took over Montreal postal deliveries.

Today's meeting follows a similar gathering Wednesday when more than 400 of the drivers met to discuss possible action while mail in Montreal was being moved by a fleet of 85 rented trucks.

B.C. BRIEFS

Pool Cover, Pub, Given Student Nod

VANCOUVER (CP) — Students at University of British Columbia voted Wednesday to spend up to $200,000 to include a pub in the Student Union Building on the 20,000-student campus.

They also approved spending $6,000 to cover the campus swimming pool. The measures were approved last month but the earlier meeting was ruled invalid because attendance did not constitute a quorum.

Towboat Battle

VANCOUVER (CP) — Union negotiators for 1,200 British Columbia towboat men are advising the crews to reject a contract award recommended by a federal conciliation board.

A strike ballot will be mailed Friday to members of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, guild negotiating chairman Arnie Davis, said today in an interview.

Davis said union leaders have unanimously rejected the award.

He said major issues of manning, towboat accommodation and wages remain unsatisfactory, despite a recent clarification of the board's report ordered by Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey.

On wages, the guild wants a $200-a-month across-the-board increase on rates that range now from $583 to $980. The board recommendation is for 10 per cent a year for two years, with a minimum first-year increase of $70.

Rejection Urged

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian Union of Public Employees has recommended rejection of a 14 per cent wage increase in a two-year contract offered by six Greater Vancouver municipalities.

Jack Phillips, CUPE spokesman, said Wednesday that 98 executive members and job stewards involved in negotiations have recommended rejection of the offer.

The municipal labor relations bureau, negotiators for Vancouver, Richmond, North Vancouver City and district, Burnaby and New Westminster, said the offer was for a seven per cent increase this year and seven per cent next year.

Budget Cut

CRESTON (CP) — School trustees in District 86 Wednesday announced a $32,000 cut from instruction funds following the defeat two weeks ago of a $52,000 operating costs referendum. Also eliminated was $21,000 allotted for operation, maintenance and transport as well as $7,400 for building projects at Prince Charles secondary school.

Work Starts Soon on Home For Elderly

Work will begin soon on a $750,000 non-profit home for elderly people planned by the Anglican diocesan council for social service.

The Anglican Church Women have donated $100,000 towards the cost of construction and the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has approved a loan of $627,000.

The home will be built on a 5.7 acre site at Arrow Road and Cedar Hill Road near a new shopping centre. It will house 96 men and women, single or married.

"Engineering surveys have been completed and plans are now being drawn up," Canon Grahame Baker, chairman of the Anglican diocesan council for social service, said today.

"We hope to call for tenders soon."

The new home will replace the Caroline Macklem Home on Rockland Avenue.

$160,000 Stolen

SAO PAULO, Brazil (Reuters) — A heavily-armed guerrilla group in a fleet of five cars held up a bank truck here Tuesday and escaped with $160,000. The robbery followed several other similar holdups in the city in the last few weeks.

BEACH CLEAN-UP SUNDAY MORNING

COBBLE HILL — A cleanup will be held Sunday starting at 10 a.m. on Cherry Point Beach, South Cowichan Recreation Commission decided at a meeting held at George Bonner School.

The commission has also requested that the department of highways install one of their distinctive garbage gobbler trash cans at the beach and arrange for regular pickup service.

Correspondence with the government to designate the beach as a Class C park or bird sanctuary did not lead to a satisfactory decision, the commission said.

Brentwood College has granted use of its outdoor pool for Red Cross swim classes again this year.

Sidney Concert For Naden Band

Canada's newest sea cadet corps, RCSCC Admiral Budge, will get a financial shot in the arm next week when the popular Naden Band performs at Sanscha Hall in Sidney.

The fledgling corps has been struggling to raise money for six months and proceeds from the performance will go towards renovating their quarters at Pat Bay.

The concert will be Firday, April 10 at 8 p.m.

Certificates Presented

A total of 188 scouts from all parts of the province were to be presented with Queen Scout certificates by Lt.-Gov. John Nicholson at a Government House ceremony today.

The ceremony was to open with an address by Robert Simmons of Vancouver, assistant provincial commissioner.

The Queen Scouts include 21 from Victoria and district.

Queen Scout Robert Buchan of the 1st Douglas Troop, thanked the Queen's representative at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Earlier the scouts attended a luncheon at the Empress Hotel, also attended by the lieutenant-governor, patron of the provincial association.

It was chaired by Dr. S. L. Williams, president of the Boy Scout Association.

Legislature Pushes Bills Through

It was a busy day in the legislature Wednesday: A total of 19 bills were given third reading and five other bills passed through section by section examination in committee of the whole.

Among the bills considered and passed were amendments to the Pollution Control Act that apply to air pollution; the amendment to the Hospital Act that gives the cabinet power to appoint a public administrator over hospitals in "administrative difficulties"; the Land Act; an act establishing a municipal financing authority to raise funds through sale of bonds for the construction of sewer, water and pollution control facilities; and amendments to the Landlord and Tenant Act.

The legislative program of the government is thus near completion with only five bills to be reported, although there are 20 private members bills, and an Act Respecting Hearing Aid Dealers that has yet to be given second reading.

The private members bills are mostly from the opposition.

WASHINGTON 'WAR VICTORY' MARCH SLATED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of a march for "victory over the Communists in Vietnam" estimated today anywhere from 25,000 to 150,000 persons will parade here Saturday.

They said people are coming from 43 states for the march down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Washington Monument grounds for a 2 to 5 p.m. rally.

It's the same route an estimated 250,000 anti-war demonstrators, most of them youths, took last Nov. 15,

POLICE SEEK VANISHED RECEIPTS

City police are investigating the disappearance of about $1,100 from a downtown restaurant.

A spokesman said the money represented two days receipts from Hy's Steak House, 777 Douglas, and went missing sometime since Saturday.

He added that a breaking and entering was not involved.

PARTS OF FEDERAL LAW 'NEVER PROPERLY PROCLAIMED'

Breath Test Ruled Invalid

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Supreme Court today ruled the federal compulsory breath test law invalid.

Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe, hearing an appeal by David Story of Vancouver, against conviction for having a blood-alcohol content higher than .08 per cent, said certain parts of the legislation were never properly proclaimed.

He said specifically that a provision that would have required police to provide an accused person with a breath sample for testing by his own analyst was not proclaimed.

The legislation, which came into effect Dec. 1, makes breath tests compulsory for persons suspected of impaired driving. Persons refusing the breath test can be charged with failing to take one.

Mr. Justice Munroe said the law, without the provision for a second sampling, was possibly detrimental to an accused person.

APPEAL

City prosecutor Stewart McMorran said he would appeal the ruling.

Mr. Story's lawyer, R. P. Anderson of Vancouver, told the court the law was "legislation by cabinet."

Vote Defeat Feared

By JIM HUME

Mayor Courtney Haddock surprised his city council this morning by expressing fears for the fate of a $5,570,000, five-year capital budget.

A few days ago Haddock agreed that the five-year master plan, trimmed by $3,018,000 from the proposal put to the people and defeated last June, should be voted on April 30.

This morning he was reported as saying he had doubts "that this is the right time to place the budget before the voters."

Ald. Peter Pollen, a member of the select committee studying budget proposals, said he was "surprised that the mayor would make that remark. That is, unless he knows something I don't know.

SHOULD STAND FIRM

"I think we have a good plan here, and I think we should stand firmly behind it."

Ald. Harold Olafson said he found it difficult to believe Haddock had actually made the statement.

"He's chairman of the committee," he said. "He's the one who was to make the presentation to city council this afternoon and recommend adoption of his proposals.

"How can he agree to a date, ask us to endorse his committee's recommendation and then, even before he actually does that, tell us he thinks the vote will be negative.

INVITING DEFEAT

"I'm just bewildered. It seems to me to be inviting defeat."

Ald. Cecil Parrott, another member of the mayor's special policy review committee, said he was "very disappointed in the mayor's statement."

He added that if property

Whooping, Yelling Indians Recapture Seattle Fort

By BOB MITCHELL
Times Staff

SEATTLE — The United States Army was caught flat-footed today as Indians, camped outside Fort Lawton, suddenly invaded the 1,100 acre military establishment for the third time in a month.

An estimated 50 to 75 Indians, about one-quarter of them Canadian, dashed through the fort gates only moments after their leader, Bernie Whitebear, shook hands cordially with the fort commander, a Captain Siegurst.

Siegurst came outside the gates to congratulate the Indian picketers on the announcement they would dismantle their camp today.

But as the teepees and tents were being taken down, Whitebear announced to television cameras and tape recorders the camp would be relocated — inside the fort.

And with whoops and yells the young Indians sprinted though the gates and into the forested, park-like fort.

"Bernie, you're playing games again," shouted a despairing military policeman as he began to mobilize his men for search and arrest of the Indians.

By 11 a.m. several demonstrators had been arrested by military police.

Four attorneys were stationed outside the fort this morning to provide legal assistance for demonstrators arrested by military authorities, and Indians who went inside were instructed to name one of the attorneys and request legal aid.

But Indian leaders charged military police are denying that prisoners have requested legal aid.

They said this was a delaying tactic on the part of the military, and volunteers are going over the fort fences with the specific intent of getting arrested. Presumably they will be placed in the same cells with other prison-

Critically-Sick Baby Stolen In Well-Planned Hospital Raid

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A two-day-old girl reported to be in serious condition with a blood disease was forcibly taken from Kingston General Hospital today by a group of people who entered the hospital in early morning darkness.

The child had been admitted Wednesday night after being made a ward of the Children's Aid Society and was to have undergone a blood transfusion.

Dr. D. J. Delahaye said the infant "should have been treated early this morning and every hour that passes increases the risk of brain damage."

City and provincial police are searching for the infant.

Dr. Delahaye said the baby was suffering a hemolytic disease — a disease of the blood due to the difference in blood type between mother and baby.

He said the infant was taken into care by the Children's Aid Society at Smiths Falls, 55 miles northeast of here, because of the "mother's unwillingness to have the baby receive a blood transfusion."

The parents of the child apparently are members of the Jehovah's

Israeli Forces Attack Syria

Times News Services

Israel launched a major air and land attack against Syria today along the entire length of the 50-mile Golan Heights cease-fire line. The 7½-hour battle was the heaviest since the 1967 war.

Israel said its jets shot down three Syrian MiG 21s which rose to intercept the waves of Israeli planes concentrating on 15 Syrian artillery and seven anti-aircraft batteries in the Rafid area 25 miles south of Qneitr and 40 miles below Damascus. Israel said it lost one plane. It was believed to be a Phantom, the first loss of an F4.

GROUND BATTLE

Syrian communiques reported "large formations" of Syrian jets battled with Israeli planes while ground forces of the two nations pounded each other with tank and artillery fire.

Arab and Israeli troops were trading fire along the entire ceasefire line, said a Syrian military spokesman.

Syrian MiG fighters were trying to prevent Israel's aerial strafing of Syrian artillery positions, the spokesman added.

Syrian field artillery and armored units kept up a heavy barrage against Israeli positions in eight front-line areas.

Meanwhile in London, England, a highly-regarded international organization of jurists reported Wednesday it had "prima facie evidence on the serious maltreatment of Arab prisoners" in Israel.

The charge of "extremely brutal torture" was made by Amnesty International, an organization composed mainly of lawyers which enjoys a reputation for impartiality and care in its procedures and statements.

Casualties Shoot Up In S. Viet Battles

SAIGON (CP) — The offensive by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong continued at a high level today in South Vietnam, sending U.S. casualties toward a high for the year,

In one battle casualties suffered by the Americans were the heaviest in two years.

Eighteen more Americans were reported killed and 138 were wounded in more than half-a-dozen battles and 65 rocket and mortar attacks today.

Twice as many rocket and mortar attacks had been reported in the previous 24 hours, the largest number in eight months.

Battlefield communiques reported 61 Americans, 101 South Vietnamese and 552 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops killed in the last 38 hours. The American dead included a brigadier-general, the fifth U.S. general killed in the Vietnam war.

THE VICTIMS of Greater Victoria's patchwork approach to the vital function of public transit are the people who depend upon it. Seemingly interminable waits at bus stops, time-consuming transfers . . .. could problems be eliminated by making transit a function of civic government rather than B.C. Hydro? (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

AT ROOT OF TRANSIT WOES

Who Should Run the Buses?

By JOHN MIKA
(Second of a Series)

Most communities have a transportation "network" of some sort.

Greater Victoria only has a disjointed "fretwork" — obvious to the newcomer but often forgotten by the long-time resident who has learned to adjust to frustrations until they seem natural and ordained.

That's only one of the by-products of an artificial patchwork of self-proud parochialism which demands expression through expensive and unco-ordinated million-dollar showpieces like Victoria's Blanshard freeway to nowhere.

Buses Afterthought

Saanich has provided the most recent example in its spanking new $1.2 million Mackenzie Avenue east-west artery, completed years ahead of the schedule suggested by the $70,000 regional transportation study report of 1965.

Typical of all local councils in this area, after the road was widened and punched through, the Saanich aldermen realized that transit buses play a part in moving people too, so they asked B.C. Hydro to put a cross-town loop into service using Mackenzie Avenue.

The importance of a cross-town bus service — strongly urged by the 1965 report as a valuable supplement to the existing radial system of routes — was underlined this year when the Silver Threads also made a strong pitch to Hydro's local transit manager H. K. Halls for a Mackenzie bus service.

Halls agrees that a cross-town route is needed but the Mackenzie route "is at least five years ahead of time from a transit point of view," he said in an interview.

Four new buses (each $35,000) would be needed and the daily operating cost of the proposed route would run to $1,600 but the best estimate of passenger load is 400 persons a day — bringing in $100 at most.

"Putting a service on Mackenzie would mean adding $200,000 to our annual operating loss and I just couldn't recommend that to my principals," Halls said.

"But there is a cross-town route that I could recommend now — it would run from Dockyard to the Mayfair Shopping Centre, along Finlayson to the new Simpsons-Sears Shopping Centre, up Shelbourne and then across to the university campus and the Gordon Head area.

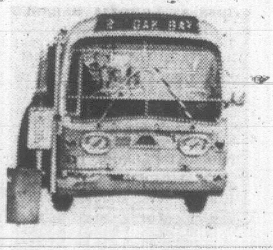
Joint Effort

"That would give us at least three major traffic generators to sustain reasonable passenger revenues and all it would require is that the municipalities fill a few of the gaps in the street system."

The irony is that the 1965 transportation study recommended that those less costly gaps be filled before completion of Mackenzie. But they haven't been undertaken yet and one can't avoid the suspicion the main reason is they would require a joint effort by Victoria and Saanich.

The tragedy is that Saanich never asked Halls how transit could fit in before it decided to build its pride and joy, the $1.2 million Mackenzie Avenue matcher to the city's Blanshard extravaganza.

Mackenzie's expensive expansion is useful and traffic counts suggest it has doubled cross-town driving by some



2,500 vehicle round trips a day — giving faster routing to perhaps 3,500 individuals.

But would more people have been served by a less-expensive expansion of Tattersal (all within Saanich too and also recommended by the 1965 consultants report) or a joint effort with the city in developing the Finlayson-Shelbourne-Gordon Head route?

We'll never know now — simply because Saanich never asked transit operators when it was planning a cross-town route even though its choice (if it even considered alternatives) involved juggling the recommended priority schedule.

Saanich's resulting protests, that B.C. Hydro was unco-operative because it wouldn't run buses after Mackenzie was built, sound hollow.

The same communication and planning gaps have prevented transit service from being improved economically in other areas, Halls says. Closing Bay Street at Veteran's Hospital blocked off a potentially feasible bus route once the Eric Martin Institute and burgeoning office-store developments were in operation beyond the hospital.

Nobody consulted him when that was planned either, so its impact on the transit service never was measured to see if it would make a difference worth consideration.

People Losers

There exists a built-in planning gap on roads that cross municipal boundaries, not only in routing but in such fundamental construction decisions as to whether to build a skimpy base for asphalt that leads to another municipality or installing a stronger base needed for carrying buses over unstable ground, such as the Fairfield bogland that straddles the Oak Bay-Victoria boundary.

Municipal councils may score points against each other in parochial battles, but the people they represent end up losers through higher costs and poorer transportation service.

The blame doesn't rest on municipal engineers and administrative officals but on the prevalent system of making decisions which ignore three-quarters of the larger community outside a given municipality and even ignore the transit buses within its own boundaries.

David Campbell, the city's traffic engineer, summed up the point of view of a professional who has to agonize through this situation, when he made his special report to Mayor Haddock's new policy committee two months ago.

"So long as within our (separate divisions) we are concerned, each individually, with trying to optimize parts of the over-all transportation system, we will fail collectively," Campbell warned.

"Under a regional umbrella . . . the taxing, financing and planning of the transportation system not only has to be regional in nature but it must include all modes of transportation and be handled under one administrative structure.

What Benefits?

"Otherwise, the most efficient total transportation system is an impossibility."

This approach, naturally, would be neater but what would the benefits be?

The initial benefit would be to integrate — for the first time — the transit operations and planning with the road and traffic control system, no mean advantage when, on a per capita basis, the "average" resident of this region rides a transit bus about 70 times every year.
